ENGLISH JERSEY.
Model Dairy Cow According to the British Idea.
At the last Southampton show in England Jersey cows made a notable display, both as to numbers and quality. One of the Rothschilds is a special breeder of these cattle at his country place, Tring Park, Herts. Lord Rothschild's Jersey cow Gipsy Queen II took first prize at Southampton. Her picture is here given. A dairy cow of that beefy build would have been nowhere at a fair in the United States, but ideals differ. It was that beefy build itself, added to her unusual size, that helped Gipsy Queen II get first prize. She is of a fawn color and is 5 years old. A description of the cow in the London Live Stock Journal praises her capacities under. To the American eye, however, her udder is the reverse of capacious.

GIPSY QUEEN II.
Cement Floor For Stable.
My barn is 30 by 51, no basement. Running through the center is an alley 8 feet wide, cows standing facing out. Back of them on each side of the alley is a trench 16 inches wide and 8 inches deep, a decline from side of barn to trench of 2 inches.
This, with a Bidwell stall, gives a feeding alley in front of the cows of about 3 feet. While it is claimed that the cows would not back out over the trench, I, for more security, have a rope with a snap back of each one.
The entire floor is grouted and made as follows: Underneath all is a layer of stone, then 8 inches of broken stone, covered with 4 inches of good grout, made of two parts of clear cut sand and one part good water lime made thin enough to thoroughly fill all space between the stone and well tamped, then covered with three-fourths of an inch of cement.
On top edge of trench use a 2 by 4 Norway pine, anchored with strap iron—this to prevent the edges chipping off. Use a straight edge putting on the cement and be sure not to let it dry too quickly. I use a sprinkler pot and wet the floor every day for at least ten days. Also do not let the sun reach it in drying. It must dry slowly to prevent cracking. Mine, after three years' use, does not show the first crack.
In the trench I use chaff or land plaster as an absorbent, and the trench being water tight everything is saved. The alley is wide enough to drive through, and manure is taken out at once to the farm.
My barn is the above size, as I had just such a place for it, and gives me 20 stalls, a box stall, a calf pen and two feed boxes. The entire room above is for storage of hay.—E. M. McChesney in Hoard's Dairyman.

KLONDIKE!
The Land of Golden Nuggets

JOSEPH LADUE, the new Bonanza King of the Klondike Gold Regions, gives the facts. His book reads like "The Arabian Nights" BUT Joseph Ladue KNOWS whereof he writes. He was the first man on the spot when the first gold was discovered last August 1896. He located one rich claim, and immediately purchased twelve others at a low price before their value was known. He has refused $100,000 for any ONE of these claims, as they are rich with virgin gold nuggets beyond the dreams of avarice. Joseph Ladue then at the mouth of the Klondyke and Yukon Rivers, by erecting the first house in the region in September, one month after the gold was first discovered. He bought 178 acres from the government on the city site where his town lots, 150x50, are now selling for $5,000 each.

Established Dawson City,

Mr. Ladue was fortunate enough to be successful in his trading post investments to have on hand ample capital to carry out his plans, and there is no man living who is better posted on Alaska and the great North West Territories than Mr. Joseph Ladue. He has just returned from that country to his old home in Schuyler Falls, N. Y., where he passed a large portion of his boyhood and early manhood. Mr. Ladue left his home nearly twenty years ago to seek his fortune in the West, going first to the Black Hills, where he was successful in gold mining, thence to Arizona and the Pacific Coast, and finally located in Alaska and the North West, where he has covered almost the entire country since 1882. Mr. Ladue is a typical pioneer; strong, hardy and resolute—a man of iron as one must needs to be to go through the hardships he has and come out with a constitution unbroken and unimpaired at the age of about forty-three. Mr. Ladue has not only worked his muscles to good advantage to himself with the result of an abundance of the world's goods far beyond the dreams of men, but he has evidently all his time been closely observing the conditions of that strange country—the Yukon Valley—which has so suddenly become one of the great centres upon which human interest throughout the world is focussed.

When the wonderful stories began to come down from the Yukon country it was naturally concluded that it was at least half exaggeration. That any such amount of gold could be taken in so short a time from a country like that under the most unfavorable conditions was held to be incredible. But when the great bags of virgin gold began to be poured out upon mint counters in San Francisco under the eyes of the whole world (for modern journalism does this, annihilating time and space), people began to wonder, and the wonder grew day by day as the real facts were disclosed, and now people who are well informed as to the facts declare that half the truth has not been told of the golden treasures of the Yukon Valley.

As we have already said, there is no man alive today who knows more about this wonderful country than does Mr. Ladue. What makes his talk of it specially interesting and reliable is the fact that his knowledge of it is practical. It has not been gained from hearsay nor from desolatory visits made now and then at certain favorable seasons of the year, but from steady living there through the long summer days and the long winter nights year in and year out for 15 years, where he now owns the best mining claims on the Klondyke and its tributaries.

In presenting his book to the public we do so knowing that it is by an authority on the subject of which he writes. His first work entitled

is a brief description of the new gold regions, and anyone desiring authentic information should not fail to avail themselves of our

which places the facts in the possession of our customers. REMEMBER, that our office is the sole distributing point for this locality, having closed exclusive arrangements with Mr. Ladue's publishers.
The cover of the work is beautifully printed in red and gold, the gold showing one of the author's nuggets as nearly as it is possible to reproduce it on paper.

It is easy to secure a copy of "KLONDIKE NUGGETS."
Cut out the Coupon and follow instructions:
