May Name Royal Commission On Criminal Law

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA, (CP)—The Government may establish a Royal Commission possibly before Parliament opens this fall—to study the question of abolishing hanging and whipping.

The Government plans to ask the new Parliament to complete the job of consolidating criminal law at the forthcoming session, in aid of Borden Canadian Legion. Dance after.

First in 60 Years
It is understood the Government plans to take the former step to ensure that debate on controversial questions will not impede passage of the consolidation of the first in Canadian criminal law in 60 years.

Other Questions
Besides the questions of capital and corporal punishment, a Royal Commission may also examine the defence for insanity in criminal law. Several organizations suggested at committee hearings that present criminal law contains inexact terms describing mental illnesses and that some descriptions refer to illnesses which do not really exist.

competition—and therefore are exempt from equalization under the 1951 statute. If the statute is unclear on the point, they added, the board should take no action until it has been clarified.

Lengthy Submission
The CPR's lengthy submission, which the company began reading into the record late Tuesday, said a rigid mile-for-mile application of rates will not be beneficial to the country as a whole and urged the existing groupings be kept intact as far as possible.

Another was on the ground that the board's rates would not be high enough to maintain the over-all revenues of the company in line with the intention of Parliament in ordering equalization.

Another was that the board's rates do not provide a sharp enough rate of "taper" for long hauls. The tapering principle is that, as the length of a freight movement increases, the charge per ton-mile lessens.

The company submitted a proposed alternative scale to the board, giving a sharper taper and with somewhat higher charges than the board's.

Toronto Mayor Wins Plowing Competition

COBOURG, Ont., (CP)—Allan Lamport, for all the world acting and looking like a farmer rather than the mayor of Toronto, won the mayor's competition at the 40th International Plowing championship for the second year in a row Tuesday.

"Lampy," plowing four rounds which any veteran plowman could be proud of, was chosen ahead of nine other Ontario mayors who competed in the class, first on the match's program last year.

Mrs. Bernadette Smith of Woodstock, one of two women mayors entered, came in second despite the fact she had only a half hour's plowing experience before the match.

A beaming Mayor Lamport told reporters: "It's wonderful, it certainly is a pleasure to win. I'm happy and proud. The competition was much stiffer this year. I'm lucky to win."

Ontario Plowing Championship Is Decided

COBOURG, Ont., (CP)—A 26-year-old farmer from Stouffville, Ont., won the Ontario plowing championship Tuesday for the third time as the 40th International Plowing Match was opened by Governor-General Massey.

Robert Timbers, who farms 100 acres and has plowed Herefords, edged out 10 other of Ontario's top plowmen, many of them previous champions.

At the official opening, the 26-piece Bowmanville kiltie Pipe band led a colorful parade through the two miles of streets in the tent city.

In the first wagon leaning against a bale of hay was Governor-General Massey. Several wagons were filled with officials, government representatives and contestants.

Timbers, who has competed in seven internationals, will meet the champions of British Columbia, Manitoba, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island Wednesday for the Canadian title.

The National title holder and runner-up will compete with representatives of 10 foreign countries for the Golden Plow trophy, emblematic of world plowing supremacy.

Provincial champions who will tangle with Timbers in the Canadian finals include: Hilton Cochran and S. J. Stothers, both of Beech Grove, Que.; Delmer Duffy, Nappan, N. S.; Stirling Moore, Pownal, P. E. I., and Stanley Willis, Cornwall, P. E. I.

Links With Reds
A Colonial Office spokesman said Tuesday night that it was known before the People's Progressive Party came to power that certain of its leaders had links with the international Communist movement.

"Nevertheless, no attempt has been made to prevent the elected ministers assuming all the powers granted them under the new constitution. The governor, Sir Alfred Savaga, 50, has done all he could to defer to their wishes and to induce them by tact, patience and tolerance to carry out their responsibilities as ministers."

Annual Meeting In S'ide Of Air Cadet League

The annual meeting of the Prince Edward Island Provincial Command Air Cadet League of Canada was held in Summerside yesterday.

The annual reports of the two squadrons in this Province were submitted and showed that they had at present a combined strength of about 200 members.

Gordon Raynor of Charlottetown was elected chairman of the Provincial Command for the coming year, and the balance of the committee was made up of members of the Summerside and Charlottetown Wings as follows: Norman Hogg, Dr. G. J. Gallant, and Greg Mulholland, of the Summerside Wing; Al MacRae and George MacDougall, of the Charlottetown Wing.

Present at the annual meeting were Wing Commander G.N. Black, senior Air Cadet Liaison officer for Canada with headquarters at Ottawa; Air Commodore A.D. Ross, G.C., O.B.E., air officer commanding Maritime Air Command, Halifax; G.M. Ross, general manager Air Cadet League of Canada, Ottawa; H.D. MacGillivray, St. Johns, Newfoundland, president of the Air Cadet League of Canada.

The meeting was addressed by Air Commodore Ross who gave a report on the Air Cadet organization during the past year.

In presenting this report he stated that the summer camp at Greenwood, N.S., had been the most outstanding camp ever held in Eastern Canada, and he pledged the support of the R.C.A.F. in this very worthwhile youth organization.

Wing Commander C. M. Black said he had received a report through the Minister of External Affairs for Sweden that Sgt. Alan Massey of the Charlottetown Squadron, who had been selected for the exchange visit to Sweden had conducted himself in a manner that had reflected much credit on Canada and the Air Cadet movement, and that he had certainly proved himself to be a splendid example of Canadian youth.

In the evening the banquet which was held at Robsons Restaurant was honored by the presence of His Honor Lieutenant Governor T. W.L. Prowse, who after expressing his pleasure at being present said he had watched with much interest, the progress of the Air Cadet movement in Prince Edward Island.

"It is continuing to grow," he said, "and its sponsorship by the local Air Force Association has been a step in the right direction."

In an informal and friendly manner, His Honor gave an interesting account of his trip to the coronation during the past summer, and said it had been a great demonstration of patriotism and an unforgettable experience.

The guest speaker was the national president H. D. MacGillivray, who spoke on the Air Cadet movement in general, its ideals and aspirations, and its great possibilities for the youth of Canada.

He said that it has a present strength of 18,000 cadets which was expected would soon be increased to 20,000, but this increase must be achieved without sacrificing quality.

Provincial president Greg Mulholland introduced Cadet Sgt. Alan Massey of Charlottetown, the cadet who had been selected for the exchange trip during the past summer, and who had visited Great Britain and Sweden during this trip.

Cadet Sgt. Massey outlined in detail the events of his tour of these countries, and in particular his impression of Sweden, where he had had the honor of meeting personally King Gustave of that country and conversing with him.

He said the trip had been the most thrilling experience of his life, and he thanked all who had helped him in any way to attain the honor.

Group Captain A. G. Kenyon, officer commanding R.C.A.F. Station Summerside, said that the Air Cadet movement was one which any young man can have pride in being associated with, and that the experience gained would be helpful in any endeavour he may in future undertake.

Mr. J. F. Arnett, who had been one of the first citizens of Summerside to associate himself with the Air Cadet movement, spoke briefly and expressed his best wishes for the continued success of the Air Cadets in this Province.
