RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER

Bridge bidding table with North-South vulnerable, North hand (9732, AQJ6, K8765), South hand (AKQ109863, 4, 432, K8), and bidding sequence (Pass, 4, 4, 5, 5, 6, Pass, Pass).

Opening lead—five of hearts.

It is not well known that contract bridge is a popular game among the blind. I was playing in a pair game at the Winter nationals in Detroit recently and participating in the event were Lois and Martin Zwart, of Olivet, Mich. Mrs. Zwart is blind. Both rank as masters in the records of the American Contract Bridge League, having won numerous championships.

The cards used in the duplicate boards in our section all had Braille markings in the corners to enable Mrs. Zwart to recognize her hand.

The bidding proceeded normally after Mrs. Zwart had sorted her hand, which she does very quickly. The play period ran just as smoothly, the 13 cards in dummy being announced card for card as soon as dummy comes down. Thereafter, each player called his card as he played it and Mrs. Zwart had no trouble whatever following the course of play.

I could not help but admire Mrs. Zwart's technique in the accompanying hand when she became declarer at six spades. Mrs. Zwart, a very attractive young lady, ruffed the heart lead in dummy, entered her hand with a trump, and led a low club to the queen. West playing the nine, a decision West later came to regret.

Crossing to her hand with a spade, Mrs. Zwart took a diamond finesse successfully and then led out all her trumps.

On the last trump play, when Mrs. Zwart still had left in her hand two small diamonds and the king of clubs, West had to choose a discard.

Down to four cards—K-10-7 of diamonds and the ace of clubs—West was in trouble. He could not afford the ace of clubs discard, which would make declarer's king a trick, nor a diamond discard which would make dummy's remaining three diamonds—A-Q-6—tricks.

So Mrs. Zwart scored not only the slam, which was bid at comparatively few tables, but also managed to make thirteen tricks as a result of the well-executed squeeze.
