Premier Ky's Proposed Tour Sparks Australian Opposition

MELBOURNE (AP) — Opposition mounted in Australia Monday against a planned visit by Nguyen Cao Ky, South Vietnamese premier, and there was speculation the visit may be called off.

Arthur A. Calwell, leader of the opposition party, said Monday that if Ky came he would personally lead as many protest demonstrations as he could muster.

Prime Minister Harold Holt announced last week that Ky planned an Australian tour, but no specific date was set.

He said Holt should "remember that 40 per cent of the electorate strongly opposes his Vietnam policy, and no matter what others might say or do, I will not remain silent on the issue."

Australia now has about 4,500 troops in Vietnam and Holt has promised to send more. The commitment to Vietnam was a major issue in the national elections last month. The voters gave Holt's government a solid victory.
