FUNERAL HELD FRIDAY — The funeral of the late James Cullen took place Friday morning, Feb. 8th, from the residence of his father, Joseph Cullen, to St. Cuthbert's Church, St. John's. Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. Basil Croken who also conducted the service at the grave. The pall bearers were: Thomas Gallant, Stephen Malone, Melvin Harper, Gerald Proctor, Alvan Bulger and A. J. Mooney.

SURVEY UNDER WAY — It is reported that representatives of the Federal Department of Public Works Boring Branch, Ottawa, are here boring and sampling to determine the best site for the proposed causeway across the Hillsborough River. It was announced previously that boring for suitable rock for fill for the causeway had produced satisfactory results. Since a railroad bridge is no longer necessary it is felt by Premier J. Walter Jones that a causeway will provide a reliable link in the Trans Canada Highway chain at considerably less expense than a bridge would entail.

FEDERATION STATEMENT RE POTATO MARKETING

producer prices on both Seed and Table Stock in December. This action was approved by some smaller dealers and opposed by most of the larger ones because they thought that such action would stop the movement of Island potatoes with disastrous results to all. The result was immediately apparent, a measure of stability was soon evident, and for the next several months Island producers enjoyed a volume of movement and price stability which some people thought impossible earlier in the season.

Again in March of last year when the Potato Market seemed ready to collapse and it was evident that all available supplies could not be marketed through ordinary channels, Potato Board officials made further representations—solidly supported by our Provincial Government—to the Dominion Agricultural Prices Support Board, and as a result a measure of support was granted through a Staro's Assistance Program, whereby over 1,000,000 bushels of Island and New Brunswick potatoes were taken off the domestic market and processed into starch.

This policy enabled the growers in both Provinces to receive a net return of 44c per bushel for those potatoes which otherwise would have been dumped. This direct assistance which, according to Dominion Government sources never would have been obtained if producer Marketing Boards had not existed in Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, brought a direct subsidy of over $90,000.00 to this province and by its prevention of the complete collapse of the Maritime Potato Market in March of last year, was indirectly worth several times that amount to Island producers.

Records show that on several occasions during the past twenty years, even when our position from the supply standpoint was better than last year, Island producers have had to accept as low as ten and twelve cents per bushel for potatoes when those same experienced dealers had full control over marketing policy.

Early last spring Marketing Board officials boldly advised potato growers that it would be in their own interests to curtail potato production to a sufficient extent as to bear a proper relationship to the actual consumption requirements of our principal markets. This realistic advice was followed and has resulted in one of the most profitable years of efficient potato growers have ever experienced. Since early last summer the same officials have sought to truthfully advise growers of prospective production and marketing trends with a degree of accuracy that has caused unbelieving Board critics.

Last August, after a careful study of this year's marketing possibilities, the Potato Board became concerned about the price level at which certain dealers were making contract sales at a basis of seventy to seventy-five cents per bushel for Seed, and to make certain that those sales would not determine the price level for the fall shipping season—as happened in other years—on September 1st they established a minimum price of $1.10 per bushel for our principal varieties of Seed. Incidentally, this was the first time on record that producers knew at that date the least price they would receive for their crop and subsequent market developments have fully confirmed the Board's actions in this regard.

Since that time direct Board action has not been necessary to maintain satisfactory values. Accordingly the Potato Board has turned its attention to other matters of concern such as new policies of disease control, Florida Testing for example, advertising and general industry promotion to the limit of its financial resources, with the help and approval of the City spending a vacation with his wife, daughter Theresa, and son Gerard.

Last fall the Potato Board spearheaded a campaign to prevent any further increase in freight rates on Maritime potatoes. In this effort they were supported by the Provincial Government, the Federation of Agriculture, several younger Potato Dealers—while other dealers were too busy to give the matter any attention. With the able assistance of officials from the Maritime Transportation Commission such a comprehensive presentation was submitted to the Board of Transport Commissioners that favorable consideration was obtained to the extent that the Maritime potatoes have been exempted from the latest of future freight increases. This decision may well mean the saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars to Island growers and shippers in the years that are to come.

All the above accomplishments of the Potato Marketing Board are known and appreciated by Island farmers. Similar action is very necessary regarding the marketing of other products. It is well that the general public be acquainted with the actual facts.

City Council Pays Tribute To Late King

Members of the City Council paid tribute to his late Majesty King George VI at their monthly meeting held last evening, at which His Worship Mayor Stewart gave a brief memorial address. The full Council was present with the exception of Coun. Prowse who is absent from the Province.

As a mark of respect the Council members stood facing the picture of the late King, draped in black and purple, and observed a two minutes' silence.

His Worship then stepped from the dais and administered the oath of allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II to the members.

The meeting opened with the customary reading of minutes, but apart from the passing of monthly bills no routine business was disposed of.

Following is the text of His Worship's memorial address:

"Gentlemen of the Council:—

"So that it may be recorded for posterity in the records of this Council, I speak as follows:

"It is with deep sorrow that we record the passing of our Sovereign King George VI. His example of living is one which we could well emulate. Through danger and trials of mind and of spirit, through illness and through anxiety, he lived as he asked us to live.

"We recall here his quotation from a poem of Miss Minnie L. Haskins—

"I said to a man who stood at the gate of the year: 'Give me a light that may tread safely into the unknown.' And he replied, 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than the known way.'"

"What could be more fitting than to make the second stanza of this poem applicable to the life of His late Majesty, through the period of War and in his latter years of sickness, stress and strain: 'So I went forth and finding the hand of God I tread gladly into the night. And He led me towards the hills and the breaking of the day in the lone east.'"

"So heart be still. What need our little life. Our human life to know. If God hath comprehension? He is gone on. We thank God for his having given to us and to all men such an example. Great Britain and our Commonwealth of Nations are finer for his having reigned."

"This Council, I feel, has a very personal touch at this time with the family of our late Sovereign, due to the fact that a little over two months ago, his daughter, now Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, met and talked with you men in this very Council Chamber. Little did we realize then that within such a short space, the charming Princess would be so soon our Queen."

"Out of respect for His late Majesty, we will now observe two minutes' silence, after which I shall administer to you the Oath of Allegiance to our new Sovereign."

Attended Fisheries Meeting In Halifax

The Dominion Department of Fisheries held its annual meeting in Halifax, with departmental heads of P.E.I., N.B., and N.S. present during a five-day session.

Messrs. J. J. Larabee and L. C. Johnston represented the Department of Fisheries for P.E.I.

During the conference fishing problems for the past year, and proposed regulations for the coming season were the topic of discussion. A change was announced in existing lobster measurement regulations, to the effect, that future measurements for lobsters will entail only the body shell of the shellfish (carapace). Previous regulations required that the full length of the lobster be measured.

The various new regulations for the forthcoming season will be submitted to the Minister of Fisheries, Ottawa, for approval before being publicly released.

Memorial Service At S. A. Citadel

Joining in prayer with thousands of other Canadian subjects, the congregation attending The Salvation Army on Sunday evening likewise remembered Her Majesty's grief and that of the Royal family, at the passing of our Sovereign, King George 6th.

The service opened with the singing of "God Save Our Gracious Queen." Congregational singing accompanied by the martial strains of the Citadel Band. The announcement was then made, "The King is dead. Long live the Queen," after which Sr. Major M. Wheeler, Superintendent of Sun-set Lodge committed the Royal family and the Empire to the keeping of God, praying that as already manifested the deep God-consciousness of her father might remain with Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the 2nd.

Sr. Captain L. Titcombe, drew a thumb-nail sketch of 'boyhood memories spent in London, Eng. especially as they bore upon the Royal family and Buckingham Palace and the deep spiritual tradition and significance of the Throne of England. He spoke of His late Majesty in relation to his peoples, not as a dictatorial power demanding allegiance, but as Monarch who loved his peoples as proved by his stern refusal to leave them at the height of the London Blitz and the threatened invasion from Europe.

"His late Majesty," he said, "was every inch a man, therefore every inch a King. He never demanded

Rotarians Pay Tribute To Lamented Sovereign

The regular Monday meeting of the Charlottetown Rotary Club took the form of a Memorial Service presided over by Rotarian Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, O.B.E., who with Rotarian R. H. Rogers gave utterance to the thoughts of all Rotarians at this time. In addition the National Anthem and the hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past." The closing prayer was said by Rotarian Rev. J. T. Ibbot. Guests yesterday include Messrs. Gordon MacDonald, W. A. Gaudet, and H. M. Simpson.

Dr. MacMillan's Address

"For the first time in the 35 years existence of this important Rotary Club," said Dr. MacMillan, "we change our National Anthem and sing 'God Save the Queen.' Willingly, with feelings of great love and loyalty we honor as Her Gracious Majesty, Elizabeth II, the glorious Princess Elizabeth who honored us with a visit three months ago—not only honored us but charmed and captivated us by her beauty of sterling character, her charm and friendly graciousness."

"Her sudden transition of position from Princess to Queen is the reason for this meeting—resulting from the sudden death of our great King George VI on February 6th last.

"So today we meet under a great canopy of sorrow and sympathy which is not only Empire wide but world wide. In Great Britain's long and honorable history the Empire has had sovereigns who reigned longer but none who were greater, none who were more loved and respected, than our wonderful King George VI whose mortal remains yet lie in state after his immortal soul winged its way to eternity."

"Called unexpectedly to become King on the abdication of Edward VIII in 1936 — for 16 years — he gave of his best in love and labor for his millions of subjects. His first great triumph, greatly assisted by his wonderful consort Queen Elizabeth, was overcoming his natural shyness and speech defects. His annual messages to the Empire were eagerly listened to and followed intensely even to the last when his hoarse and faltering tones gave a true picture of his failing strength. Those messages and all his public utterances were worth while because he placed God first in the picture and preached and practiced faithfully true service to the Almighty like the Divine Master. — He, too, went about doing good — both in his public and private life and left us, his loyal subjects, two wonderfully trained and real Princesses from every standpoint — the older of which is now our Empire Queen."

Led The Way

"He reigned in the terrible 20th century to use the great Churchill's words — He ruled or more properly 'led the way during the world's most terrible war, and he guided the Empire as Prime Minister. Churchill properly said in 'Britain's finest hour' King George refused to move self and family from London during the terrible bombardment and shared the dangers with his subjects, in fact had a very close call when Buckingham Palace was bombed. He was always first to visit and inspect bombed out areas of England's cities as well as visiting war fronts, and the Royal Family did everything humanely possible for all sick, wounded, suffering and homeless."

"In my opinion the late King was the hardest worked man in the Empire spending long hours each day minutely inspecting countless reams of state documents before affixing his Royal signature. During many years of his reign he had another strenuous fight, one for health and strength, and to again quote Churchill—for months he walked with death, refusing to recognize him—and finally like thousands of others he yielded up his spirit, his body being vanquished by malignancy of the lung. Never again shall be beheld such a shining example of a Great Man sacrificed on the altar of public service and devotion to duty. As an exemplar of all that is good, lovable, and virtuous in a Christian and in a King he stands in a class by himself, an example for the whole world to follow."

"The late King was a true Rotarian — a service above self was his every day rule of life. True Rotarians should be inspired to following his example in their daily work."

"It has been to me a great privilege to serve eight years of His Majesty's Provincial Government. Three times I have been honored by our late great King: one on receiving the King George Medal, once on being made an officer of the British Empire, and finally when I had the great privilege of clasping his friendly Royal hand in 1939, yes the hand which our late beloved

Club Addressed By Mr. McLean, MP

"If we work for prosperity we are on the threshold of the golden, present-day Elizabethan era," said Mr. Angus MacLean, M.P., when he addressed the regular monthly supper meeting of the Trinity Men's Club in the church supper room last night.

Mr. MacLean recalled the legend that Great Britain always experienced a time of great advancement and prosperity when a queen sits on the Throne. He mentioned the expansion of the Royal Navy, the upsurge of the literature, led by Shakespeare, during the reign of the first Elizabeth. He compared this with the expansion under Victoria when the Empire grew vastly, the Suez Canal was built and railroads constructed everywhere.

He also said that there were many other changes during the reign of Queen Victoria and spoke of the humanizing of the laws, improvement in working conditions, the literature of the time and the quality of the statesmen developed.

No Short-Cut

In speaking of present world conditions the Member for Queen's said the world was in chaos and had never been so divided since the collapse of the Roman Empire. However, to find a lead to the future he maintained we must look to the guide posts of the past. When our Empire was at its peak the men guiding its destinies knew well the fundamentals of thinking. They thought that decency and honesty were necessary. The people of today were getting away from this thinking, as too many were seeking a short-cut to success and not caring who got hurt in the process.

"The speaker said many of the things of the past could help in the present, but mere age was not a measure of goodness. "We must determine what to keep and what to scrap and be careful not to scrap our traditions." Of these he particularly spoke of the monarchy which he said gives us a stability which he said gives us a pride which republics cannot know.

He added that most civilizations of the past collapsed not so much from external pressure as from insidious rot from within, and said that the great men of the past if they were still living would believe that principles are still more important than even atom bombs.

Population Problem

Mr. MacLean suggested that the economy of Europe might be improved by "a vast deployment of population." It is ten million people from the British Isles were to be removed to the wide spaces of Aus-
