

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

NOVEMBER 2, 1888.

A Life-Saving Invention.

ONE of the marked features of this age is the number of its "railway horrors."

The public all over the world will, we are sure, be pleased to learn that means have been invented which will effectually prevent collisions or accidents, the causes of which can be known even a few moments before they would otherwise have occurred.

A representative of THE EXAMINER had the extreme pleasure, this morning, of examining an invention of Joseph Unsworth, Esq., Superintendent of the P. E. Island Railway, by which any train or number of trains can be, almost instantly, stopped at any time, day or night, winter or summer, on any part of a railway furnished with it.

By means of this invention a train dispatcher or station master who may happen, by mistake, to permit two trains to be running in opposite directions between stations, can stop both trains in a moment, and send each back to the station from which it started.

Editorial Notes.

The report that Sir Charles Tupper is to be Lord Sackville's successor at Washington came from Washington, and purported to be on the authority of a Cabinet Minister, whose name was not given.

Several persons have called attention to the omission of the little word "not," in THE EXAMINER'S article on Lord Sackville's successor.

The St. John Telegraph directs attention to the fact that the subway scheme has been substantially endorsed by the British Government, and says: "We are spending some millions on the appliances to carry ships over the dry land of the isthmus of Chignecto."

Steamers Movements.

The steamer Halifax, Captain Hill, sailed for Boston at eight o'clock this morning. Her cargo consisted of 362 cases eggs, 1134 bris, and 2688 bags potatoes, 48 bris, mackerel, 23 bris, fish oil, 21 cases lobsters, 60 boxes cheese, and a lot of sundry merchandise.

The steamer Worcester, Captain Nickerson, left here for Boston at two o'clock this morning. Her freight was made up of 50 barrels mackerel, 26 barrels hake sounds, 650 cases eggs, 16,791 bushels potatoes, and a quantity of turnips, oats, butter, etc.

The steamer M. A. Starr, Captain Ferguson, arrived from Halifax via intermediate ports at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. She brought a cargo consisting of 300 bris, sugar, 50 bris, herring, 250 boxes sun-dries and other miscellaneous freight.

The consciousness of having a remedy at hand for croup, pneumonia, sore throat and sudden colds is very consoling to a parent. With a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house, one feels in such cases, a sense of security nothing else can give.

Holiday Keeping at the North Side.

Where better could a weary man, who is fond of nature, betake himself for a time of rest than to "Houston's," on the south side of Rustico Bay and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, at the extreme left of Brackley Point.

Oh, those glittering sand hills stretching away to the east! The old forest has succumbed to their accumulated drift, and the leafless trunks rise up over the beautiful curves and mounds, ever changing in form as the gentle winds swirl their crystalline grains from place to place.

How intense the hush of everything around. But a weird shriek breaks occasionally upon the silence of the summer sea, and the eye catches the forms of birds upon its bosom.

Now the breeze is strong. White-capped waves extend as far as the eye can reach, and heavy breakers are thundering with measured thud upon the shore.

Break, break, break, On thy cold grey stones, O sea! And I would that my tongue could utter The thoughts that arise in me.

O, well for the fisherman's boy, That he shouts with his sister at play! O, well for the sailor lad, That he sings in his boat on the bay!

And the stately ships go on To their haven under the hill; But O for the touch of a vanish'd hand, And the sound of a voice that is still!

But, after all, the poet, sweetly and sadly as he sings, may not perhaps be altogether true to nature. Many a happy hour have we spent here and hereabouts, walking with bare feet over the sands, gathering up the sea shells, launching our miniature boats upon the water, chasing wounded ducks through the surf, clasping loving hands that have "vanished," and listening to the melody of voices that now are still;

The Parnell "Times" Commission.

The Parnell Commission resumed its investigations on Wednesday. Captain O'Shea testified that he was on good terms with Parnell until June, 1886.

Gladstone's speech in the House, in May, 1881, which disclosed the situation of Parnell, placed him in an awkward position, and annoyed Egan and others.

But, down by the sea! At times it stretches to the horizon without a ripple to disturb its glassy calmness, and the fishing fleet stand out against the sky.

Francis R. King-Hall, the New York World's special correspondent, who braved the terrors of yellow fever in Jacksonville in order to keep the sympathetic people of the North informed, through the columns of the World, of the progress of the scourge, and who, while in the line of duty, was himself stricken down by the fever and narrowly escaped death, has returned to New York.

James Gordon Bennet has returned to New York. His first act on arrival was to visit the Herald office and give instructions to the managing editor not to allow the use of the editorial pronoun "we" outside the editorial pages, nor to have the word "reporter" appear in print, or to permit any mention of the writer.

Buoys of Charlottetown Harbor.

Sir,—Referring to the communication in your issue this evening relative to my knowledge of the buoyage of Charlottetown harbor and the grounding of the S. S. Halifax, I may say that I commanded the S. S. Uluda, making regular trips to this port all one summer, and never having met with an accident of any kind, I think is sufficient to show that I have some knowledge of the shoals and buoyage of this harbor.

I would consider an anonymous letter beneath my notice were it not that I hope this communication will lead to the desired improvements being brought to the notice of the Marine Department and remedied before the opening of navigation next season, as such cases as the present have occurred before, and are far from doing credit or justice to this port.

Yours faithfully, S. R. HILL, Commander S. S. Halifax. Nov. 1, 1888.
