Power Cut Is Necessary For Repairs

Maritime Electric will shut down and temporarily move a high voltage line at Ross' Corner today to permit pile driving equipment to work at the construction of a new bridge.

The high voltage line made pile driving difficult and dangerous Wednesday when contractors began work on a new bridge to replace one washed out by heavy floods.

A Maritime Electric spokesman said that the line would be shut down at eight o'clock this morning and will be back on again by five o'clock. Prince County west of St. Eleanors will be affected by the shutdown.

The Ross Corner bridge is expected to be open on Monday or Tuesday, Highways Minister Philip Matheson said yesterday. The St. Peters bridge is expected to be open for traffic today or Saturday and the Bridgetown bridge late next week.

Counselling Plan Set For Prince Co.

SUMMERSIDE — The first career counselling program for grade 12 high school students will be held in Summerside on the afternoon of April 14 it was learned yesterday from special placements officer at the local Unemployment Insurance Commission office, Ernest Murphy.

The project is designed to assist graduating students in selecting a career and although many more applications are expected, 49 replies from five of the eight high schools in Prince County have been received. It is anticipated that approximately 150 students will make inquiries and take advantage of this counselling program.

The total school enrollment in grade 12 in the county is 228, Mr. Murphy stated.

The counsellors, many of whom will be members of the Summerside Y's Men's Club, with the remainder to be enlisted by a committee of club members, was selected last evening. The Y's Men's committee taking charge of participation in the counselling program is headed by James Murphy assisted by Wilson Ross and Eric Jones.

Of the inquiries received to date, students are requesting counselling in a wide range of fields. Much interest has been shown in the armed forces, in engineering, drafting, nursing, airline stewardesses, teaching, social service work, x-ray and lab technicians, civil service commission, accounting. In fact so far there have been 30 different occupations listed in which students request counselling.

The counsellors will provide the students with such information as educational requirements, what universities offer the course in which the applicant is interested, scholarships and employment possibilities.

Mr. Murphy is working on the program in conjunction with supervisor Miss Blanche Hogg and the manager of the local office Earl G. Cannon.
