Greece and the Congress.

A Berlin dispatch predicts that the proposition to admit Greece to the Congress will be rejected. It is known that Russia will oppose it. Germany will support Russia, and Austria, France and Italy are jealous of the Greek mercantile marine.

Roumelia, Servia and Montenegro have even less chance of admission. The utmost small states can hope for is to be heard. They will not be permitted to take part in the debates or votes. It is understood Bismarck wishes to exclude any questions not properly included in the task of Congress, the session of which assembly will last several weeks.

Earl Dufferin—Differing Reports.

The London, Eng., Echo says:—"It is proposed to extend the period of the appointment of Lord Dufferin as Governor-General of Canada twelve months, on account of his popularity and ability." This confirms a telegram to the same effect published in a Chicago paper nearly a week ago, and inserted in the Mail of the 11th inst.

The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, however, says the Colonial Office wished Lord Dufferin in Canada, as Governor General of the Dominion for a other term, but Dufferin declined, and will return to England in September.

Governor Laird's Residence.

Battleford, the lately appointed seat of Government of the Northwest Territory, is situated at the junction of Battle River with the north branch of the Saskatchewan. It is there that the Hon. David Laird and his Council are to reside. The Government buildings are now in process of erection, and some private dwellings and stores are also being constructed. The temporary seat of Government is Fort Pelley, about 200 miles east of Battleford, where the Montreal Police have also their headquarters. The country of which Battleford is the destined capital has been accorded high praise by many different authorities. The atmosphere is described as pure and bracing, the climate general and the soil exceedingly fertile.

French Statistics.

According to recently published official tables seventeen of the eighty-six departments of France show an excess of deaths over births. There has been a remarkable falling away in marriages. In 1872 they were in the ratio of 98 in every 10,000 inhabitants; in 1873 they were 89; in 1874, 83; in 1875, 82, and in 1876 the ratio had reached the figure of 79. The average for the last half century was 82, so that the ratio of 1876 is abnormally low. Statisticians and writers on social science have been puzzling themselves in seeking the cause of this marked reduction. Among other reasons the wandering habits of the artisan population, forced military service and the excessive formalities placed in the way of people about to marry have been suggested. In 1876 the births were 966,682, the total population being 36,905,788, the largest return since 1876.

Starvation in Labrador.

The news from Labrador coast is disheartening. Last fall there was a failure of the fisheries, and traders who used to supply the fishermen with provisions in exchange for fish and oil have abandoned the territory, leaving whole families to live through the winter on fish offal—for crops are impossible on that sterile shore. There have been many deaths from starvation. Of five families, containing forty souls, in one settlement, only five persons survived the winter. Scoury is epidemic, and the women haunt the shore like spectres, picking up dead seals, while men and boys gather sea moss or shell fish. The people have been cut off from the outside world since last September. When they found death staring them in the face it was too late to make their wants known, for navigation had closed, and they were 200 leagues distant from Quebec, without any means of overland communication in winter.

The Pope and the Sultan.

A correspondent writing from Rome says:—"Yesterday, the 15th, the Pope received, with the solemn honors becoming such an event, Bedros Effendi Kujungian, Envoy Extraordinary of the Sultan of Turkey, sent to Rome on the special mission of congratulating Pope Leo XIII. on his elevation to the Pontificate and of assuring him of the disposition of the Sultan to do all in his power to insure perfect liberty to the Catholic subjects in the Ottoman Empire. His Excellency is an Armenian Catholic, member of the Imperial Council at Constantinople and distinguished with the Order of Medjidie. He is accompanied by his son, Ohannes Bey, who acts as his secretary. At the audience Bedros Effendi pronounced a discourse in French expressive of the object of his mission and of the personal esteem of the Sultan for His Holiness. The Pope replied, also in French, that he was highly pleased with the sentiments expressed, that he cherished the most cordial wishes for the welfare and prosperity of the Sultan, and was sincerely grateful for the protection and liberty accorded to Catholics in His Majesty's dominions. He also complimented the Envoy personally, his son and suite. After the audience with His Holiness the Turkish Envoy paid a visit to the Secretary of State, Cardinal Franchi.

That the Holy Father was highly pleased with the Sultan's Envoy is made still more evident by the fact that he was pleased to confer upon him the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Gregory the Great, and upon his son a commandership in the same order.

A female servant, employed at Hon. Mr. McKenzie's residence at Ottawa, has been missing for some days past. It appears that she went out one evening after her duties were finished, without saying anything, and has not since been seen. It is feared that something serious has occurred.

A forgery of the Dominion one-dollar bills is in circulation. By paying attention to the following peculiarities of the bogus bills our readers may avoid being imposed upon: The bills imitated are those which have the red numbering. The figures are smaller than in the genuine bill, and the colour not so bright. The length is one-quarter of an inch shorter than that of the genuine. The paper is poorer and of a dingy yellow. The impression on the back is very much blurred. The bills are payable in Toronto.
