

More about "That Glass."

The facts known are, that Messrs. Dodd and Rogers, in defiance of the law securing the Independence of Parliament, contracted with the Government for supply of Chance's No. 1 Glass for the Lunatic Asylum; that the glass was to be supplied and delivered on or before the 1st day of September last; that long subsequent to that date an instalment of Chance's No. 2 glass was supplied; that the EXAMINER exposed the fraud; that the glass was withdrawn and taken away; that no glass of the quality and weight specified has been supplied; that, in all probability no such glass will be supplied this year, and that the Government of which the Hon. Thomas W. Dodd—one of the contracting parties—is a member, has taken no steps whatever towards righting the flagrant wrong done the competing firms and the public. No defence of the Government or of Messrs. Dodd & Rogers has been made. No explanation has been afforded a very much interested public. It was, indeed, whispered about among partisans easily duped that the delivery of the No. 2 glass was all a mistake; that it was intended for the new School, and was sent out to the Asylum without the order or the knowledge of anyone in particular. The unlikelihood of thirty-two ounce glass being required for a school-house, and the fact that the glass actually required for the new school-house by the terms of the contract, is the best twenty one ounce glass—and not Chance's No. 2, thirty-two ounce glass—doubtless account for the secrecy with which this excuse was circulated among the faithful.

But even the "faithful" must doubt, when they learn that the glass supplied by Messrs. Dodd & Rogers for the new school-house, is not Chance's No. 2-32 oz. glass—but that it is so poor in quality that the trustees and the architect have been obliged to reject a great part of it!

PREPARATIONS FOR THE RECEPTION—ARRIVAL OF MINISTERS AND NEWSPAPER MEN AND OTHER DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.

IN Halifax all is now activity and expectation.

ARCHES.

The following Arches, in honor of the Governor-General and the Princess, are erected:—

A cross arch from the corners of Granville and George Streets—Kenny's, Connolly's, Newman's and Province Building area—cost $500.

An arch is erected across Hollis street from the Post Office to the Province Building fence.

St. Andrew's Church Society have erected an arch in front of the Manse.

Capt. D'Arcy Irvine of the "Bellophophon" has erected an arch in front of his house, 31 Hollis Street.

A cross arch is put up at the crossing of Granville and Buckingham streets from the respective corners of Scott, Duffus, Silver and Brown.

A number of gentlemen residing on Spring Garden Road, just west of Queen Street, have up a costly arch there.

An arch has been erected at the corner of George and Granville Streets.

The firemen are erecting a ladder arch in front of the Central Engine House.

OTHER DECORATIONS.

J. B. Morrow has erected a very large flag-staff in front of his residence on Brunswick street.

The two gates on the east side of Hollis Street leading into the area in front of the Provincial Building, as well as the East and West doors, are decorated, and the interior of the building is decorated with bunting, plants in pots, &c.

The members of the Reform Club and their lady friends have decorated the front of their new building.

At the Railway Depot, North street, the officials are doing heroic work in the decoration line. From all the elevated points flags will fly in day time, and lanterns will shine by night. Flags have been arranged for, in festoons, from the centre tower flag staff to the smaller towers. And these will be replaced by lamps in the evening. Inside the preparations are elaborate and attractive. Engine lights will flash their rays from different directions, and lines of lanterns will light up the interior in addition to the usual brilliant illumination. The arms of the Public Works Department will be handsomely blazed and decorated. In fact no light has been left undone to make a display that will be long remembered by the distinguished guests. The cars being prepared, and every preparation made for a successful demonstration.

The Rifle.

ENGINEERS VICTORIOUS.

SOME few weeks ago ten members of No. 3 Company of active Militia of Charlottetown challenged any ten members of active Militia of any other Company on the Island to shoot a match on Kensington Rifle Range, for a sum of not less than $50 or exceeding $100—Ranges 200, 400, 500 and 600 yards—7 shots at each range, and hoped that this laudable intention be carried out. And to further this object ten members of the Royal Engineers accepted their challenge to fire a match on their own conditions on Kensington Range on the 21st November, for a sum of $50 a side. The match accordingly took place on Thursday, and resulted in a victory for the Royal Engineers of 17 points. The following is the score of each man:—

Royal Engineers: Maj. G. L. Doherty, Lieut. A. Horne, Sergt. W. B. Davison, Sapper L. Hooper, B. Hooper, Sergt. E. McDougall, Sapper John Coombs, W. D. McGowan, J. Heartz, J. Cameron. Total: 827.

No. 3 Company: Capt. Longworth, Sergt. Allen, Corpl. Crawford, Pte. John Crockett, Pte. D. Davies, Ensign D. Stewart, Sergt. McIntire, Sergt. V. Longworth, Pte. D. Harper, Corpl. E. McGregor. Total: 810.

CONVICTION.—On Wednesday, the 13th inst., Nicholas Robinson, of Lot 48, was convicted and fined before J. R. Bourke, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for Queen's County, in the sum of fifty cents with costs, for forbidding, interrupting and using abusive and threatening language towards Rev. Mr. Maggs, when in the execution of his duty as a minister of the Gospel, when interring the remains of Miss Bollun at the churchyard at Birch Hill, Lot 49, and when solicited to do so by the parents of the deceased. Millview, Lot 49, Nov. 18, 1878. (Argus please copy.)

A WESTERN exchange says:—"In view of the great success which has attended the system of business inauguration by John McDonald & Co., of Toronto, who employ no travellers, but depend solely on advertising, for the sale of their goods, it is surprising that more firms do not adopt the same plan. In Chicago, dispensing with travellers and sending in advertising the money thus saved is becoming much more general than it has been, and the press of that city is jubilant over the statement made by the proprietors of one of the largest wholesale grocery houses, who some time ago discharged 10 travellers, who it had kept on at an expense of about $40,000, the result being that business ceased to pay. Last year, after the change in their system, they spent $10,000 in advertising, and claim a profit on the year's transaction of $130,000."

The Ottawa Herald says that it looks very like an explosion of bucolic bile (on the part of the Hamilton Times) to object to the people of Ottawa endeavoring to make the Capital of Canada a pleasant residence for the daughter of the Queen and her husband. We are as opposed, adds the Herald, to pomp, ceremony and formal parade as any one can be, but we have, at the same time, a strong sense of the fitness of things, and so long as Canada pleases to accept the shadow of royalty as the visible fountain of honor, we are bound to respect it, and in so doing, respect ourselves.

Remarkable Longevity.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Nov. 4, 1878.

SIR,—Having published my former supplement to your leader on "Longevity" in America, I venture once more among the tombs. At Wood Islands, in the southern section of Queen's County, on this island, there is a "god's acre," on the farm of Portland Chief Taylors' father, where rest until the resurrection morn the ashes of hospitable husbands and thrifty wives, with tender little ones, whose "cradle breath" has wafted its flight to a better land, and young men and maidens, whom the fell scourge of consumption made its early victims. When the "plot" was laid off and the first occupant lowered to his "narrow house," the good old folks thought it was too distant from the sand-beach—the early and circuitous highway of the first settlers—and in a sad and melancholy mood, with pilgrim associations, they sat down and discussed the question "would they ever see the forest cleared so far back from the shore?" Not a few of them lived to witness what they dared not hope. Now thriving settlements succeed each other from the Straits of Northumberland to the Gulf of St. Lawrence; intersecting roads connect for miles on every hand; the forest is disappearing with the progress of a prairie fire, oats, wheat, barley, potatoes and turnips are profitable successors of birch, beech, maple, and hemlock trees, and the quiet and comfortable houses of freshholders—on 50 or 100 acres, often more—occupy the sections where the American bear once was "monarch of all he surveyed." Though dead, "the fathers" still speak. In the burying plot to which I refer slumber the remains of an honest, hardy stock, mostly from Argyll, Ross, and the Western Isle. James Munn's headstone gives his age at 84; Elizabeth McMillan, his wife, 87; James McMillan, her brother, 78; Ann Munn, his wife, 82; Grace McMillan—Callum Eachan—96; Malcolm McNeill, his wife, 74; Malcolm, his son—Callum Og—73; John Bell, 84; Mrs. McAlder, 85; Mrs. McMillan, 84; Mrs. John Bell—A McMillan—82; Duncan McMillan, 76; Ann McInnes, wife of Allan McMillan, 96; and Malcolm McLeod, said to be 102. Among the living is Roderick McNeill, a Colonsay man, hale and hearty at 86. I believe these people were all related by blood or marriage. In the New World "the sweat of their brow" was their only inheritance, and they entered upon it with the hope, faith, and courage of pioneers. The absence of city pleasures and their concomitants let them the blessings of a hard pay's work, and a good night's sleep. Yours, &c., C.

[We copy the above from the Scottish American Journal, one of the leading newspapers of the day, and especially an organ for the sons of the heather in this Canada of ours. "C." has omitted a "father," whom, we think, he would like to have added to the list. Mr. Alexander McMillan, of Little Sands—whose son is one of the leading mechanics of Pictou—died at 82, and sleeps with his kin at Wood Islands. He belonged to the able-bodied and good-looking McMillan family. The object of this notice was as hardy and courageous as he was hospitable. He made ninety-nine trips from the Island to Nova Scotia with the winter mails, and once, on foot, he carried them to Halifax from Pictou on his back. He accomplished his laborious 100-mile journey in three days. He was son of the Callum Eachan above named. Such was the mail communication of half a century ago.]

Mr. Malcolm McIsaac—in whose house the late venerated Bishop McEachern often officiated to Catholics and Protestants alike—is a departed Highlander whose name is closely associated with the southern section of Queen's County. We believe his remains rest in the Vernon River Cemetery.
