

In they rolled. This was not a drill. They meant business and some folks were about to get ticked.

Problem 1: No paid parking pass. Problem 2: Parked on the frikin curb! Solution: TOW THAT FOO! Come on people. Offroad means offroad as in the country. Not that you can drive off the road and park on the sidewalk! A moment of silence please for victim # 1.

OK. Meet Bob's van (aka Victim # 2). Bob's not his real name but assigning a name is important. You'll see. Why was Bob's van towed? Hmmmm... Well, apparently laziness isn't a registerable disability and therefore parking in the handicapped spot wasn't allowed.

So. As I was watching victim # 3 getting rigged up to be hauled away, things looked like they might get interesting. Why? See the dude in red on the left? Meet Bob, and he looks pissed off.

I was gonna ask Bob for a comment but he was volunteering them. I'd print one but I'd be up on charges. Morally indecent I think they call it?

Is that? No. Can't be. Well it is. Bob returned. Didn't park in a handicapped spot this time but the parking pass? Nope. Careful Bob. You'll get towed again doing that.
