

The "Daily Examiner."

"An abstract and brief chronicle of the time."—Shakespeare.

TWO AND A HALF YEARS have passed away since the first number was issued; and still the DAILY EXAMINER persists in making its daily round of the city and its daily tour of the Province, with its daily "abstract and brief chronicle of the time." It has hung on to life so long, and through so many difficulties that, somehow, people are beginning to have increased confidence in it and, of late, the volume of its business transactions has increased fully a half. If this increase continues (and we hope it may) we shall soon be enabled to print a larger paper at a smaller cost. In fact, we now offer to all our readers who advance payment before the 31st day of December next, the DAILY EXAMINER throughout the coming year, for four dollars. The offer is open to those only who pay in advance, within the time named, for the entire year. Accounts will forthwith be made out at the old price for the paper for twelve months from date—instead of for six months as heretofore and those who take advantage of the offer will have the reduction made at the time of payment. There are a few—and but a few—subscribers who have fallen into arrears. If these do not pay up on or before Friday next we shall be compelled to stop the paper, and invoke the aid of the Stipendiary Magistrate and his gentlemanly subordinates.

A Reformatory.

Now that we have—thanks to Bishop McIntyre—a Hospital in Charlottetown, might it not be well to see if we cannot also have a Reformatory? There cannot be a doubt that our well-filled jails, the nightly thefts, and the general distrust of bad characters that is abroad, is due to the fact that bad boys have been permitted to grow up unreformed in jail and on the streets. If these boys had been sent to a Reformatory to be trained and taught, nine out of every ten would have become good citizens. But to the point. In a few days the old Asylum for insane persons will be vacated, and Mr. Waller, the Keeper of the Asylum, will be without a situation. Would it not be well to secure the building, or part of it, for a reformatory, and (if possible) Mr. Waller for the reformer. The building is just about the right distance from town, and it strikes us that Mr. Waller is just the man required. A reformatory, well and economically conducted, would be almost, if not quite, self-sustaining. And whether it would or not, it would pay Charlottetown to have a reformatory. The question "shall we have a reformatory?" is one well worthy the attention of His Worship the Mayor, His Honor the Stipendiary Magistrate and other leading and public spirited citizens.

The Insane Asylum.

A GENTLEMAN who takes great interest in the Asylum informs us that he visited the institution on Thanksgiving Day, and that he never saw it in a better state than it was then. Another gentleman, who visited it yesterday, says that the paragraph in yesterday's EXAMINER—to the effect that the Asylum was never cleaner, better ventilated, or better kept than it now is,—was quite correct, except that the "language was hardly strong enough." We give statements of these gentlemen in contradiction of the Patriot's unmitigated misstatements.

A Maritime Exhibition.

THE St. John Telegraph says that the question of a Maritime Exhibition is one well worthy of being considered and discussed. We agree with the Telegraph in its remarks on this subject. The coming Exhibition at St. John, N. B., should afford the three Maritime Provinces an opportunity of comparing their respective products of the field, workshop, etc.

An Omission.

MANY persons like to know pretty definitely how money they are asked to give to a charitable institution is to be applied and expended. Our attention has been called to the fact that no explanation has been made with reference to the subscriptions about to be asked for the Charlottetown Hospital. It has not been stated whether the money is to be paid to the attending physicians, or whether it is to be used to sustain the institution—or both? We shall try to obtain some further and more particular information for intending subscribers by Monday.

LORD BRACONSFIELD was once convicted of libel in the Court of Queen's Bench.

The Princess Louise.

The following is a Globe special cablegram from London, dated Nov. 18:—

"The World says there is reason to believe that the return of the Princess Louise to England is not entirely a matter of pleasure, but is attributable in a large extent to the interest she takes in the launching of a company for the development of colonization lands in Manitoba and the territory abutting on Lake Winnipeg. Associations have already been formed for the purpose under the title of the Lake Winnipeg Land and Colonization Association. Lord Walter Campbell is one of the directors of this company. The prospectus gives a few details of the enterprise. The price at which Manitoba-grown wheat is to be landed in Liverpool is thirty-five shillings per quarter."

A subsequent despatch says the visit of the Princess has nothing whatever to do with any company.

The "Times" and the North West.

In a letter from Winnipeg to the London Times, an account is given of the Red River Valley, of which nearly a third lies within the confines of the Dominion and which "is destined to be one of the great wheat producing regions of America." The capabilities of this region are characterized as immense. In extent it is 300 miles long and may be set down as 100 miles in width. As to the statement, however, that it could furnish breadstuffs which Great Britain requires to import, we are reminded that the soil, although deep and good, "cannot go on yielding wheat indefinitely without the return of the more important elements of fertility." Of this fact, of course, every agriculturist is aware, and to expect it, would be to look for impossibilities.

CANADIAN BANKING NEWS.

It is currently reported at Ottawa in Ministerial circles that the Federal Government contemplates remodelling the present Banking Act during the approaching session of Parliament, and that it was with a view to such a contingency that Sir S. L. Tilley recently visited Washington. The charters for the existing Banks do not expire till July 1st, 1881. There are, however, two exceptions, one of which is the Bank of P. E. Island, the charter for which does not expire till 1880. The direction the proposed changes in the law will take is not known at present.—Ottawa Dispatch.

[We are informed that the charter of the Bank of P. E. Island does not expire until 1894 or 1895.—ED. EXAMINER.]

THE POTATO CROP IN MAINE.

A correspondent writes: "The potato, and, in fact, all crops here, were so abundant this season, that the supply for sale seems to be almost inexhaustible. Two years ago the much dreaded 'potato bug' made his appearance in this State, and this year he gave promise of being the father of a large family. The Boston Potato trade of late has been very lively. Six weeks ago the price of potatoes was 85 cts. per barrel, but as the demand exceeded the supply, the price advanced to $1 per barrel, and consequently, during the last fortnight, thousands of barrels have been shipped for the Boston market."

FREIGHT ON THE INTERCOLONIAL.

Freight movements over the Intercolonial have lately been particularly brisk. The transfer of English goods from the steamers at this port, have contributed considerably to this traffic. At Moncton station trains are despatched every hour in the day, and while the movement of trains is not a fair indication of the business done, the freight received and forwarded for the past two months has been much above that of previous years.

PARENTS would do well to think over the case of the two girls who left their home in Ottawa the other day to "seek their fortunes in Montreal," and of the two boys who left London, Ont., a few days ago "to become pirates." After stealing $150, the boys, aged about 12 years, set out to "buy a ship," and purchased nine revolvers, with which the crew were, we presume, to be armed. The boys only did what boys were said to have done in the pernicious novels they were accustomed to read, and which fired their young ideas with madcap stories of the sea. In the first instance two innocent girls were on the verge of ruin; and we are inclined to believe that in this case as well as that of the boys, pernicious novels were at the bottom of the danger.—Montreal Star.
