

Butter Output Higher Due To Good Pastures

By NEIL A. MATHESON
Guardian-Patriot Staff Writer

Butter production in this province is running about 10 per cent higher this year and it is largely because of the excellent pasture, it was revealed yesterday by Earl Adams, assistant dairy superintendent.

Production for the week ending Sept. 1, for example, amounted to 184,000 pounds here this year compared with 167,000 the same week a year ago, an increase of 17,000 pounds.

The dairy production is one of the few bright spots in the farm production schedule. The continued wet weather cut hay quality seriously in many cases, and some fields were ruined.

Production had been reported excellent up to this week when a thunder squall and a heavy rainfall with high winds on successive nights flattened many fields so badly that farmers are wondering just how they can harvest them, even with the modern combine that perform near miracles in picking up grain that has broken down.

Farmers at Dundas Thursday reported serious damage from heavy rains and the province fact that there is a heavy growth of grass — the catch of clover is excellent — will only add to the difficulty of the harvest program, farm spokesman said.

Most people report an excellent yield of grain with the heads well filled. It had been one of the few really bright spots in the farm economy until this week's damaging storms.

Production for August of 800,200 pounds of butter compared with 765,000 pounds produced in August 1961 and the production to date this year totals 3,977,200 pounds which is roughly 25,000 pounds in excess of the production in the first eight months of 1961.

Butter production was down sharply in the earlier months of the year, compared to 1961 figures, but it has been catching up in recent months and finally surpassed last year's figures when the August totals were added.

Cheese production was also up slightly in August with 146,900 pounds compared to 1961 August figure of 137,357.

Ice cream production for the first eight months of the year is about the same as in August of last year.

Fourteen 4-H Members to Represent Province

Fourteen Prince Edward Island 4-H club members have been named to represent the province at the Royal Winter Fair, held in Toronto next November. National 4-H Club Week is held in conjunction with the fair.

Of the 14, six will represent the garment clubs, five the calf clubs and three the project clubs. To select the group the provincial department of agriculture conducted a series of elimination contests.

Those named from the Island garment clubs are: Yvonne Gallant, Souris West; Joyce Gaultier, Cornwall; Beth Macdonald, Carleton Place; Eleanor Hyde, Steadburn; and Audrey Bell, Hunter River. These young ladies were selected during the past summer after a training session in Charlottetown.

The project club representatives, chosen from 15 contestants, are: Joe Hensberry, New Perth; Linda Dockendorf, York Point; and Mary MacNally, Tracadie. These contestants were members in gardening, forestry and potato clubs. Their examination consisted of weed identification, vegetable judging and current events.

The five selected from the calf clubs were tested in the judging of beef and dairy cattle in which they were required to give the full reasons for their finds. The group in this class are: Percy Affleck, Bedouque; Albert Cormier, Egmont Bay; Alan Godfrey, North Wilshire; Phyllis Jones, Alexandra; and Gloria Houston, New Glasgow.

The official judges appointed by the agricultural department were: dairy cattle, Albert Goddard, Souris West; beef cattle, S.C. Wright, deputy minister, department of agriculture, project clubs, Bill Stearns; the oral examination for calf clubs, David Peacock and Dr. H.M. Kelly.

The above examiners were assisted by David MacLeod, David Ward and Graeme Lindtner. All were from the agriculture department.

Frankenstein Seen in Control of SIU

By ROBERT RICE
TORONTO (CP) — Senior counsel Charles Dubin of the Norris shipping inquiry suggested Friday that organized labor and organized management created a Frankenstein when they put Hal C. Banks into power in the Seafarers International Union in Canada.

Mr. Dubin made the remark in cross-examination Michael Sheehan, a former SIU patrolman, who said there were no investigations of waterfront labor violence and shipping disruptions.

Mr. Dubin, who acts as lawyer for the federal inquiry commission, questioned Mr. Sheehan on how the SIU and its highly paid contract to represent seamen on Canadian ships.

Mr. Sheehan agreed that Mr. Banks was brought to Canada when an announcement by Justice Norris held that the rival support of organized labor and the co-operation of shipowners were created "what turned out to be a Frankenstein."

Mr. Dubin made a blanket order for production of all pertinent documents and records from the SIU, its rival CMU and other parties. He said commission investigators will study SIU records and then he will issue specific orders for production of specific documents.
