SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.

Alien Law Violated.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—The Government has been made aware that the attempt to enforce the alien labor law in the Crow's Nest Pass during the construction of the railway is a huge farce. The law is being violated every day. Not only are aliens obtaining employment, but it is known that the Americans are getting the fatter of the sub-contracts.

Tramp Steamer Lost.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—The British steamer Sagamore arrived from Liverpool yesterday, having on board the entire crew of the British tramp steamer Furior, which was abandoned on July 27th in a sinking condition. The Furior sailed from West Bay, N. S., on June 23rd, with deals for Barry, Wales.

A Sharp Engagement.

ATHENS, Aug. 4.—A sharp engagement took place between 2,000 Turkish troops and the armed population of the villages lying between Metsona Trikhali and Kalamities. The Turks retreated after losing seventy killed.

The Peace Congress.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 4.—The peace conference made unexpected progress yesterday. It is said that everything has been arranged except the question of the evacuation of Thessaly.

A Total Wreck

HALIFAX, Aug. 4.—The steamer Baltimore City, which went ashore in the Strait of Belle Isle, July 20th, has become a total wreck.

Lord Wolseley Ill.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Lord Wolseley, Commander in Chief of the British army, is seriously ill.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—M. Cochev, minister of finance, was present at a banquet given this evening in honor of Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier. Sir Wilfrid in replying to a toast to his health referred to Great Britain's denunciation of the commercial treaties with Germany and Belgium, which, he said, was done at Canada's request and predicted an enormous development of trade between Canada and France.

SUNNYSIDE,

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE AND MAIL

BERLIN, N. H., July 2.—Geo. Staple, an aged farmer, who shot and killed Norman Decost late on Saturday night, claiming it to be in self defence, was brought here today and his formal examination began.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The State Department has finally closed another international incident by paying over to the Italian minister here the sum of $6,000 as indemnity for the killing by a mob of three Italian subjects who were taken out of jail in New Orleans about a year ago and lynched.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 2.—A report from Fort Saskatchewan says that a mass meeting of citizens of that place passed unanimously a resolution declaring that, in the interest of the whole Dominion, the Federal authorities should immediately construct a wagon road and telegraph line from this point to the Upper Yukon via the ruins of Fort Assiniboine, Lesser Slave Lake, Peace and Laird River valleys, where an almost air line can be got, per Dr. Dawson's report of 1888, and tap the whole mineral belt of the West and North American coast. The distance from here to Klondyke, in a straight line, is only 1150 miles while the nearest now used is about 3400. The proposed route had 250 miles of wagon road now almost ready for use. Another 250 is reported to be through prairie and bluff.

THE DENOUNCED TREATIES.

Foreign Opinions.

The New York Tribune comments on the action of Great Britain in denouncing the Belgian-German treaties as follows:—"That means that henceforth the British Empire is to be a commercial unit, distinct from the rest of the world. Great Britain may make whatever bargains she pleases with her colonies, without letting anyone else in under the 'most favored nation' clause. For commercial purposes the colonies are no longer separate states. They are members of the one great State, Nation, Empire. Great Britain may still maintain the part of 'Athanasius contra mundum,' but it is an Athanasius bridging the whole world. Commerce with other nations is to be sought, but commerce with the Empire is to be preferred; and whenever the interests of the two clash, the former, not the latter, is to be sacrificed. For the sake of increasing trade within the Empire, the risk of a tariff war with all outside is unhesitatingly incurred. Truly, the Mother Country might well adapt the motto of Australia and inscribe upon her banners, 'Advance, Britannia.'"

The Moniteur, of Brussels, Belgium, officially announces the fact that Great Britain has denounced the commercial treaty with Belgium, but adds that the British Government has intimated its readiness to negotiate a new treaty.

The Kreuz Zeitung, of Berlin, says that the denunciation of the commercial treaty with the German Zollverein is Great Britain's first step towards the protectionist system, and adds: "But there is no ground for serious alarm, because she has her carrying trades to protect and retaliation to fear. Moreover, a one-sided preference shown Canada might provoke a conflict with the United States."

The National Zeitung of Germany says that Great Britain is herself the nation most interested in the conclusion of a new treaty, and that Germany may gain much by skillful, cold-blooded diplomacy.

The Vossische Zeitung says: "So far as Germany's relations to England are concerned it is a matter of indifference whether we have a treaty or not."

The Berliner Tageblatt says: "Great Britain's intention to join the Mother Country and the colonies in a customs union will not induce her to restrict British trade with Germany any further than is necessary to attain this object."

The Tageblatt, the Vossische Zeitung and the National Zeitung all agree that it is quite out of the question for England to adopt protection.

Two more aeronauts have fallen victims to their zeal for the advancement of science. A German inventor, Dr. Wolfert, and an assistant named Kuabe, were killed on June 12, while making trial of a navigable balloon invented by Dr. Wolfert. "The balloon," says Science, "was being exhibited at Berlin before the officers of the ballooning section of the army, when the gas ignited by the benzine used in the motor."

There is no question about it. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier. This is proven by its wonderful cures of blood diseases.

THE PASSING SHOW.

Anybody a candidate for governor of Pennsylvania?—Buffalo Enquirer.

Unless it is mighty careful, the new Saco and Deer traps will find that the subscribers will soon pull down the blinds on it.—Omaha Bee.

Spain has postponed its crisis, and those who saw all sorts of new destinies for Cuba and Weyler are fairly entitled to another guess.—Philadelphia Times.

The protest of some English journals against "land grabbing" by the United States is sublime or ridiculous, according as you look at it.—New York Tribune.

Chinese writing has been found on a rock in Mexico, and it is thought it was written 2,000 years ago, some Aztec laundry bill probably.—St. Louis Chronicle.

College graduates are apt to wonder why the end of their term is called the commencement until they find themselves wrestling for a living. Then they know.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The sultan's effort to annex Thessaly might strike some sympathetic chords in this country if he could in any way pretend that it was part of a scheme for a greater Constantinople.—Washington Star.

Ponce de Leon should have looked in Washington for his fountain of youth. In the federal service at that city are 106 men above the age of 80 years, which recalls the adage, Few die; none resign.—Chicago Post.

Keely's motor has moted again. It seems a very exhausting business, judging from the long intervals between the "motes." Stockholders are usually suspicious of such spasmodic activity.—Baltimore American.

A New York wife has secured a divorce because her husband "kissed her in a cold and matter of fact manner." Gotham husbands henceforth who want to be on the safe side should boil their osculation as well as their drinking water.—Chicago Times-Herald.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

The bandolon of Mexico is not greatly dissimilar in shape to the moon guitar of China.

The psaltery referred to in the Jewish sacred writings is a kind of dulcimer played either with the fingers or plectrum.

The native guitar of Mexico differs materially in shape from the same instrument used in this country, the body being an ellipse.

The Indian tamboura has the body of light reddish yellow wood and wire strings, three being of steel and one of brass. It is used to accompany the voice in singing.

The Indian vina is a bar of hollow bamboo, to which are fastened two empty gourds. It is strung with eight wires, five of which are provided with movable frets.

The Indian pukway, or drum, is made of a log of wood hollowed. It is usually about 20 inches long, 8 or 10 inches in diameter and is beaten at either or both ends.

The dulcimer in almost exactly the form in which it is known today has been in use in Persia and Arabia from time immemorial. It was probably introduced into Europe during the crusades.

The sono-koto is the representative instrument of Japan. It resembles nothing more closely than a board with bridges at the ends, to which the strings are fastened. There are 13 silken strings passing over movable bridges at intervals along the length of the instrument.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

BATTLE ARRAY.

Machine guns have been supplied to the queen's life guards, and gradually all the British cavalry regiments will be armed with them.

Siam's army is to be reorganized by Russian army officers, over 100 officers having volunteered as instructors in answer to a circular from the war department. The king of Siam will select 50 from among them.

England's new cruisers are not living up to their speed trials. The Fox, which is officially a 19 knot boat, cannot do better now than 14 1/2 knots with natural draft. At her trial she made 20 knots with forced and 19 knots with natural draft.

A sepoy regiment will outwalk any European regiment, and do it on food which their competitors would pronounce wholly insufficient to sustain vigorous life. They invariably take off their boots and socks and sling them across their shoulders while on the march.
