Storm Causes Damage In Millions In United States

NEW YORK (AP) — A late winter tempest Thursday pounded the east from West Virginia to Canada with a furious bombardment of rain, hail, sleet and snow. Bursting rivers chased thousands from homes. Four deaths were attributed to the wild storm. Two were in New York, the others in the Ottawa area. While its windpower in most instances was small, the tempest's powerful punch in other ways stirred memories of the hurricanes of recent years. Some of the same areas were really awed.

The only really stiff winds were in Canada. There they caused a blizzard in the Canadian capital and in the Ottawa valley. In the United States, troubles stemmed mostly from new deluges of rain and snow on top of previous downpours for as many as four days.

Property damages ran high—most likely into millions of dollars. Farms were inundated in New York and Pennsylvania, homes and stores were put under water, and roads washed out. PHONE LINES DOWN Floods and snow downed power and telephone lines in many parts of the northeast. Airline flights were halted or delayed. Hundreds of schools were closed. The combined fall of snow, freezing rain and hail piled up to a depth of 10 to 15 inches in the Pittsburgh area of New York state. But, the northeastern Pennsylvania city of Warren, which has 15,000 residents, apparently was hardest hit of all. All roads leading into the city were cut. The flood-swollen Allegheny river swept over its banks there, reaching a record or near-record level of 18 feet. Flood stage is 14 feet.

IN MARITIMES

HALIFAX (CP) — Snow, sleet and rain buffeted Maritimers Thursday as a storm swept from the center of the continent moved into the Atlantic. Road traffic was slowed to a creeping pace in southern and central New Brunswick, which got the heaviest snowfall—more than six inches. Late Thursday night the Halifax weather office warned that another six to 10 inches of snow was expected in northern New Brunswick.

Two New Brunswick children were killed in street accidents. At East Bathurst Arnold Oickle, 13, was struck and killed by a truck that did not stop. At Moncton Heather Anne Saunders, 6, died after being hit by a bus. The storm brought thunder, lightning and a deluge of rain to Halifax just before midnight. No damage was reported immediately.

Fire blamed on an overheated pipe drove one family from a Halifax tenement at the storm's height. The rest of the Maritimes got less snow but sleet and freezing drizzle added to the troubles of motorists and transportation companies in Nova Scotia. The sleet turned to rain Thursday night. Trolley service was disrupted in the north end of Halifax by ice-coated wires. Two trolleys became stalled on the Dartmouth bridge across Halifax harbor during the evening rush hour, tying up cross-harbor traffic.

Air lines said almost all flights were cancelled. Flights kept only main highways open but some local roads in New Brunswick were blocked by drifted snow driven by winds up to 45 miles an hour.

AMONG THE

most important matter of laying sound foundations for good health in our young people. It is generally agreed that good nutrition is health insurance and that milk is one of the nutritional essentials not only for growing people but for adults as well.

Already there are cities and schools that have had in operation, school milk programs. Windsor, Ontario, has completed its fifteen years of making milk available to the schools in the city and surrounding areas. Special tickets are printed and sold at 4½ cents each or twelve for 51 cents, for glass bottles containing seven ounces. Eventually it is hoped that programs of this type may become general in urban schools. The history of such efforts has been that not only do they increase consumption of milk in the schools but they also lead to increased consumption in the homes and the continuation of the milk drinking habit by the adult.

The Atlantic Provinces Economic Council organized a little over a year ago is an organization which we expect will in the future be attracting considerable attention. Basically, the Council plans to promote the economy, welfare and living standards of the four Atlantic Provinces as a region. This will be done through careful study and analysis of the factors effecting the economic development of the region. Efforts will be made to develop existing industries and to encourage and establish new ones. The Council brings together representatives from all branches of the Atlantic economy and those who have had the opportunity of observing the men who make up the Board of Directors can hardly fail but be impressed with their sincerity and determination to set the Atlantic region on a higher level. The Council represents a new venture inasmuch as it is the first effort on the part of a region as opposed to a province to develop economic development.
