

Unemployment Insurance Office Sought By Montague

Following a unanimous vote of confidence by the Town Council at the regular council meeting and also a previous unanimous vote of confidence by the Fire Department, and by request of many citizens, Fire Chief Douglas Coffin said he would continue to act as chief until such time as he should make a definite decision.

Councillors Green, Fraser, Nicholson, Hughes and Clements were present at the meeting over which Mayor Yeo presided. Also present as interested citizens were Mr. John Shaw and Mr. Alan Nelson, as well as Fire Chief Coffin.

The regular town business was carried out and all committees heard from with the exception of the Chairman of the Police Committee as Councillor Vandervestine was unavoidably absent.

In answer to letters written to Mr. J. B. Murlley of the Unemployment Insurance Commission and John A. MacDonald, requesting an Unemployment Insurance Office in Montague, a reply from Mr. MacDonald was read stating he would give the matter his immediate attention. A letter from Magistrate Gilbert A. Gaudet, was also read with reference to the execution of tax collection. It was moved and seconded that Mr. Gaudet be advised to carry out the prosecution which means that all tax arrears previously published would be handed over to the Sheriff to deal with.

A letter of application for the job as full time policeman was read with no decision being made but it was decided that letters would be written to the three local representatives of the Provincial Government requesting assistance from R.C.M.P. for Montague.

Mr. John Tredenic and Mr. H. M. Smith were reappointed to audit the town books for the year ending December 31st 1957.

WOMAN SENTENCED

DECATUR, Ga. (AP) — Mrs. Margaret Burton drew a two-to-five-year prison term Monday on conviction of taking $186,000 from a medical clinic.

The grey-haired 51-year-old divorcee, also wanted in Vancouver for questioning about worthless cheques, came here for sentencing from her hospital in Atlanta, where she had been under observation for recurring fainting spells.

Drinks In Tubes Now

TOKYO (Reuters) — Dehydrated alcoholic drinks, sold in toothpaste-type tubes, and chemical beer and whisky will soon be on sale in Japan.

The government's brewing laboratory in Tokyo has reported good progress in "improving" alcoholic beverages and is hoping to produce chemically a much cheaper drink than malt-and-hop beer.

The laboratory already claims to have distilled whisky by a new process without malt.

It is now working on chemicals that in a matter of weeks would give this synthetic brew the flavor and smoothness of a 30-year-old whisky.

But the most startling researches are being made into turning Japan's national drink, sake, into a paste.

In future it may be sold in plastic bags or in tubes to be squeezed out and watered down to taste. This rice-wine may also appear in the form of caramels or chewing gum.

Rejoins Husband In Germany

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Doris Sandra Boos is en route to rejoin her ailing husband in Baden-Baden, Germany, after a 12-day stay in Canada where she had hoped to obtain work to pay off mounting family debts.

She left here Monday night and is due to land in Frankfurt at 8:05 p.m.

Mrs. Boos, 17-year-old native of Peoria, Ill., took with her several hundred dollars, donated by service clubs and charitable organizations. She also received new clothing, supplied by individual Montrealers.

She said her husband, whom she married a year ago, is suffering from double pneumonia and a heart ailment. She came to Montreal from Baden-Baden on the advice of friends, seeking a job that would get the family out of debt.

But when she landed in Canada she was informed by immigration officers that she had a visitor's permit only and that she would need a visa before she could apply for work.

The German consulate here said it could not pay her fare back to Germany because she was not a German citizen. The United States consulate offered to pay her fare to Peoria, but she declined because she felt she would be unable to obtain work there.

TV Booming In Australia

NEW YORK (CP) — Australian television is booming, says Charles Moses, general manager of the Australian Broadcasting Corporation who is nearing the end of a world tour studying TV systems.

Moses, who included Canada in his tour, told a press conference Monday the publicly-owned Australian corporation now has TV stations in Melbourne and Sydney. A new station is scheduled to open in Brisbane in November and other stations will go on the air in Adelaide, Perth and Hobart at intervals of about one month.

Private stations are now in operation in Melbourne and Sydney, two in each city, and are being organized in other centres. TV was introduced in Australia in November, 1956.

Election Not To Bring Apartheid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sir Edgar Whitehead, newly-elected leader of Southern Rhodesia's United Federal party, denied Monday that his election would bring strict racial segregation to central Africa.

Sir Edgar is minister for Rhodesia and Nyasaland affairs at the British Embassy here. He is expected to become prime minister of Southern Rhodesia.

Asked about reports that his election would mean adoption by Southern Rhodesia of the apartheid (segregation) policy of neighboring South Africa, Sir Edgar said, "This is entirely and absolutely untrue."

"I do not know of any party in Rhodesia in favor of full apartheid," he said, "and added that he intends to see that Rhodesia's moderate racial policy is continued."

TIMELY NOTES ON FUR FARMING

VACCINATE MINK

We are reprinting a letter from E.T. Stratton, owner of the Stratton Mink Ranch, Excelsior Springs, Missouri, which appeared in the latest issue of National Fur News and may be helpful to our ranchers here.

"I would like to write a letter, hoping this will help someone else on distemper. The latter part of March last year I had all my females bred. I took sick and was in the hospital for two weeks. My sons cared for the mink during that time. When I came home, one of my sons told me that something was wrong with two of my females. Not being able to be out of the house I told them to bring them in so I could see them.

"The Mink's feet were crusty and their eyes running. I told him to kill them and get them out of the herd, which he did. In another week I had lost another mink, then I called Dr. Hartsough. My females had started to have their kits, and I did not know I could vaccinate so late, but the doctor told me to go ahead and vaccinate. I only lost seven females and feel very fortunate.

"Now we come to the kits. I have read lots of articles on distemper, and know some parties vaccinate. I waited until the kits were eight weeks old, then weaned them and vaccinated the next day. I have only lost a kit now and then this summer and have the fattest mink I ever raised. But I have learned the hard way; from now on, I will vaccinate."

WHALE MEAT

And there is another interesting letter from Fred Ashley, S. Dildo, Newfoundland. It reads as follows: "Here I am in Newfoundland, right in the heart of the whaling area, four thousand miles from home (Golden, Colorado). I am manager of Mink Foods Agriculture Society, my nickname being 'Minkmaster'. I am in complete charge of the Newfoundland Experimental Station, having mink, turkeys, poultry and pigs, and secretary-treasurer of the Newfoundland Fur Breeders' Association.

"Aside from this, I do the veterinary work and assist with the laboratory analysis of meats, fish etc. The people are very nice to me and the country is beautiful. When I do return to Colorado, I should be an expert on the feeding of whale meat to mink. The crop of pelts from this area this year will be the best ever produced here, both from a coverage and clear-color angle.

The above letter was written in the latter part of 1957, and the crop referred to is the 1957 crop. Our readers will remember that some three years ago, the MacNeil brothers, who had been conducting a mink ranch in Colorado, visited Newfoundland and were so taken by the inducements offered them and others to locate there and established mink farms, that one of them came down, superintended the building of the ranch, house, and other essentials, and the mink were flown from Colorado and arrived in excellent condition.

Other mink-men set up ranches in the same locality. The principal enticements are—cheaper labor and very cheap feed, with the exception of cereals that have to be imported. Just how big the colony is, we are not in position to state, but our opinion is that they are producing some 10,000 or more mink annually.

SELLOUT

The mid-winter sale of Edmonton Fur Auction Company, Ltd. which was held in Edmonton, Alberta on February 2, was marketed as a complete sellout of all furs offered. Two thousand wild mink brought highs of $43 for males and $22 for females; average types sold between $15 and $30.

An offering of 9,000 ranch mink advanced 10 percent in price over

Aylmer Peas taste FRESH because they're packed fresh*

*Average time from vine to tin - 2½ hours!

When you taste the fresh sweetness of tender young Aylmer Peas, it's hard to believe that such good-tasting peas can be so good for you! But just look at the food values you get: Vitamins A, B₁, C and D! Minerals and proteins too!

How do Aylmer Peas keep so much natural nutritive value—and flavour?

1. Start with QUALITY peas! Aylmer Peas are grown from Aylmer's own premium-quality seed, under Aylmer field supervision, by selected growers. Harvesting time is decided by heat and moisture records and daily tenderness tests. The peas are harvested at the precise moment of perfect flavour and nutrition. (Did you know that, if peas are harvested just 2 hours too late, their sugar content is already turning to starch?)
2. Can them FAST to protect freshness! Aylmer operates canneries in the heart of Canada's pea-growing areas, so fresh-picked peas are never more than minutes away from the factory. Aylmer Peas can be harvested, cleaned, graded, sealed and cooked in an average of 2½ hours!
3. Seal BEFORE cooking! Aylmer Peas are pressure-cooked in sealed, sterilized tins, away from air that "kidnaps" their mineral and nutritive values. Cooking time is scientifically controlled, another important nutritional safeguard which brings Aylmer Peas to your table at their peak of flavour and food value!
