HARPER'S WEEKLY ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S WEEKLY maintains its position as the leading illustrated newspaper in America; and it holds upon public esteem and confidence was never stronger than at the present time. Besides the pictures, HARPER'S WEEKLY always contains illustrations of one, occasionally of two of the best novels of the day, finely illustrated, with short stories, poems, sketches, and papers on important current topics by the most popular writers. The care that has been successfully exercised in the past to make HARPER'S WEEKLY a safe as well as a welcome visitor to every household will not be relaxed in the future.

Harper's Young People.

An Illustrated Weekly.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE has been called "the model of what a periodical for young readers ought to be," and the justice of this commendation is amply sustained by the large circulation it has attained both at home and in Great Britain. This success has been reached by methods that must commend themselves to the judgment of parents, no less than to the tastes of children—namely, by an earnest and well sustained effort to provide the best and most attractive reading for young people at a low price. The illustrations are copious and of a conspicuous high standard of excellence.

An epitome of everything that is attractive and desirable in juvenile literature.—Boston Courier.
A weekly feast of good things to the boys and girls in every family which it visits.—Brooklyn Union.
It is wonderful in its wealth of pictures, information, and interest.—Christian Advocate, N. Y.

Honors for Canadians.

A London (G. B.) correspondent writes: Sir John Macdonald, the Canadian Premier, who now wears the highest honors ever conferred on a colonist, and is a member of the Imperial Privy Council, will doubtless be created a peer of the realm, with the appropriate title of Earl of Ottawa. Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner to England, will be advanced to the Grand Companionship of the Bath and made a Privy Councillor of the Empire. Mr. Sandford Fleming, the first Chief Engineer of the Canadian Pacific railway, and the originator of the twenty-four-hour system and of the project just launched for laying cables from British Columbia to Australia and Japan, who is now a Companion of the Bath, will be made a knight commander. It is also regarded as a certainty that the originators of the Canadian Confederation now living, the members of the Dominion Cabinet, the lieutenant-governors and premiers and chief justices of the various provinces will also be knighted, or where thus honored now, will be advanced in rank. The honor of knighthood will doubtless be offered to Edward Blake, leader of the Liberal party in Canada.

A Bad Scare.

A Western correspondent of the Summerside Journal relates the following:—An honest but poor couple, living up west, were lately married. Provisions being rather short, the husband started with his axe for the woods, to earn an honest penny. While chopping, the axe glanced from a tree, going deep into his boot. Nearly fainting, he dropped his axe and started limping home. His wife, who was washing up the breakfast dishes, happening to look up, beheld her husband with much difficulty dragging himself home. She at once ran to his assistance and got him into the house, when the large red mark in his boot proved too much for his nerves. His wife was obliged to get off his boot alone, as best she could. Expecting to find a fearful wound, she was happily surprised to see that what both had imagined to be blood was only red flannel—which he had put on in lieu of socks, while his only pair were being washed and dried—protruding from his boot.

Quaint Old Marriage Records.

The world discourages, and rightly so, the marriage of December with May, and when such marriages took place in former times, they were usually recorded in some such way as this: "22nd August (1782). At Bath, Captain Hamilton, aged 30, to Mrs. Munson, a lady of rank and fortune, aged 85." We may find even a distance of eighty years between an old man and his bride. In February, 1769, "Robert Judge, Esq., of Cooksburg, Ireland, aged 95, to Miss Annie Nugent, aged 15. He served in King William's wars, and received a ball in his nose." Particulars of height, as well as of age, fortune and length of courtship were often given: "December (1755.) At York, Mr. Thomas, a grenadier in the Yorkshire Militia, six feet two inches high, with a fortune of five thousand pounds." And on April 5th, 1785, at Ripely Church, Mr. Robert Long was married to Miss Reynard; between them there was disparity both of age and size, "the bridegroom being thirty-seven years of age, and more than six feet high; the bride twenty years old and little more than three feet high." The record of a marriage in 1779 of a couple aged respectively 80 and 85 concludes thus: "And what is still more remarkable, there has been a courtship before 'twixt them for more than sixty years."—January Brooklyn Magazine.

The Brooklyn Magazine.

"The Romance of a Forgotten Village," is the fascinating title of a delightful story of love in an old New Jersey village with which Bessie Chandler opens the Brooklyn Magazine for January—a number that is replete with the most entertaining array of bright and readable articles and poems. Ella Wheeler Wilcox sings of the "Mother-in-Law" in pleasing metre, which S. E. Archer follows with a highly interesting paper on "Some Famous Unequal Marriages." Laura C. Holloway has a gossip description of Miss Cleveland's home-life at Holland Patent, that will be widely read as giving an inside glimpse of the home of the President's sister. A sparkling series of "Stories and Memories of Washington" is begun by Mr. Seaton Donoho, and if his succeeding papers are one third as bright as is the present one, the series will be of the most attractive features of coming numbers. "A Midnight Lecture" gives Rev. T. De Witt Talmage an opportunity to tell a characteristic story of how he delivered a discourse at midnight. A classmate of President Garfield describes the future President during his life at college, and how he appeared to his fellow-students. Mrs. Beecher's "Monthly Talk" contains much common sense in her discussion of the "Coarse Language and Free Manners" of some of our young women, and writes a second article on "Girls as Housekeepers." Rose Hartwick Thorpe, John Vance Cheney, Earl Marble, George Cooper, Sophie L. Schenck, furnish the poetry, and Rev. Henry Ward Beecher supplies four of his recent sermons revised by himself. Beside this, there are still further articles on "Winter in the Forest," "Courtship Among the Indians," "Italian Singing Slaves," "The Actresses' Jewels," "An Algerian Wedding," "The Art of Spending Money," etc., etc. The "Brooklyn" is without one of our brightest magazines, and one of the cheapest: 20 cts per number, or $2 per year.—The Brooklyn Magazine, 132 Pearl Street, New York.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites is not only very palatable, but the remedial power of these valuable specifics is greatly increased, and as a remedy for consumption, scrofula, emaciation, or where there is loss of flesh and nerve power, it is remarkable in its results. Take no other.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets—the original little liver pills (sugar-coated)—cure sick and bilious headache, sour stomach, and bilious attacks. By druggists.

How to Live This Year.

Stop writing it 1886.
Stop whistling airs from the Mikado, unless by special request.
Stop telling ultra venerable stories.
Stop telling fresh stories whose point can only be apprehended by the aid of a double-convex lens.
Stop shirking your political duties.
Stop neglecting to return borrowed books.
Stop indulging in more than one hundred pounds of self-conceit to the square inch.
Stop subscribing to the theory that a workman is known by his poker chips.
Stop tarrying at the flowing bowl or other flowing receptacle for alcoholic stimulants.
Stop supposing that the world would not get along fair to middling without you.
Stop fighting the inevitable.
Stop looking at the dark side of life.
Stop giving way to fault-finding.
Stop furnishing your friends with the minute particulars of your bodily ailments.
Stop taking pessimistic views of men, things, and the theory of the universe.
Stop working too hard.
Stop working not hard enough.
Stop going out between the acts for the automatic clove.
Stop procrastinating.
Stop sending to newspapers "something I've just dashed off and haven't stopped to correct."
Stop informing your conscience that white lies or any lies that shade off from blonde don't count.
Stop using language unfit for publication to your telephone when you are unable to catch the other fellow.
Stop telling a busy man "I know you're busy so I'll only keep you a minute," as a prelude to an hour and a half's attempt to talk his head off.
Stop being so engrossed in money-making as to have no time to be public-spirited.
Stop flattering yourself that you thoroughly understand the Irish question.
Stop trying to earn your living by the sweat of race horses, lottery tickets or stock gambling.
Stop laying the unction to your soul that you can brush your hair so that the bald spot won't show.
Stop discussing Hamlet's madness, the personality of the XVIIth Louis, the difference between the old and new school Presbyterian church, the probable date of the arrival of the millennium, and the best way to dress a lettuce salad.
Stop casually reminding your wife of your mother's method of making mince pies.
Stop entertaining the impression that apples haven't the flavor they used to have.
Stop boasting of how practical you are long enough to find out if you are not merely narrow.
Stop over-eating and under-exercise.
Stop casting mores out of the eyes of relatives, friends and acquaintances until you are convinced that there are not beams enough in your own to start a lumber yard.
Stop entertaining the impression that any year of the past was a better year than this year.
Stop envy, hatred, malice and all uncharitableness.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Beecher's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size.
The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.

American Universities.

The dollars seem to flow into the coffers of the great universities of the United States in a never-ending stream. Scarcely a year passes without one or other of them receiving a magnificent bequest to swell their already enormous endowments. The latest to have this good fortune is Harvard College, which has just received a bequest of $400,000. The donor will be a fund to that amount should be established, the trustees being directed "to devote and apply the annual income thereof to the aid of young men only, who are poor, but show indications of talent, energy and application in procuring an education; that each young man who receives any benefit from said fund shall give his own promissory note therefor to the president and fellows of Harvard College, bearing legal interest, to be repaid and paid by such recipient or beneficiary as a debt of honor, and in no case shall the payment thereof be enforced at law."

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little shrub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gum, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for their case, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind. feb4 eod wk
