ST. PIERRE

We visited French St. Pierre in the Autumn of 1939 shortly after World War II was declared.

There lay at anchor nearby a weathered Italian freighter, said to be loaded with wines from Naples. She was awaiting her turn to discharge at the customs warehouse.

We approached the harbour of St. Pierre in the afternoon, when a great fleet of fishing boats, both sail boats, and Atlantic 21-foot dories, at that time manned by two fishermen with oars, was returning to port.

Hampton

Mr. and Mrs. Victor MacFadyen were recent visitors to Hampton and Canoe Cove, guests of Victor's sister, Mrs. J. W. Morrison, and their nearest-kin at Canoe Cove.

Latest reports of the progress of Ralph Calbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Calbeck, from the Halifax Hospital, state that he has sufficiently recovered from the car-bicycle accident at Hampton School on May 25, to undergo an operation for leg injuries on June 23, and everything points toward steady progress to complete recovery.

Our resident electrical and plumbing contractors have returned from a business trip to New Brunswick.

Congratulations to Dr. Sheldon R. Cameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Cameron, who received his M.D.C.M. degree from the Halifax Hospital, and is now practicing at Alberton.

A large number of intimate friends, residing in these adjoining districts, assembled to congratulate on the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. George MacLean, Winstoe, are conveying best wishes to Mrs. MacLean for her early recovery to good health and duty, following an operation at the P. E. I. Hospital.

The people of St. Pierre have a sincere friendliness; they are frugal and law abiding. There is a detachment of gendarmes stationed in the territory but their duties are light and there are seldom even petty crimes.

The only murder occurred years ago. The murderer was caught, convicted and sentenced to death. The authorities, unable to secure anyone willing to be the executioner on the islands, finally imported a guillotine and an executioner from France.

The executioner while he was practising on goats for his grisly task, found the people reasonably friendly, but their attitude changed after the deed was done. No one would speak to him nor would they sell him anything. Hungry and bewildered he took the first boat he could get to take him back to France.

One of the reasons for the advanced price of rabbits is the toll taken on Australian rabbits by some form of disease which has accounted for a very large percentage of the annual crop.

The June number of the Black Fox Magazine and Modern Mink Farmer has the following regarding the agitation by many American breeders to have a duty placed on mink pelts similar to that charged for silver fox.

At a meeting of the Canadian National Silver Fox Breeders Association further encouragement was given to breeders to produce select and Grade A pelts.

The meeting also voted to add $25,000 to the balance of $5,000 remaining for the former promotional fund of $75,000.
