Cardinals Defeat Cubs 11-9 In Weird Ball Game; Athletics Halt Yankees

NEW YORK, May 8—Pirates developed three Cincinnati pitchers for 14 hits to win 9-8 at Pittsburgh today.
By Blanton's relief pitching played a big part in the victory. He went in for Swift in the seventh with none out and fanned pinch hitter Lombardi with the bases loaded. Cuyler fouled out but Thev-er was singled to drive in two runs.
Cuyler started the game with a home run, but the Pirates tied up the score in their half of the first.
A weird ball game in which nine pitchers paraded to the mound, St. Louis Cardinals defeat Cubs 11-9 at Chicago today and replace Cubs in the National League's first place.
Johnny Mize, rookie first-baseman the Cards offered to sell last season, hit two home runs and a single while Joe Medwick drove in five of St. Louis' runs with a homer and two singles. A fourth home run was hit by Augy Galan of the Cubs.
Medwick's home run with two on the fifth was the turning point of the game and gave the Cards the lead. But to preserve it, Manager Frankie Frisch practically had to clear the bench of players. Even Pete Dean strode to the mound at

Smiths Do Battle In British Open

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, May 8.—Whoever wins the 1936 British open—and right now the odds favor rangy young Horton Smith, the big-money winner of the American winter golf campaign—gallierly will be pulling for a long-fought victory by the "Old Man of Carnoustie," MacDonald Smith.
Since Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen dropped out, after their five-year reign from 1926 to 1930, the open has lacked the old-time flavor of international greatness.
Mediocre contingents of American invaders, in the past two years, have taken still more glamor off the event.
But this year's "Battle of the Smiths," young Horton and the veteran MacDonald, will go far toward reviving it as a front-rank attraction. Now 46, the popular Mac Smith has been trying to win the British open—and just missing —since early post-war days. Twice he has fought his way within sight of the goal only to be swept back by belated blasts that couldn't be stopped. In 1930, it was Bobby Jones blazing to immortality on his "Grand Slam" rampage —and Mac Smith ran second. In 1932 he was second to Gene Sarazen.
Born in Carnoustie, Scotland, now well past his prime but still a brilliant stylist, Mac Smith never has won a national championship. For years, British gallierles have been watching the old master trying to pull one out of the fire, and since this may be his last whack at the title, they will be cheering him on harder than ever. Besides capturing second place in 1930 and 1932, Smith was third for three years running, 1923-4-5 and fourth in 1931 and 1934.
The championship, starting June 24 at Hoylake, will see last year's "dark-horse" winner, Alf Perry, defending his title also against several American challengers, including Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour, Henry Picard and Jimmy Thomson, and against a strong British field listing Henry Cotton, Arthur Padgham, Percy Allis and Charles Whitcombe.

Fight Round By Round

(P. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, May 8.—Before a near-capacity crowd of 18,000 fans, one of the ring's most popular little fighters, Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, and Jimmy Mc-Larnin of Vancouver met in a 10 round match tonight in Madison square Garden. McLarnin sealed off Canzoneri 13½.
Arthur Donovan was referee, with Charles Devlin and Charles Lynch as judges for the main bout.
The fight by rounds:

ROUND ONE
Canzoneri, nervous as a cat, moved quickly from his corner and jabbed McLarnin twice with his left. They exchanged lefts to the body while sparring in mid-ring.
McLarnin clipped Canzoneri with a hard left to the ear but missed with his right. McLarnin's left jab opened a slight cut on the bridge of Tony's nose. Tony's knees buckled as he took both hands to the head and backed to the ropes. McLarnin jabbed Tony with a heavy fire to the head and the lightweight slumped in his bad shape. Mc-Larnin backed Canzoneri into a corner and staggered Tony with heavy wallops to the chin. Canzoneri kept his feet under terrific fire.
This was McLarnin's round by a wide margin.

ROUND TWO
Canzoneri came out swinging and jabbed Jimmy with a right to the chin. They exchanged light lefts with Jimmy sought for an opening, slifting from body to head with his lefts. The Canadian took a high left to the head that jolted him.
Tony waded in and they slugged at various paces for a few moments.
Tony really had the crowd in an ecstasy. He made McLarnin miss and then pestered Jimmy with his hands to the head. McLarnin was boomed for landing a low punch he pushed Tony into the ropes.
Terrible overhand right dropped Larnin to one knee but he waded up without a count. Canzoneri was outboxing his rival at every turn and took the round by a wide margin as McLarnin had in the opener.

ROUND THREE
Canzoneri danced out of his corner with more confidence but took a left to the body and another to the head. Stepping about briskly, Tony entered with two long jabs, then slugged away as McLarnin tried to hit against the ropes. They exchanged light body blows, then Tony made Jimmy miss three right left swings as he countered Canzoneri with short uppercuts.
Canzoneri blocked a left and rocked McLarnin with a two fisted attack on Jimmy's jaw. The lightweight slumped was giving a masterful distribution of footwork. Canzoneri's left hand.

ROUND FOUR
They clinched in mid-ring after exchanging lefts. Boxing coolly, Tony took a left to the body and backed the ropes as he rolled with Mc-Larnin's shots to the head. Jimmy fired a left to the head but missed and took two short hooks to the chin. McLarnin rushed Canzoneri twice but missed fire. Tony did not stick still in mid-ring, then he did a right to Jimmy's ear. The Canadian stuck his left into Tony's face three times without a return missed a hard right. McLarnin's left by a shade.

ROUND FIVE
McLarnin shot a straight right to Tony's jaw as they met in mid-ring.
Tony connected lightly with a two as Canzoneri's supporters led with him to "move around" not play with the dynamite in Canadian's fist. Canzoneri slugged back from a straight left to the face but countered with both hands to the head. A hard left bit blood from McLarnin's forehead, backing up, missed and took a half dozen terrific blows to the head. Tony was

GORDON FIFE, Soldier of Fortune

Valuable Information

By Bob Moore and John Hales

FOLLOWING FIFE'S INSTRUCTIONS ALL PATIENTLY SHOWS DR. KANT AND IS AT LAST REWARDED.

HA—HE HAS A VISITOR—THAT RAT-FACED SERVANT—THE SAMIB WILL WISH TO KNOW OF THIS.

I HAVE GIVEN THEM YOUR ORDERS, HERR DOKTOR—THEY WILL BE HIDDEN ON THE FORE-DECK AT TEN TONIGHT—THEY ARE TO MAKE NO MOVE UNLESS SIR BASIL IS ALONE.

GOOD!—HE WILL BE ALONE—I SHALL SEE TO THAT—ALSO THERE IS AN ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT IN THE LOUNGE—THE DECK WILL BE DESERTED.

NICE WORK, AH—NOW WE KNOW WHERE WE STAND—I THINK IT WOULD BE UNHEALTHY FOR LORD MARKHAM TO BE ON DECK ALONE TONIGHT—PERHAPS YOU AND I HAD BETTER BE THERE.

THE SAMIB READS MY THOUGHTS.
