THE DAILY EXAMINER.

APRIL 10, 1879.

THE VICTORY.

The victory gained by the Liberal-Conservative party is great, brilliant, overwhelming, complete—unprecedented, we believe, in the history of the Province. We congratulate the people on having shaken off the last remaining shackles of Grit domination and Grit misrule. We congratulate the Government and its gallant supporters on their notable success. We look to the future now in the firm hope and belief that the winter of governmental extravagance and jobbery, of legislative incapacity and folly, is over, and that a glorious summer of prudence, economy and ability in the conduct of public affairs is about set in. We are not, however, disposed to exult overmuch. True, the Liberal Conservative party has succeeded wonderfully. But it has succeeded to the beggarly heritage of an empty treasury and an estate reduced by thriftless mismanagement and wanton extravagance to the verge of bankruptcy. It has succeeded to an antiquated, cumbersome and expensive piece of machinery called a civil service, by which its public affairs are conducted. It has succeeded to an unwieldy and expensive Legislature. It has succeeded to a heterogeneous mass of laws and regulations which must be repealed, amended, collated and consolidated. In a word, it has succeeded to exceedingly heavy and grave responsibilities.

We feel sure that the men who triumphed yesterday will manfully shoulder these responsibilities and ably grapple with the difficulties by which they are beset. We look with confidence to Messrs. Sullivan, Ferguson, McLeod and their associates. The duty of righting our wrongs and conserving our independence—aye even our permanent existence as a separate Province—devolves upon them. We are persuaded that they will do the very best they can under the circumstances. In ordinary times it might be regretted that there is practically no opposition; for in ordinary times a good opposition is a strength to a government. But now it is perhaps well that the new Administration is not to be hampered in its work. The great danger it will have to contend with will be over-presumption on its own strength. Let that be strictly guarded against. By that sin fell both McKenzie and Davies. We trust that the new Government will avoid it. Looking at the characteristics of the Leader of the Government and his principal associates, there will not, of course be the slightest necessity to warn them against hasty and ill-considered action such as wrought such dire effects under the administration of Mr. Davies.

On the other hand, it will be the duty of the people to give the Government a fair trial. They must not expect too much at once. Time and much care will necessarily be required to prepare a comprehensive system of reform with a view to retrenchment and efficiency. Offices will have to be abolished. Salaries must be curtailed. Lesser interests must be sacrificed that the greater may be preserved. Moderation on the part of the supporters of the Government and the people generally will, therefore, be expected.

At the Easter Cattle Show, on Tuesday last, April 8th, the following valuable stock were sold at auction on the Market Square by A. McNeill, Auctioneer: Thoroughbred horse Abel, owned by Stock Farm Commissioners, purchased by E. Howatt, Tryon, for $105; thoroughbred horse Brown Stout, owned by Stock Farm Commissioners, purchased by Allen Bousner, North River, for $270; thoroughbred Ayrshire bull calf, owned by Stock Farm Commissioners, purchased by J. J. Davis, Rankin House, for $50; fat ox (weight, 1335 lbs.), owned by Joseph Gallant, Rustico, purchased by Blake Brock, city, for $71; fat cow, owned by Joseph Gallant, Rustico, purchased by Daniel Mullins, city, for $55; fat ox, owned by W. Brimacombe, Malpeque Road, purchased by Mark Wilson, city, for $56; fat cow, owned by A. Stewart, purchased by S. Match, city, for $38.25; fat cow, owned by J. Bell, Royalty, purchased by A. McDonald, West River, for $60.

The Contest and the Result. A GLORIOUS TRIUMPH.

Victory Along the Whole Line.

THE struggle was a sharp one. Our opponents exhibited plenty of pluck and audacity. Had they been less unscrupulous and abusive it would perhaps have been better for them. By these latter tactics they drew forth crushing facts; and their overthrow has, consequently, been the more complete. How to Raise the Sugar Beet.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—Almost every farmer has raised beets and mangel wurtzel. They require careful cultivation in order to get a good crop. The useful conditions are: Early planting, good manuring, deep plowing, thorough harrowing, plenty of seed, timely thinning out, careful hoeing and neat weeding.

With these seven conditions a good crop is certain. I will name some of the farmers, among many others, who raised satisfactory crops of beets from seed last year; and this year the price per ton is $6, delivered at any shipping port in Maine: William Connor, Fairfield, Maine, 20 tons per acre; Ira Getchell, North Varralbar, do., 20 tons per acre; John B. Morrison, Farmington, do., 40 tons per acre; Henry Piper, Benton, do., 40 tons per acre; Charles B. Seavey, do., do., 49 1/2 tons per acre.

Last year many farmers planted too late and on land not in proper condition, or did not attend to thinning and weeding at the proper time. Of course they failed to get a satisfactory crop, as might be expected under such circumstances.

TIME OF PLANTING.

Early planting is specially important. The seed sprouts best in cool weather. The young plant thrives in the early spring rains. By early planting the beets get the start of the weeds. At first the beet grows slowly, but when once fully rooted, it becomes very vigorous. So that later in the season after thinning and weeding it takes care of itself.

Early planting enables the farmers to get the thinning and weeding done before the haying season comes on. Just as early in May as the sod can be loosened and pulverized the seed should be planted in rows twenty-four or thirty inches apart and covered from one half to one inch deep. Land plowed the fall before can be got ready earlier, and is therefore preferable, but this is not absolutely necessary.

PREPARATION OF SOIL.

The soil should be deep mellow loam, free from standing waters; clay and sandy loam are both good and the better soil the more highly manured the better will be the crop. Any kind of dressing is good. Old well-rotted barn-yard manure, superphosphate ground fish chum, also lobster chum and ashes.

Local and Other Items.

To-morrow—Good Friday—no paper will be issued.

The City Council meets this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The channel of the Hillsborough is now open, and for a few days safe communication with Southport is suspended.

LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN.—On Dit—That a reward of one hundred dollars is offered to any person who will answer the question:—“Where is W. D. Stewart?”

The store on Queen street formerly occupied by Mr. N. L. Herbert, next to Mr. J. B. McDonald's, has been torn down. We learn that it is the intention of Mr. Monaghan to replace it by a three-storey brick building.

A despatch received by the Clerk of the Executive Council yesterday announces that “the last small-pox patient has been dismissed and the hospital has been closed.” Confidence is now restored to the village. Preparations are being made for the spring trade.

“WHO IS NEIL McLEOD?”—This question was yesterday correctly answered as follows: “He is Provincial Secretary and Treasurer, and was returned to the House of Assembly at the head of the poll in the metropolis of this Province.” Now, who is W. D. Stewart?

MISSSES' RUBBERS only 30 cents at Dorsey & Jost's.
CHILDRENS' RUBBERS only 25 cents at Dorsey & Jost's.

A number of practical jokers were on the rounds last night. Streamers of crape were hung to the doors of the Grit headquarters, and it seemed the joker was lavishly generous toward the occupants of the Patriot office. In addition to the usual mourning insignia, a representative tombstone with a suitable inscription, was placed firmly against the door.

PERSONAL.—Doctor McSwain who left an extensive practice at Belfast owing to ill health about a year ago, has returned home (enjoying excellent health) from his trip across the Atlantic. The Doctor, after visiting many of the principal Hospitals of Europe, spent some months in the Edinburgh University, attended a course of lectures at St. Thomas' Hospital, London, graduated from the Royal College of Physicians, London, and now holds the degree of L. R. C. P., London, as well as graduate of Harvard College, Boston.

The inhabitants of this village may well congratulate themselves on the election last Tuesday of J. M. Costello as President of the village. He is a young man of unimpeachable character and well-known executive ability, and who has done more toward the incorporation of this village than any one man, and also for the establishment of good order.—Sand Bank (N. Y.) Herald.

The Mr. Costello alluded to in the above paragraph is the son of Mr. John Costello of this city.

We find it necessary to confine our business more strictly to the Cash system than formerly, and from this date we advertise to sell and manufacture for ready Cash only. Prices accordingly.
