LADY'S MAN

French President Charles de Gaulle waves to Tahitian girls yesterday during his visit to the French colony, part of his round-the-world tour. A prime reason for de Gaulle's visit to the South Pacific island is to witness a French nuclear explosion now scheduled for Saturday off Muroroa Atoll south-east of Tahiti.

Businessmen To Meet Trade Commissioners

A seminar type of meeting to enable businessmen and other interested persons to meet 16 assistant trade commissioners has been arranged by the Charlottetown Board of Trade and is scheduled for Monday evening and on Tuesday morning, September 12 and 13.

Appointments to meet the young commissioners may be made through the Board of Trade office in Charlottetown.

This will be the second group of young officers, who after a period of training in Canada are assigned to Canadian trade promotion offices abroad, to visit Prince Edward Island.

The training program is designed to augment the facilities which the trade commissioner service offers to Canadian exporters and the Canadian business community generally.

TOUR OBJECTIVES

As an essential part of their initial training, these Assistant Trade Commissioners undertake a tour of Canada. This tour has two objectives; first, to enable the Assistant Trade Commissioners to gain first-hand information on Canadian export trade so that they may be more informed when posted abroad; and secondly, to provide these new officers with a broader knowledge of the Canadian economy.

Visits to Boards of Trade and other business and trade associations enable the Assistant Trade Commissioners to be informed about the activities of these groups in the domestic and export field. Provincial government departments interested in trade and development provide valuable information on regional developments and interests. In visits to individual firms, the Assistant Trade Commissioners welcome the opportunity to obtain information on the scope of the company's exports, its products, experience in individual markets and its specific problems. Calls on firms serving only the Canadian market provide a more complete picture of the economy as a whole.

Included in this year's group are: Marc A. Brault, E. Paul Rigby, J. Robert Brocklebank, Robert G. Sandor, Robert G. Bull, Edward C.H. Shelly, Gerald M. Devell, Duane D. Vanbeselaere, J.N. Roger Ferland, Normand Villeneuve, John M. Hill, G. Marshall Wansbrough, John H. Lang, Bernard M. White, Samuel Francis Pattee, Donald T. Wismer.

tion of communications between Mr. Hellyer and members of the armed forces concerning views on unification was defeated by a vote of 126 to 56.

Still later, Gordon Churchill, former Conservative defence minister, asked whether the servicemen who will talk with Mr. Hellyer at Halifax in a couple of weeks on unification will be "carefully selected in advance."

He was called to order but returned to the attack by asking whether the defence department has told servicemen that enthusiastic support for unification will be a factor in promotions.

"Certainly not to my knowledge," Mr. Hellyer replied.

Later, the Conservatives forced an hour-long recorded vote on a motion asking Mr. Hellyer to table all correspondence he has exchanged with members of the armed forces containing their personal views on unification.

The motion was defeated 126 to 56 with only the Conservatives supporting it. Mr. Hellyer opposed the move, saying such letters were either informal or privileged documents.

Traffic Pattern Discussed At Trade Board Meeting

By LAUCHIE CHISHOLM

SUMMERSIDE — The traffic pattern at Read's Corner was discussed at length at Wednesday night's meeting of the Summerside Board of Trade.

The Board went on record as supporting the pattern which is the saftest. A meeting will be arranged between committees of the board and Town council to go over the provincial recommendation.

Some board members advocated at the meeting that the only safe method was a traffic circle at this point.

Mayor Key told the meeting that he felt the situation at Albany was more serious and at present was a "death trap". He said that a traffic circle there was being delayed until the proposed causeway route is known.

An overpass was mentioned but was felt too costly a project for the Read's Corner situation.

Other traffic problems were also aired by the board. Signs will be erected off route two to direct people to Summerside, the meeting was told.

The Summerside Board of Trade went on record as supporting an alternative TV network which will provide the best Island coverage. The meeting was told that two concerns were interested in supplying the satelite service.

A report on the tourist bureau indicated that after a late start, business was good, and the staff of two, Helen Hickey and Nancy Simmons, were commended on their job.

Secretary MacKenzie reported that for the first time information was available in French and the two-way radio had proved very successful. Some distinguished guests, including John Fisher, Centennial head, visited the bureau during the year. The bureau will be closing this week or shortly after, he said.

A report was given on the store hours situation, and the board was told that one store was open last Saturday afternoon, and that it could snowball in the near future.

The ferry link with the mainland came in for comment and Mayor Key said that the highway link should be maintained at all times.

The matter of having the ferries come out of the CNR's hands was discussed, but it was generally felt that anybody running the ferries would be free to strike.

Decorating and lighting for Christmas was brought up with the board to meet with Town centennial committee to put up permament lights that would remain up during 1967.

The parking lot situation was discussed briefly.
