MISCELLANEOUS.

INFLUENCE OF LITTLE THINGS.—It is remarkable how little is required to excite a love of horticultural pursuits, even in situations supposed to deaden the higher class of emotions. A story is told of a whole village in the Highlands being stimulated to enter on a course of improvement, from the simple circumstance of a lady one day expressing her admiration of a single marigold, which grew in the neglected garden of one of the cottagers. "Is it possible," thought the proprietor of this little flower, "that anything I have in my poor garden is worthy of the approval of a lady? If so, I will endeavour to make things better; I will try my hand at a few more flowers." Thus reasoning, the cottager began to occupy himself in his garden; neighbours followed his example; a spirit of rivalry was begun, and lo! in a short time, the whole village, interior and exterior, assumed quite an improved aspect—clean doorways, walls nicely decorated with flowers, and a general advancement in all matters of taste. Now, this anecdote, which rests on authority, affords a pretty fair specimen of what may be done by a little judiciously administered approbation acting upon a spirit of honourable competition. —Philadelphia Post.

DANGER OF SLEEPING IN MEETING.—In one of our churches, an old gentleman, a worthy gentleman of the Christian persuasion fell asleep and began dreaming that he was on a hunting excursion. All of a sudden and to the astonishment of everybody, he bellowed out,—"Fetch him, Dash! a glorious shot—three woodcocks with one barrel! hurrah for me;" and he rose up from his seat and cheered lustily. He woke himself by his hallooing, and immediately seized his hat and walked out, blushing like a red pepper.—Cincinnati paper

PORT JACKSON.—The anecdote told of Cook having overlooked this harbour is worth relating. One day whilst the great navigator was at dinner in his cabin, a seaman of the name of Jackson happened to have the look-out at the masthead, and seeing the narrow opening now termed "Sydney Heads," forthwith announced a harbour on the larboard beam.—The intelligence was duly conveyed to Captain Cook, who was in no great hurry to quit his dinner, and when he did so the entrance to the harbour, from the speed with which the ship was going through the water, was nearly shut in. Being unable to see any of the indications which would have led him to suspect the presence of a harbour of any magnitude, Captain Cook is said to have soundly rated the seaman at the masthead for his false report, whilst the man as firmly adhered to his statement. "Well," said the commander with a sneer, "we will call the harbour by your name, Port Jackson;' and as port Jackson it was marked down in the ships's log, with the additional appellation of "boat harbour. The vigilance of the seaman was thus unconsciously rewarded by his name becoming immortalized.—Gold Colonies of Australia

NATURAL GAS.—The Holmes County(Ohio) Farmer states that a wonderful natural curiosity has been discovered in that county, in the shape of natural gas The discovery was made on the farm of a Mr. Purdy, some eight or ten rods south of the house, in a curious kind of earth resembling dark sawdust. The owner, for years, has been aware of the existence of some wonderful phenomena. The place on which the discovery has been made, has been cultivated for a number of years, and it has been observed that in a number of places every thing planted or sown, and all kinds of vegetation, would dwindle and die, and seemingly turn up. After the late rains, the water was discovered to be agitated, and to bubble up in a number of places, which led Mr. Purdy and others to experiment, by collecting a bottle of this gas and setting it on fire. When the instant a lighted match was touched to it, the vapour ignited, and sent the bottle whizzing through the house.

DISCOVERY OF ROMAN MEDALS.—Recently, as a young girl was digging in the garden of a farm at St. Paul de Varax, (Ain,) in France, she turned up a Roman tile, under which was a vase full of medals, but so corroded and stuck together, that it was necessary to break the vessel to get them out. The medals were found to be four hundred in number, nineteen of them in bronze, and the rest in silver. Twenty-five of them, on being cleaned, were found to were the effigy and name of the Roman Emperors Alexander Severus, Maximus, Gordian, Philip, Decius, and Gallien, who succeeded each other from the commencement to the middle of the third century, (from 222 to 268 after Christ.) The same vase contained jewels, two chains, and seven rings in gold, in a perfect state of preservation. There were also two necklaces. One, formed of fine rings, is in perfect preservation. It is terminated by a small ornament like a wheel, the centre of which is formed of an emerald, with a gold clasp, similar to those now in use. The other, which is incomplete, is ornamented with small stones, or pieces of glass. The rings found are large but not very massive. They are ornamented with agates, engraved with various devices, which are very finely executed.—London Galignani

STITCHING SHOES BY MACHINERY.—A Bridgewater correspondent of the "Plymouth Memorial" states that the introduc[illegible]n of sewing machines for stitching shoes [illegible]ecoming quite common. One establish[illegible]t in Abington uses no less than six. It [illegible]id that an operator with the machine, [illegible]titch in a day more than ten times the [illegible]t usually accomplished by a "stitch[illegible]nd that the cost is very materially [illegible]d.

Gleason's Pictorial Drawing Room Companion,
PUBLISHED IN BOSTON, MASS.,

WILL commence on the 1st of January, 1853, a new Volume—being Volume IV—of this elegant illuminated Journal. It will appear with new type, new heading, and splendidly improved in every department, besides which, the price is to be greatly reduced. The publisher is resolved to commence the new year with a circulation of one hundred thousand, and, therefore, offers the most liberal inducements to clubs. Realizing the spirit of the age, the great improvement in art, and the constantly increasing intelligence of the people, the publisher, with this change of prices, will vastly improve his already splendidly illustrated journal. Especially will a great improvement be manifested in the engraving department, as well as in the literary character of the paper; so that the Pictorial shall appear in a style, not only to merit all the encomiums of praise so lavishly bestowed upon t, bnt also as to challenge increased respect for its enhanced excellence and perfection. In short, the whole paper will be far superior to anything ever yet offered to the public by the publisher. By referring to the following list, which forms a part only of the regular contributors to the Pictorial, its high literary chaarcter will at once be understood.
