250 Witnesses Give Testimony Relating To Auschwitz Horrors

The Associated Press world spotlight this week takes a look at the Auschwitz war crimes trials as they near their end in West Germany. It also outlines Egypt's growing ties with the Soviet Union and West Germany's economic aid to new African countries, as well as noting symbols to be used in Nigerian voting.

FRANKFURT (AP) — The horrors of Auschwitz have been unfolding before a West German court for a year now.

The judges and jury have at least another month to go, with no verdict expected before March.

Of the 21 defendants on trial, 14 were free on bail when the sessions began Dec. 20, 1963. Of these, nine have been imprisoned on the basis of incriminating evidence given in the courtroom. The other five never know when testimony will imprison them, too.

More than 250 witnesses have testified about deliberate savagery at the German extermination centre in Poland.

Documentary evidence shows that during its five years of operation, untold millions perished in Auschwitz—Nazi Germany's biggest and smoothest functioning death factory. They were victims of mass gasings, burnings, hangings, shootings, torture, starvation, disease and overwork as slave laborers.

The majority were civilians—Jews, Slavs and Gypsies considered underserving of life in the Third Reich. But they also included Canadian, American, British, French and Russian prisoners of war, forced at pistol point to shed their uniforms minutes before entering the gas chambers.

Presiding Judge Hans Hofmeyer weeps unashamedly on hearing witnesses tell such details as this:

Defendant Wilhelm Boger tore babies from their mothers' arms and tossed them alive onto gasoline-sprayed piles of burning bodies "where they rolled around like little fire balls."

Defendant Perry Broad shot raven-haired, teen-age Jewish girls after sexually molesting them.

"Doctor" Josef Klehr, a day laborer before becoming an enlisted SS (elite guard) medical aide, forced young boys to hold their struggling fathers while the defendant stabbed their elders' hearts with a hypodermic needle containing lethal carbolic acid.

Judge Hofmeyer will be joined in his deliberations by two assistant judges and four jury members.

The proceedings started after four years of preparatioo.

MENGELE MISSING

Richard Baer, the last Auschwitz commander, died of a heart attack in pre-trial confinement. Also missing is Joseph Mengele, an Auschwitz physician accused of performing "medical experiments" that either killed or permanently crippled. Mengele is rumored to be hiding in Paraguay.

Most of the trial spectators are teen-age students. They cried out "no, no" while Boger boasted about the effectivenss of the "beating machine" he devloped at Auschwitz.

The defendant turned toward the young people, shook his fist and screamed:

"If it were used on you, there'd be a lot less juvenile delinquency."

Coverage of the trial by Frankfurt newspapers has been highly detailed. The appearance of trial stories in the rest of the German press depends largely on their dramatic content.

COMPLAIN FREQUENTLY

But even this seems too much for many Germans. Letters to the editors frequently contain reader demands that the past be forgotten. Many also write that the defendants were soldiers who carried out orders.

Nationwide polls show that of the West Germans questioned, a majority, up to 70 per cent in some cases, oppose war crimes trials as strongly as they resist extending the German statute of limitations for wartime murder beyond next May 8, the scheduled expiration date.

Erwin Schuele, head of West Germany's central agency for tracking down war criminals, has been especially interested in testimony from former SS men who got themselves transferred from Auschwitz so they wouldn't hav to participate in inhuman crimes there.

A number of such cases have now been documented before the court.

"It now has been shown that it was possible to get a transfer from Auschwitz, that it was not necessary to carry out criminal orders," Schuele says.

CAIRO (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic once had almost 1,000 Communists in jail and frequently told Western diplomats this was proof his left-leaning regime was no Moscow satellite.

The Communists now are free. Many have been given responsible jobs, particularly in press, radio and television. Others are being welcomed, at least outwardly, into the Arab Socialist Union which is the political arm of Nasser's one-party state.

The controlled press does not criticize Moscow, but it accuses the United States of black political crimes.

On such questions as The Congo, Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam, Nasser's position is about the same as Moscow's. His expressed view on Latin America are within the Mocow pattern, treating the whole area as a colonized ward of the U.S.

Nasser displays neutrality on issues involving Peking and Moscow, but privately seems to lean toward Moscow in most of these cases.

SYSTEMS DIFFER

In domestic politics, Nasser has always emphasized his ideological differences with Moscow Marxism. He has kept land ownership in private hands and expressed the belief some small business and light industry should be private.

However, his hastily socialized regime is in financial troubles and Nasser may feel the need for Communist-type domestic discipline to keep his restive 28,000,000 people in line.

It is widely believed among diplomats that Nasser and Khrushchev reached some delicate agreements when the former Soviet leader made an 18-day state visit to Egypt last summer. It seems possible these agreements were not universally popular among Khrushchev's Soviet colleagues and played a role in his downfall.

A Soviet official, speaking vately, has said the Soviet Union wants to be sure it is getting its money's worth for the vast amounts it is spending in Egypt.

The Soviet Union is financing the Aswan Dam, furnishings a large share of Egypt's vish armaments and underwriting a large share of Egypt's economic development. Egypt and the Soviets publicly proclaim that all this is without strings.

BONN (AP)—With millions of marks wasted, West Germany is taking a hard look at its help to new countries in Africa. It plans to concentrate on major development projects.

Walter Scheel, head of the economic development ministry, says the West German government will emphasize economic aspects of development plans and de-emphasize political aspects.

Foreign ministry officials privately admit West Germany frequently has approved financial aid for African states in fear that Communist-ruled East Germany might come up with similar aid, tempting the receiving country to recognize the East Berlin government.

Since 1960, when the West Germans started to tackle the development aid problem on a big scale, the government has earmarked or actually shelled out a total of 12,000,000,000 marks ($3,000,000,000).

A tenth of this went to Africa or is about to be handed to the Africans in the form of outright money gifts or long-term loans at low interest.

German money has been scattered among 383 projects in 30 African states.

CRITICIZE QUANTITY

Too little for too many projects, critics of West Germany's development aid to Africa are saying.

A spokesman for Scheel's ministry said a recent roundup by the magazine Der Spiegel correctly reflected the situation. The roundup said German financial aid to Africa was frequently misappropriated and often invested in nonsense projects. Spiegel found $15,000,000 of Germany's $25,000,000 aid to Nigeria was squandered for widening a bridge in Lagos to six lanes from four.

Such misuse of German marks in Africa show the government has had poor advice on how to invest its development aid, said Spiegel.

Said Scheel: "Requests for developments aid will be more carefully scrutinized in future. We will send experts to the scene and check whether the African nation's proposal for investing our money is economically sound."

A $7,000,000 project Scheel has in mind is turning 10,000 acres of Kenya wasteland into sugar cane plantations with a refinery nearby.

This, Scheel says, will help Kenya cut down its sugar imports, now totalling about $5,000,000 a year.

"Political considerations, dictated by diplomacy, often have proved to be too narrow in scope," Scheel said. "From now on, economic aims will receive preference."

LAGOS (AP)—Nigerian voters may cast ballots at the sign of a rooster, umbrella, flashlight, fish, bottle or fountain pen, among others, in the general election Dec. 30.

Electoral officials have approved 14 separate party symbols and 11 others for independent candidates and factions. Distinctive party symbols are vital in this land with less than 20 per cent literacy.

Illiterate voters are reminded by party workers that a vote for the green hoe is a vote for the Northern People's Congress A ballot in a box baring a fish in a triangle supports a candidate of the Niger Delta Congress.

Separate ballot boxes bearing each party's symbol will be provided. No polling place is expected to have 14 boxes because only a handful of the total number of parties will have candidates in each region.

Canadian Business Circles Show Year-End Optimism

By GORDON GRANT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The year is drawing to a close with neither a bang nor a whimper, but with more predictions of cautious optimism for 1965.

The Bank of Montreal says in its December business review that continued expansion of the Canadian economy in 1965 seems indicated, although at a slower rate than in 1964.

"It seems clear that one of the principal sources of strength, capital investment, will remain a major expansionary influence in the months ahead," it says.

"The government incentives for winter building, which were so successful last year and are being repeated this winter, should help maintain residential construction activity."

In addition, plant expansion projects received strong impetus from the rise in foreign and domestic demand during the last four years. Many of these projects were under way and others would soon be started.

The bank says prospects for maintaining a high level of exports are good. Wheat shipments would likely be lower than they were this year, and new surcharges may dampen sales of other goods to the United Kingdom, but generally bouyant conditions prevail in most other major export markets.

BEST FOR REAL ESTATE

R. G Walton, president of the Toronto Real Estate Board, said 1965 will be an even better year than 1964—the best year for real estate, general construction and housing in Canada's history.

In as concise a forecast as has ever been presented, the Maclean - Hunter research bureau predicts for 1965: "Continued expansion."

The bureau says gross national product should exceed $49,000,000,000, personal expenditure on consumer goods and services $31,000,000,000 and retail sales $20,800,000,000. Population will reach 19,600,000 by mid-year.

Possible soft spot: Balance of payments. Tax cut in 1965? A good possibility if the GNP shows signs of lagging during the year.

REACH AUTO RECORD

General Motors of Canada employees returned to work last Monday following a three-week strike. Despite this strike and other problems during the year, Canadian car makers have turned out more than 650,000 vehicles this year—a record.

And E. H. Walker, GM president, says the Canadian automobile industry looks forward to a continuation of the record-breaking levels of production and sales.

He said: "The continuing demand for new vehicles reflects undiminished consumer confidence and spending on consumer goods, a higher level of national employment, steadily increasing personal savings deposits, readily available credit sources for business and consumer spending at relatively steady low-level interest rates."

ALBERTA CRUDE UP

Other news last week . . . Chrysler Canada Ltd. bought Young Spring and Wire Corp. of Canada, manufacturer of car seat cushion springs and interior trim. Alberta crude oil production for the week ended Dec. 14 averaged 522,893 barrels a day, up from 464,664 barrels a day in the previous week.

Union Gas of Canada Ltd., received authorization to import an additional 170,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas from the U.S. during the next 12 years.

Dominion Textile offered $45 a share for the outstanding common shares of Penman's Ltd., a Paris, Ont., maker of woollen, cotton, nylon and viscose knitted goods

The Royal Bank of Canada had net earnings of $23,757,015, $3.57 a share, in the year ended Nov. 30. Last year it earned $22,580,046 ($3.39 a share).

The Nissan Motor Co. of Japan says it will establish a car sales company in Vancouver to promote sales in the Canadian market of its vehicles.

S. T. Paton was elected president of the Canadian Bankers Association. He is vice-president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

Steel Co. of Canada says it will install an $8,000,000 continuous casting machine capable of turning out 350,000 tons of steel billets a year.

No Sign Of Year-End Rally On New York Exchange

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week put on a dull and inconclusive performance in pre-Christmas trading.

Traders who looked for the traditional year-end rally found no signs of it during the four-day trading week, cut short by the Christmas holiday when exchanges were closed.

Although there were minor losses in popular stock market averages, the list remained fairly well balanced.

The market declined from noon Tuesday through Wednesday and recovered slightly Thursday, Christmas Eve.

The week was muddled by typical year-end transactions, the evening-up of profits against losses in investment accounts and the switching of sizable blocks in big portfolios.

While the general background of corporate news and economic forecasts was quite favorable, Wall Street displayed an unusual degree of caution regarding the immediate prospects for the stock market. A good deal of this was linked with economic uncertainties in Britain and fear that further developments there may upset the money market here as the New Year gets under way

INDEX LOSS

The Dow Jones industrial average took a small loss of 57 at 868.16.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .8 at 322.8.

Volume for the week was 17,090,260 shares, compared with 23,824,050 for the last full five-day trading week.

Of 1,524 issues traded last week, losers outnumbered gainers by 715 to 592.

The preponderance of losers in the general list, however, was offset in the averages by strength in several key blue chips, such as Du Pont, Union Carbide, Sears Roebuck and Eastern Kodak.

Not all blue chips were so favored, however. American Telephone lost 1 at 66¼ and Westinghouse Electric declined 1¾ to 44.

STEELS RALLIED

Late in the week steels made a moderate rally based on price increases for galvanized sheet.

Comsat again was the most active issue, going through some gyrations as it appeared to be under the eye of federal regulatory agencies.

The five most active issues last week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

Comsat, up ½ at 52 on 249,100 shares; Minnesota and Ontario Paper, up 1¼ at 32¼; Outboard Marine, up at 16⅝; Parke Davis, up 2½ at 32⅛; and Chrysler, off 1⅜ at 61¼.

The five most active issues last week on the American stock exchange were:

Brazilian Traction, up ¾ at 5 on 221,200 shares; Syntex, up 3⅜ at 67; Webb and Knapp, off 1-16 at 5-16; Goldfield, unchanged at 2; and Mead Johnson, up 1 at 17¼.

TRACTOR EXPORTERS

Britain sells nearly half the world's total export of agricultural tractors.
