home to attend a public meeting, determined to make a stand against a contemplated public measure which he has considered in private, turned over on every side, and looked at in every variety of view that he or his friends can suppose it capable of being contemplated, and come to the conclusion that it will be prejudicial to his and their private interests; and yet, when statistical returns, accurate calculations, and well-matured plans are submitted to his judgment, the opinion which he had considered so unalterably fixed, is at first shaken, and afterwards appears to his intellect, from which the clouds of ignorance have been dispelled, as a conclusion arising out of a prejudice adopted without a due knowledge of facts, and depending upon premises which upon examination have proved to have no foundation in truth or reason. So it often happens in Parliament. A bill is introduced; it has been carefully framed, and the proposer is prepared with arguments to sustain the propriety of passing it into a law. An opposition is made to it, and one objection after another is brought forward until it becomes evident to the proposer that either the force of reason or that of prejudice is so strong that it would in either case be better policy to withdraw the contemplated measure.

But this is a subject of such general, and at this period of such particular interest, that we trust we shall be excused if we not only give it ourselves a thorough investigation, but invite a fair and honest discussion of it,—in which the questions ought to be, not, who writes the articles? "but are the statements which they contain well founded? Are the arguments cleverly put?" — to which we add: and have the premises truth for their basis?

(For Haszard's Gazette.)

MR. EDITOR,

I hope, from the desire you always evince of seeing justice done to all, that you will give the same publicity to the following letter, that you have given to the letter which contains what I consider to be an imputation upon my conduct.

Sir,
Yours respectfully,
EWEN LAMONT.

To the Trustees of Orwell Cove School.

Gentlemen,

It would appear, from the tenor of your letter of the 15th ult. published in Haszard's Gazette of the 3d. inst. that a deficiency in the number of your pupils, caused by the three adjoining Teachers being allowed to receive some of the scholars of your District, is the principal reason of your School's being so suddenly closed. It might also be supposed, that the practice of receiving and teaching them was persisted in at the time you wrote it, by those three Teachers, contrary to the express sanction of the Board of Education and of the Visitor.

As I am one of the three Teachers to whom you have alluded, in your letter, I beg to be allowed to correct the impression which the public cannot but receive from the allegations set forth therein, as far as it regards myself and the people of this District, by stating that I was neither receiving nor teaching your pupils, at the time that yon preferred the charge. And that I am prepared to prove, if necessary, that I have acted in strict obedience to the injunctions of the Board of Education and of the Visitor, by refusing admittance to your pupils.

I remain,
Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
EWEN LAMONT.

Lower Newtown School, Dec. 14th, 1853.

MUTUAL IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.—On Friday evening last, 16th instant, Mr. Hubbard delivered a very pleasing introductory, to a proposed course of Lectures on Phrenology, Physiology, and Electrical Psychology, with their bearings on the Christian Faith, which drew forth an animated discussion, chiefly on the principles of Phrenology.

On Friday next, 23d inst., Mr. Taylor will lecture on Painting. Those who availed themselves of the opportunity afforded during the last winter Session, of hearing a Lecture on the Fine Arts, delivered before the Association by this gentleman, will remember how happily the subject was treated, and the peculiarly interesting and pleasing style in which much information was imparted. From the first, we can judge of the future, and we have no doubt he will draw a full house.

The Colonial mails were received at the Post Office at midnight on Monday. Our readers will observe that the mails for Britain, the Colonies, United States &c., will be made up every Friday at noon, and that the return mails will be due on Monday nights.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, by command of Her Majesty, has transmitted to the Lieutenant Governor additional instructions, under Her Royal Sign Manual and Signet, given at the Court at Buckingham Palace on the Twenty-third day of June, granting unto Charles Young Esquire, rank and precedence in the Legislative Council of Prince Edward Island, and to be Presiding Member thereof.

His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor has been pleased to direct that the name of the Hon. Charles Young, Q. C., and Judge of Probate, shall be placed in the Commission of the Peace for the whole Island.
