Schurman-Richardson Wedding

—The marriage of Leila Pauline, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Schurman, to Flight Lieutenant Thomas Ernest Richardson, son of Mr. Thomas Richardson of Whitby, Ontario, was solemnized on Tuesday afternoon, February 10th, in St. Mary's Church, Summerside, Prince Edward Island, with Archdeacon Harrison officiating. Mrs. Creelman MacArthur played the wedding music and Mr Robert Schurman sang.

Crawley Simm carnations, white chrysanthemums and greenery were used as floral decorations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Laurie Coles of Fredericton, N. B., as matron of honor, with Mrs. D. R. Morrison and Miss Ione MacDonald as other attendants.

Flying Officer William Davidge acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Maynard Schurman, brother of the bride, and Flying Officer Lorne Broughton.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin, styled with a fitted bodice and Elizabethan collar, long pointed sleeves, the full skirt falling in folds into a circular train. Her long veil of Brussels lace, which had been worn by her mother, was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and bouvardia.

The matron of honor was in a frock of Elizabeth blue velveteen in bouffant style with toning crescent-shaped velveteen headdress and gloves.

She carried a matching muff covered with multi-colored flowers.

The bride's other attendants were similarly gowned and carried muffs trimmed with blue flowers.

Mrs. Schurman, mother of the bride, in a dress of powder grey taffeta, its slim skirt trimmed with a chou of the same material on one side, wore a nylon blue petal hat and shoulder spray of white orchids.

Mrs. Milton H. Brown, sister of the groom, was dressed in an afternoon frock of cocoa and wore an eggshell and brown straw hat with a corsage of yellow roses.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Summer Street, where white roses and trailing huckleberry decorated the bride's table, while tawny gold roses were artistically arranged in the living room.

Mrs. M. F. Schurman, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. J. Sinclair MacKay presided over the tea-cups, while Mrs. Wendell Muttart, Mrs. Charles Linkletter, Mrs. James J. Black, sister of the groom, Mrs. Richard Hurst, Mrs. Verne Ehman, Mrs John Ellis, Mrs. Stuart Veale, Miss Joyce Currie, Miss Elaine Inman, Miss Joan Scales, Miss Francis Lecky, Miss Pearle Cameron, Miss June Sharpe and Miss Dorothy Daley assisted in serving.

Bitter Wrangle

and Liberal members added up to a real political donnybrook. They accused one another of imputing motives, of playing politics, of trying to smear the Currie report by innuendo, wrangled over the Conservatives' silence at the two previous meetings and over the relative importance of the Works Services in the broad realm of defence.

The Conservatives argued that the Currie report stands "intact and in all its integrity" as a result of Mr. Currie's testimony and that Liberal "attacks" on it have "fizzled out."

They said official figures indicate the Works Services handle only $9 out of every $10,000 spent by the Defence Department and that was the only branch of the whole program investigated by Mr. Currie. Yet many people thought the Currie report had probed all the defence program.

The Liberals suggested that the Conservatives were trying to play politics to shut off further discussion of the Currie report and to defy the earlier decision of the Commons against a wider inquiry. They said there was no evidence to substantiate the need for an inquiry, that it would cost millions of dollars and probably take years. They said the Army Works Services' part of the defence effort was four to eight times larger than suggested by the Conservatives, that Mr. Currie himself had said that the irregularities had probably all been tracked down and the cure for the situation was taking effect rapidly.

They doubted that Mr. Currie would "touch another investigation with a 15-foot pole," as one Liberal member put it, and chided the Conservatives for "not even bothering to ask him" while he was a witness.

Mr. Fleming replied that he is sure Mr. Currie would undertake such a mission if the Commons asked him.

Ancient Acadian Festival Revived At Tignish

—The mid-winter festival of the gateau which was introduced into this Province by the early Acadians was re-introduced in the Canadian Legion Community Centre at Tignish on Monday evening, February 2nd, after being dormant for a quarter of a century.

After the passing of the gateau, the king and queen, accompanied by the lady-in-waiting and her escort entered the hall to the strains of the Marseillaise, the national anthem of France and paraded to their thrones which were on a dais. When the Royal couple were seated the king's lieutenant crowned his majesty while the queen was crowned by her lady-in-waiting.

Mr. J. J. Arsenault, the capable Master of Ceremonies, addressed the Royal couple, expressing the pleasure which their visit gave to all their faithful subjects.

The king, on behalf of himself and his queen, thanked their people for the royal welcome which they received and offered to hold a private audience with anyone who wished to ask a favor of him. After spending some time meeting his subjects and granting privileges to them, the king and queen with their courtiers led the opening dance of the evening.

The music was supplied by the Tignish Orchestra. Those taking part in the pageant were Aubin N Perry, as king; Mrs. Fred Fitz-Gerald as the queen; Miss Agnes Chaisson as lady-in-waiting and Mr. Henry Perry as the king's lieutenant.

The proceeds of the evening were in aid of the Mutual Society and the St. Thomas Aquinas Society. —CL

Coke Train

Coal and Steel Community has been established and on Feb. 10, 1953, issued its first order under the supranational authority vested in it by the parliaments of six countries. The order said that tariffs, and all forms of trade discrimination among them, as they affected coal, steel scrap and iron ore, would end. Two hours later the little coke train inaugurated a new era.

Similar orders will follow regarding steel when the details have been worked out.

Already the achievement has fired Europe with the belief that this is just a start.

There are still some hedges about the operation of the community. Serious problems of operation remain to be solved. Its sponsors cannot yet be sure that it will not fall apart under pressures as yet unforeseen. But if it does not, the nations of Western Europe, their sinews of war harnessed by an authority whose charter stresses its non-national status, will be unable to cut one another's throats.

Gov't Supported

The divisions came after a debate that had stretched over parts of three days.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday the government is not prepared to go ahead with the project, on the $250,000,000 basis estimated by the royal commission, until it has further information.

Some Liberals called for support of the dam, which would serve the relatively-arid southwest corner of Saskatchewan, but said they would refuse to vote for the Opposition motion whose passage would call for toppling of the government.

Irving Studer (L—Maple Creek), whose riding is in the driest area of Saskatchewan's Palliser Triangle, said it is essential to impound the water in that rain-scarce region and that this is a federal responsibility.

He said South Saskatchewan farmers have spent enough on moisture-catching summer fallow to "build a dozen south Saskatchewan projects."

He proposed that a new committee be named, to include Agriculture Minister Gardiner, a PFRA representative and members from former investigating commissions, which could reach a "valid decision" in 30 days.

He hoped for an early and favorable decision.

Another Saskatchewan Liberal, J. J. Smith (Moose Mountain), suggested an all-party committee of the Commons make a further study.

Nuns Describe Torture And Humiliation In China

VANCOUVER, (CP)—A story of torture and humiliation suffered in Red China was told Monday by four Roman Catholic nuns who arrived here by boat from Hong Kong.

They are Sisters St. Alphonse of St. Dorothy, Que., Mary Germaine of St. Proster, Que., St. Germain of Pont Rouge and St. Jean Baptiste of Montreal.

All except Sister St. Germain, suffering from a leg injury—the result of a beating with a bamboo cane—are in good health.

Sister St. Alphonse, Sister Mary Germaine and Sister St. Germain were charged by the Chinese Communists with the "murder" of 2,116 orphans.

Operated Orphanage

They operated an orphanage in Canton for abondoned children. Many of the children were dying when found on the streets. The Reds accused them of responsibility for the deaths.

Sister St. Jean Baptiste taught in a Canton school which the Reds closed in August, 1951. She was imprisoned in her home.

The three Sisters who operated the orphanage and two other nuns who returned earlier to Canada were reviled at a public trial in Canton in December, 1951. They were sentenced to five years in prison.

They told of their experiences through Sister Ste. Margaret, Mother Superior of Mt. St. Joseph's Hospital here.

Driven Through City

The day of the trial they were put into a truck and driven through Canton and everybody had a chance to throw rocks and filth at them.

Sister Ste. Germain was beaten severely across the legs with a bamboo rod and developed an abscess.

"Her hands were handcuffed so she could not help herself," said Sister Ste. Margaret.

"Once in prison they were not treated too badly by the Reds, but they had to work very hard every day from early in the morning until late at night making cotton shoes."

They were ordered to leave China last Christmas, a year after the trial.

After a rest here, the Sisters will return to headquarters of the Missionary Sisters of the Immaculate Conception in Montreal.

Let's Talk It Over

by "d"

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good." But, just as surely, it's a very favorable wind that blows nobody harm. Take this winter for example. A lot of people are happy because we are not getting a repeat on the winter of 1951-52. Very little snow, very little frost clean travelling on all paved highways, a saving on fuel. So far, so good, but —

The men in the natural ice business are beginning to despair of ever harvesting enough ice this winter to supply adequately the needs of people who depend on natural ice and ice-boxes for their food refrigeration next summer. If Jack Frost doesn't get in some good licks from now till the beginning of spring, the natural ice business will really be in jeopardy

The lack of snow, and the resulting bare fields exposed to the little frost there is, followed by frequent thaws, is expected to play havoc with hay crops next summer. Generally, winters of light snow are followed by skimpy fields.

No matter what happens, everyone will have to admit that President Eisenhower is a man of quick decisions, and action. His decision to de-neutralize Formosa, and probably blockade the China coast is quite a departure from former policy, and has raised a storm of protest from outside nations. These provocative measures may reveal just what proportion of Russia's toughness is bluff. If Russia is committed to "cold war" tactics only, and will shy away from more forthright action, then Eisenhower's measures may be just the thing to break the horrible stalemate in Korea. It's a frightful gamble, however. Like lighting a match to see if it's water or gasoline in the tank.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
