

The gems:

Donny Mullen
 Jim Lai
 David Stewart,
 James Connolly,
 G. R. Boswell,
 Lynne Keating
 Jonathan Orlovski
 Shell Wheaton
 Brian Linkletter,
 Don Lane
 Howard Beattie,
 Nathan Stairs
 Lori Anne Heckbert, Production
 Editor
 Shella Lund Editor

Views expressed herein are not necessarily those of the Student Union, the staff or of anyone in particular. We reserve the right to edit copy for space, style, or legal reasons. Letters to the editor must be typed double-spaced and submitted before noon on Monday. All letters must be signed by their authors, but names may be withheld upon consultation with the editor. Phone 566-0629. Staff meetings are held on Mondays, beginning at 6:00 p.m. All students are welcome to join the staff.

Movie Review

By Nathan Stairs

Plain and simple, the Wildcats are blah. Goldie Hawn has seen better days, I can't remember too many of them, but this film certainly cannot be counted as one of her goodies.

Goldie Hawn plays 'Coach' MacGregor, the average divorced housewife whose dream is to coach a football team. She is given the chance to fulfill her dream when she takes over the Central High School Football team. This team looks amazingly like the Chicago Bears. They have the cool air-headed star quarterback, the tough rap singers, and a refrigerator, make that a freezer. The setting is in Chicago, the team wears uniforms which are similar to the Bears' and also have exactly the same record. (If I spoiled the plot, it was no accident.)

The movie lacks in many ways. The film has no appeal, there is no theme. It is the type of show that you will forget whether or not you actually saw it. There were a few chuckles but it couldn't be rated as a comedy. Goldie Hawn and her Wildcats get a five. A note of interest is that Goldie

Hawn's husband, Kurt Russell, was the co-star of another football movie, The Best of Times, which came out a month ago. Sounds like there's a plot here, I know this movie could have used one.

LETTERS

Speakeasy

Dear Editor,

Stuttering is a speech handicap that affects about 1% of the population, with males three times more likely to be a stutter than females.

While in spite of extensive research, no definite cause, and therefore no cure, has been discovered, some hospitals and speech clinics do offer speech therapy which helps to alleviate this frustrating impediment.

There is now a charitable non-profit Canadian organization for Stutters and anyone else interested in the problem. This group, 'Speakeasy', was formed so that Stutters would have a nation-wide network for mutual assistance and communication.

For more information about this self-help group, please write to: Speakeasy, 95 Evergreen, Saint John, New Brunswick, E2N 1H4

Gordon Moore

