

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 28, 1890.

First Legislative Council District of King's County.

The two candidates in this District, Messrs. Dingwell and Hooper, are now before the electors. A choice must be made on Wednesday next. Mr. Dingwell is a supporter of the present Local and Dominion Governments. If elected, he will be placed in a position to which he can be of service to his constituents. The Opposition candidate is of no use, politically. Mr. Dingwell is a farmer, residing in, and with no intention of leaving, the District. He is the man for the independent electors to support. If they study their own interests, and we believe they will, George Dingwell will be triumphantly elected on the 30th to a seat in the Legislative Council.

A Terrible Warning.

The shocking news to which our townspeople awoke this morning furnishes another sad commentary upon the liquor traffic and the liquor law. We believe that there never was in Charlottetown a greater number of wrecks of humanity resulting from the liquor habit, than there is to-day, or a greater number of young men and boys on the high road to destruction. The fate of the deceased mechanic, who was, naturally, one of the most intelligent of our citizens, one who was for fifteen years a foreman at the Esdale Foundry, one who might have earned for himself an independent and influential position in this Province, proves again that there is no safety for any man except in absolute and total abstinence from the use of intoxicating drinks, and is a terrible warning to thoughtless and careless young men and boys who think it "good form" and "manly" to go in and "have a glass of beer with a stick in it." Those of our citizens who, with equal faculty, still believe that the existing means of controlling the liquor traffic and lessening the evils which result from it are sufficient, may now, perhaps, rouse themselves to do something.

Professor Robertson's Visit.

There was a great deal of sound common sense as well as of practical information in the lectures delivered by Professor Robertson. His proposition that the profits of farming lie in the difference between the cost of production and the price obtained, should be constantly borne in mind. It is evidently useless to strive for high prices, if, after all, the cost of production is greater than the prices obtained. Better, a great deal, strive to lessen the cost of production and make the best of the markets which are available. It is worthy of note that Professor Robertson did not say that the farmer should place his dependence upon Commercial Union, Unrestricted Free Trade, Annexation, or any other form of the fad which grips are now recommending, but only in his skill and labor in utilizing the forces of nature. The great work which the government of Canada is quietly accomplishing for our farmers was, however, made evident by Professor Robertson's interesting descriptions of the Experimental Farms and the duties of the Superintendents and Professors employed in connection therewith. The information afforded is of that reliable and practical kind which must at once commend itself to intelligent farmers.

An Influential Position.

It is good to read Mr. Blaine's protest against the influence exercised by Canada in the settlement of the Behring Sea dispute. If Canada were under the States her "influence" wouldn't count for much when the interests of the Government at Washington were in the balance. But under England the wishes of the people, as expressed by their representatives, are respected. The correspondence between Lord Salisbury and Mr. Blaine will be an eye-opener to the weak-kneed Canadians who would like to see their country under commercial, if not political, vassalage to the States; and it will reassure the loyal men who have had fears that England is beginning to be careless about Canadian interests. The fact is clear that Mr. Blaine's propositions were not accepted because Canada's consent to them was not given. Canada has, therefore, gained an influential position in the Empire. Whether or not a closer union and better understanding between the Colonies and the Empire would not strengthen the hands of British statesmen when settling matters of international importance is a question to be further considered.

SUDDEN DEATH.—The Farmer says the wife of Mr. Cowan R. McKinnon, of Lot 16, died very suddenly last Thursday evening about 5 o'clock. At the time there was no other person in the house, her husband being away to Malpeque fishing, while two little girls had been out picking berries. When found lying on the floor she only breathed for a few moments afterwards and then expired, but how long she had been there or when she became unconscious is not known. It is supposed the cause of death was heart disease as she had never been known to complain of illness. The Found Drowned.

The lifeless body of Richard Davis, boilermaker, was found floating in the water at Victoria Park, about 150 yards west of the site of the old toboggan slide, between seven and eight o'clock this morning. Two boys—John Ellsworth and William Bain—who were on their way to the city from North River in a boat, were the first to observe the body. They called to Mr. Henry C. Connelly, who was driving through the park, and informed him of their discovery. Mr. Connelly, after verifying the boys' story, drove to the police station and informed Marshal Cameron of the affair. The Marshal lost no time in getting to the scene. He found the body floating (with the feet dragging on the bottom) in about three or four feet of water a short distance from the breastwork. He had the body taken from the water and examined. In the pockets he found a razor, some tobacco, four or five cents, a handkerchief and some other small articles.

The Marshal's next act was to notify Dr. Conroy, Coroner, and empanel a jury. The jury is made up as follows: Bartholomew Flannigan, Michael Hennessey, Harry Hind, John P. Murray, R. M. Young, James McIsaac and John A. McKinnis. After viewing the body it was taken to the late residence of the deceased, on Euston Street, between Pownal and Rochford Streets. The inquest will be held in the Stipendiary Magistrate's Courtroom this evening at eight o'clock. Davis was forty-seven years of age, and leaves a wife and several small children. He was a native of Halifax, but for many years past has been a resident of Charlottetown. When Morrissey's Foundry was in its palmy days, Davis was one of the most capable and trustworthy of the employes therein, and for a number of years past he has been in the employ of Messrs. McKinnon & McLean, who speak in the highest terms of his capability as a workman, of his skill as a mechanic, and of his honesty and integrity, while they deplore his occasional "spros." For about three weeks previous to Thursday last Davis had not been attending to his work. On Thursday last, however, he went to the shop and worked until Saturday. During these three days it is said that he was not in his usual health—apparently suffering from some of the after effects of over-indulgence in liquor. This morning, at or shortly before six o'clock, he left his house dressed in his working clothes, telling his wife that he would be back shortly to breakfast. But the first news his poor wife had of him was that his body had been found at the Park under the circumstances above stated.

ATTEMPTED TRAIN-WRECKING.—A man named Brown, 18 years old, of River John, is in Jail at Amherst on a charge of having placed a sleeper across the railway track at that place last Saturday forenoon. The tie was struck squarely by a gravel train and carried nearly 100 yards along the track before the train could be stopped.
