

MR. EARLE'S CONCERT.

When Mr. Earle undertakes to give an entertainment the public expect something good, and their expectations are invariably realized. Last night's entertainment was no exception. From the rise to the fall of the curtain—almost three hours—the interest was well maintained and the large and fashionable audience was pleased. Mr. Vinnicombe and his orchestra were in good form and gave several selections in an excellent manner. The young ladies of the St. Cecilia Club played even better than usual, and their numbers were highly appreciated. Another feature of a pleasing character was the sword drill by four little girls, one of whom (Miss Helen Warburton) afterwards gave a spirited patriotic recitation. Miss Amy Earle and Mr. Charles Earle always sing well, and they excelled themselves last evening. But the gem of the evening was the chorus "Now Tramp," the voices being well balanced and the different parts ably sustained. The second portion of the entertainment consisted of an operetta, "The Belle of Saratoga." The part of "Pauline," the belle, was cleverly taken by Miss Florence Earle, and her sister, Miss Amy Earle, impersonated "Clara Rivers," her rival, with much ability. Mr. Charles Earle took the part of "Captain Western," the retired army officer, and acted it well. Mr. Winchester, as "Sir Charles Grandiswell," the English Baronet with a penchant for love-making, afforded considerable amusement. He has a very good baritone voice and with a little more experience on the stage promises to become a favorite. Mr. Belleau, as "George Ardent," exhibited a rich tenor voice, his singing being a distinct feature of the performance. There were a number of other ladies and gentlemen taking the part of guests at the hotel where the scene of the opera is laid, and these also did well. The dialogue was bright and sparkling, and the solos, duets, trios and choruses were excellent. Altogether the entertainment was very successful, and Mr. Earle and the ladies and gentlemen assisting him are to be congratulated.

FLIRTED WITH THE FARM.

Funny Freaks of a Nebraska Cyclone

The tornado which devastated Wymcr, Nebraska on Tuesday was the most picturesque affair ever witnessed in the State. Though no loss of life resulted, as far as reports indicate, forests were rooted up by the mile. Great holes were dug in the newly ploughed fields, and wire fences were ripped up by the thousands of feet. The most extraordinary freak of the twister occurred on the farm of John Wells, ten miles south of here. There the snout of the big cloud switched about in a fifty-acre field, striking no less than a dozen times, whirling around in that space for several minutes. Every place where the snout struck a hole from ten to fifteen feet deep and covering thirty square yards was made, and the dirt carried into the heavens in great sheets. The soil descended in the form of mudshowers ten miles further north, and the houses around Wymore were scattered with it. Much stock and poultry were killed.

"BRITON" GOOD ENOUGH.—Arnold White's call for a name to embrace all subjects of Queen Victoria has resulted in the coining of such words as "Anglo-Germans," "Britonians," "Chummi-," "Welders," "Imperialis," "Queensmen," "Empirists," "Britempirists," and "Eglanders," none of which appears to be an improvement on the good old-fashioned "Briton."

W. C. T. U.—A meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in its rooms on Monday afternoon when a number of papers were read on the World's W. C. T. U. mission. They first described the work of Mary C. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the community in their sad and sudden affliction. The deceased was well known here and much liked by all who knew him.—Summerside Journal.
