Before returning to his Tokyo headquarters, the U. N. supreme commander conferred with Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Eighth Army leader, rode in a jeep to a forward observation post north of Suwon, and flew over Seoul. Fighters escorted his personal plane, the "Scrap."

Ridgway told McArthur that losses of the Chinese Communists alone since Jan. 1 conservatively were estimated at 40,000 dead and 120,000 wounded—the equivalent of about 20 Red divisions.

Telephone, Power Services Restored To Near Normal

All telephone and electric light services in the province were practically restored to normal by last night following the recent sleet storm but telegraph wires between the City and the Eastern section of the Island were still out of commission in places.

All telephone lines were in working order although considerable damage had been incurred between Morell and Souris. Wires were also down along the approach to the Hillsborough Bridge, Vernon, and Cherry Valley Corner.

Seven telephone poles were broken during the storm according to information the Company received yesterday. Five of these were between St. Peter's and Souris and the others were between the City and Vernon.

Mr. Ernest MacLeod of the Maritime Electric Company reported that the wind Saturday night caused quite a bit of trouble along the ice covered lines. Most of the damage was east of the City on the line to Cherry Valley. He had no reports of damage east of Morell.

Friday afternoon the services between the City and Montague and on the Boardman were disrupted for a time. Nearly all damages were repaired by yesterday.

Three telegraph lines leading out of the City to the eastern part of the province were not functioning last night as the storm caused damage to Georgetown, Souris and Murray Harbour wires.

Mr. Frank Fraser, Superintendent of the Canadian National Telegraphs reported that line crews were repairing the damages. All lines were still covered with ice from the storm and officials expressed hope that the winds would not increase overnight and bring more damage to the lines.

Editors Addressed At Quebec Conference

QUEBEC, Jan. 27 (CP)—Hon. Antoine Rivard, Quebec solicitor general, last night told the Canadian Managing Editors' conference that in a country like Canada "freedom of the press is essential to the very existence of our democratic institutions."

Mr. Rivard, addressing the editors at a dinner tendered by the Government on the first of their three-day conference here, added that "a right conception of what is freedom of the press" was also necessary.

The Quebec Cabinet Minister referred briefly to libel provisions in the Canadian Criminal Code and to the Quebec Press Act.

"These legal enactments have nothing to do with the freedom of the press," he said. "There cannot be freedom for those who write for the purpose of causing injury, trouble or sedition."

In Quebec Province, a civil code clause "governs newspaper men as well as others when it says: 'every person capable of discernment is responsible for the damage caused by him by his fault to another, whether by positive act, imprudence or want of skill.'"

Anyone has the right to write and publish what he wished but he remained liable for any injury or damage.

In Quebec, Mr. Rivard said, there was preventive measure against Communist propaganda "which may, in a certain way also be considered as a measure of repression; and of which we are very proud."

He said it was the padlock law, adopted in 1937.

The act was submitted to the courts and was declared valid and within the scope of provincial legislation, he said. There were protests and criticisms about this law but these came "from people who did not know the exact enactment of the law."

The solicitor general said the law had been applied about 100 times since its enactment and thousands of documents, books, magazines, reports, subversive pamphlets and seditious literature had been seized.

Mr. Rivard said the right of property of an honest owner had not been infringed once.

Quebec looked upon Communism as a contagious disease of the mind and treated it as such.

Presented With Scroll - At a reception Edmond Chasse, Quebec Parliamentary press correspondent for the Montreal morning daily, Le Canada, was presented with a scroll paying tribute to his reporting.

Mr. Chasse won first prize for spot news reporting in the national newspaper awards of the Toronto Men's Press Club in 1950. For his uncovering of a criminal plot in the time-bomb explosion of an airliner over Sault Au Cochon, Sept. 9, 1949.

Girl Guide News

Trinity Guides first again. The Guides of Trinity Company are the very first on P. E. I. to receive the Religion and Life Emblem. The Emblem that is very distinctive from other badges has the first and last letter of the Greek Alphabet, Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end and is worn on the right breast immediately above the centre of the pocket.

Two proud guides from Southport Company also received the badge Jean Macdonald and Joyce McKie. The Rev. H. E. D. Ashford said how industriously the girls had worked for the award and many passed with a 100 per cent mark.

Dr. Lloyd Shaw, superintendent of Sunday School presented the badges and added his congratulations to Mr. Ashford's. Those receiving the award were: Maureen Bohaker, Ann Cery, Sandra Currie, Connie Davies, Connie Henderson, Mary Johnstone, Audrey Larter, Nancy Lee, Barbara Leitch, Joan Mallett, Janet Matheson, Ernestine Mills, Olive McAssey, Joyce McCallum, Wayne MacDonald, Margie McGuire, Joyce McKinnon, Sally McLure, Matilda MacMillan, Jean MacPherson, Dianne Phillips, Marjorie Pickard, Catherine Robertson, Maïda Rogerson, Daphne Taylor, Roberta Todd and Betsy Houston. Duchemin, Public Relations and the Field Secretary, Mrs. F. S. Jenkins, Mrs. H. Cudmore Leader, Miss Edith Douse and Miss Marg Wheatley paraded with the Guides. It is good for the girls and church members are interested in seeing our Guides together, think about it Leaders and if you need help the Field Secretary may be contacted. If you need help with the new award as above it will be given.

Central Royalty Brownies Mrs. F. Osborne, Brown Owl, sent us the following news. Three of our best Brownies "flew up" to Marion on Jan. 10th, they were, Guides Clark and Lillian Warren. They received going away presents and given a Grand Howl to remember us by. Good luck to them. At the same meeting we held a treasure hunt, yes, the Brownies (or somebody) had hidden a hundred pennies around the room. After they were all found they were put into a Polio Fund envelope and sent to the Bank of Commerce. We had to organize ourselves again and now have on new "Sixer and 4 new Seconds, also six new Twenties have joined since Christmas. They will soon be real Brownies so alert are they.

"Hurray" for the Rally that's coming on Thinking Day, we will be there with bells on!

Thinking Day Rally
