The Boys' Department is unquestionably the best and most attractive in the city.
The Furnishing Goods Department is not only well stocked with all that is solid and staple, but contains much that is choice and novel.

No doubt about it. Ours is the largest and best selected stock ever seen in this city,—not only largest in quantity, but largest in variety of shapes,—largest in variety of materials,—largest in correct styles,—largest in every way. What more could we say, unless it be that OUR PRICES ARE RIGHT,—RELIABLE, HONEST.

AYER'S
Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired.
By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimu-lates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the Vigor is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

MR. C. P. BRICHER writes from Kirby, O., July 3, 1882: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair.
I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANGELO FAIRBANKS, leader of the celebrated "Fairbank Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1880: "Ever since my hair began to give evidence of the change which fleeting time procures, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. Regularly used, but one bottle of the Vigor, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

MR. O. A. PRESOTT, writing from 18 Elm St., Charlestown, Mass., April 14, 1882, says:
"Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came out. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It
a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

Salisbury's Cabinet.

SIR MICHAEL HICKS-BEACH.

Sir Michael was Secretary of State for the Colonial Department, and sits for East Gloucestershire. This cold, haughty, decaorous and frigidly handsome personage has always been looked upon as a sort of "dark horse" by the Conservative Party—is a possible leader. He owes this kind of regard to his having done little or nothing in opposition to help or hinder his chance.
For a long time he has effaced himself.
Was Chief Secretary for Ireland, which experience preceded that in his last office, where he very thoroughly mismanaged the Transvaal and prepared for the mother country and the Cape Colony, the mess from which he has only just escaped.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL.

Lord Randolph Churchill is the second son of the Duke of Marlborough. He was born in 1849. A slight, active man, his upper lip covered with a long moustache he has a habit of twisting thoughtfully, he might be mistaken in the street for one of the usual fashionable idlers among the club men of the day but for an air of preoccupation and thoughtfulness which tell one that he has a more serious purpose in life. He founded the "fourth party," as an annex to the conservative party. Its members not inaptly represent the leading personages of a dramatic company. There is the jeune premier, a role, by common consent, according to Lord Randolph Churchill, who appears in every new political piece as the prominent character upon the boards. Sir Drummond Wolff, grave, sedate and spectacular, falls naturally into the part of the "heavy father." Mr. Gorst, glass in eye, is the clever and successful lawyer; while Mr. Balfour fills, not inappropriately, the part of the rich uncle from America. But Lord Randolph, with Irish blood in his veins on the maternal side, with an intimate acquaintance with recent Irish troubles, gathered during the Irish vice-royalty of his father, and in his capacity as one of the most active members of the Duchess of Marlborough's committee he has acquired an accurate knowledge of a number of facts which he has an unpleasant knack of producing at the most inconvenient moment for his opponents, and with an air of ingenuous candor. This is one secret of his success in the House.

SIR RICHARD ASSHETON CROSS.

Mr. Cross represents Southwest Lancashire and was Lord Beaconsfield's Home Secretary. At the time of his elevation to office it was said that the appointment was one of Lord Beaconsfield's jokes. A satirist described him thus:—

Ideal Chairman of Quarter Sessions, Petty, priggish, pragmatic and pert; Fancies, of course, that of all professions The statesman's that in which he's expert.

A banker and a barrister as well as chairman of Quarter Sessions, rubicund Sir Richard did not make a bad Home Secretary, if his speeches on every conceivable subject were rather trying. He wears spectacles, and while giving utterance to his platitudes has a bland way of beaming on his hearers which would be exasperating if it were not funny. He is forever at Quarter Sessions, either demolishing antagonists, admonishing delinquents, or sentencing offenders to condign punishment.
One of Mr. Bradlaugh's most determined adversaries.

EDWARD GIBSON.

Mr. Gibson is the Conservative representative of Dublin University. His abilities are more shewn than solid, and there are better men in the Tory crowd. Has a handsome, young face, and is prematurely gray. Rich. Not only active and pushing, but a slashing debater, and a ready hand at a telling partisan attack. In the general poverty of talents he is bound to score heavily. He has distanced Plunket—a much abler man—in their common profession by sheer diligence. A recent stump-ing expedition across the border showed him in a favorable light as a platform orator. His skill in laying justice steed him in good stead there. He is by no means the most zealous of the opponents of Irish home rule.

W. H. SMITH.

Mr. Smith represents Westminster, in succession to the late John Stuart Mill.
Was Lord Beaconsfield's First Lord of the Admiralty; has the monopoly of the railway bookelling and news-vending trades on the principal lines in Great Britain. A commonplace man of kindly nature and business habits, who did not make a failure at the Admiralty, because business habits of any description tell there. Is said to be an accidental Conservative. Years ago he sought election at the Reform Club and was turned away. A subsequent application at the Carlton met with success. His speeches are scraps of fireside conversation, wherein it is demonstrated, in a manner that defies contradiction, that two and two make exactly four. Is a substantial pillar of the Established Church, rules his workpeople (who esteem him) with paternal despotism, owns a few hundred acres of land and keeps a yacht. Altogether a highly respectable person. He is burlesqued in "Pinafore."

THE EARL OF CARNARVON.

Henry Howard Molyneux Herbert, fourth Earl of Carnarvon, was born in 1831.
He never sat in the House of Commons.
Lord Derby took him in hand after hearing his maiden speech in the Upper House.
At twenty-seven he was made Under Secretary for the Colonies. He ascended from the Disraeli Cabinet in 1866, on the question of the extension of the suffrage. In 1878 he did the same thing on the Eastern question. He is able, but impracticable.
Politics apart Lord Carnarvon is a model English gentleman, taking interest in prison discipline, gnostic heresies and all sorts of other respectable questions. He is great, too, as a Freemason.

VISCOUNT CREAMEROCK.

Mr. Gathorne Hardy was born in 1814.
In 1856 he was elected to Parliament, and two years later he was made Under Secretary of State for the Home Department.

He wrested from Mr. Gladstone the seat for the University of Oxford. He became President of the Poor Law Board, Home Secretary and finally Secretary of War under Disraeli. When Disraeli was elevated to the peerage he was very sore because Sir Stafford Northcote was made leader of the House of Commons. To console him he was given a peerage and appointed Secretary of State for India.
He is a good speaker, rather flippant, and a very handsome man.

SIR STAFFORD NORTHCOTE.

Sir Stafford is member for North Devon, which pleasant county he resides in, and leaves with regret to perform his Parliamentary duties. Is the mildest mannered man that ever scuttled radical ship or cut the throat of Liberal Ministry. Was once secretary to Mr. Gladstone, from whom he learned finance, and to whom he still looks up with respect, to the chagrin of the more turbulent of the Gladstone haters who call Sir Stafford leader. Has several times played second fiddle to Lord Randolph Churchill, led all the organized attacks on Mr. Bradlaugh, and rendered some assistance to the government in its conflict with Irish obstruction. Is relied on on budget nights to pick holes in the proposals of the Ministerial financier. Fair complexioned, rather heavily bearded and benevolent looking. Like his late lamented chief, has one eye which is "out of drawing," as the artists say. Recites gentle poems at penny readings better than he speaks in the House, but in spite of his somewhat harsh voice, has, in manner and matter, occasionally risen above mediocrity as a debater.

COLONEL STANLEY.

Colonel Stanley was Secretary for War in the last two years of Lord Beaconsfield's administration. He was born in 1841 and joined the Grenadier Guards at seventeen, retiring in 1863. He has been a Lord of the Admiralty, Financial Secretary to the War Office and Secretary of the Treasury.
He married Lady Constance Villiers, daughter of the Earl of Clarendon. He is Lord Derby's brother.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Assessors.

Sir,—Can you inform me by what means the Assessors arrived at the value of the personal property of the citizens? They left at my house a schedule to be
