OTTAWA (CP) — Immigrants arrived in Canada in 1956 at the rate of one every three minutes. Final statistics issued Tuesday by the immigration department show that arrivals totalled 164,857, up from 109,946 in 1955. The figure for 1957 may go as high as 200,000, including some 100,000 British and an estimated 18,000 Hungarian refugees.

The 1956 total compares with a previous high of 168,868 in 1953. The all-time record was 409,870 in 1913. The 164,857 arrivals last year included 155,000 from overseas destinations and 9,877 from the United States. Of the 155,000, a total of 81,519 were British by origin, 29,805 Italian, 23,405 German and Austrian and 3,016 French—69 per cent of total immigration. Since the end of the Second World War 1,400,000 immigrants have arrived in Canada. This is comparable to the addition to Canada of a province with a population as large as that of British Columbia.

Of total post-war arrivals, 419,024 were British, 188,401 German and Austrian, 164,862 Italian, 27,238 French and 100,529 from the U.S.

Will Present Easter Cantata

Among the Canadian artists who will assist the Summerside Presbyterian Church Choir in their presentation of the Easter Cantata "The Risen King", in the Presbyterian Church on Friday evening at 7.30, will be Mrs. Catherine Judah; Daniel, Mr. Donald Cooke, and Mr. Arthur Girouard.

Mrs. Daniel is a faculty member of the Mount Allison Conservatory of Music, is a native of Montreal. She studied violin and voice at McGill University, and after winning a scholarship from the Ladies Morning Musical Club took voice from C. Waldemar Alve in New York. Mrs. Daniel was awarded the Prix d'Europe given by the province of Quebec, but because of the war was unable to take advantage of its provisions for study abroad. On returning to New York she studied at the Opera School of the Juilliard Graduate School of Music. She also studied privately taking opera with Ernest Knoch and Leopold Sackse, lieder with Fritz Lehmann and Frank LaForge and Oratorio with W.H. Neidlinger and David Mackay Williams.

While in New York Mrs. Daniel was a member of the Bach Circle and the Schola Cantorum under the direction of Hugh Ross. Her solo repertoire in oratorio includes, Bach's Christmas Oratorio, Handel's Messiah, and Rossini's Stabat Mater; and in opera, roles with the New York City Centre Opera Company, the Detroit Opera Company, the Dallett Opera Company, and appearances at the Watergate Theatre and the Robin Hood Dell. Mrs. Daniel later toured with the Lyric Opera Company and the Boston Opera Company with a repertoire that included Aida, Il Trovatore, Cavalleria Rusticana, and light opera. Recently a performance of Brahms' Alto Rhapsody was given with Christos Vrinnides, and the Babylon Symphony, New York. She has also sung under Sir Ernest MacMillan, and George Stewart over C.B.C. Will Support Price Of Dry Skimmed Milk, Says Gardiner

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner Tuesday night announced the government will support the price of dry skimmed milk.

The minister, who made the announcement here at the annual meeting of the Milk Producers Association, said he hoped the measure would bring sufficient stability to the dairy industry "to encourage producers to maintain their present production of milk."

The support prices will be for storage points "at certain designated points throughout Canada."

Mr. Gardiner said later in an interview the designated points will be announced within the next week.

It will be the first time the price of dry skimmed milk has been supported. The government already supports egg, butter and pork prices.

Mayflower II Sails On First Sea Trials From Brixham, Eng.

By ADRIAN BALL

BRIXHAM, England (Reuters) A light westerly wind filled the sails of Mayflower II Tuesday night and the replica of the Pilgrim Fathers' ship moved gracefully out of Brixham harbor on her first sea trials.

Her skipper, Cmdr. Alan Villiers, decided to give his 122-ton craft a brief run off this picturesque fishing port before beginning the first lap of a transatlantic crossing.

Fifteen minutes after leaving Brixham, the ship spread her full canvas. Two large pleasure steamers, several trawlers and a host of small craft followed her as she sailed gracefully around the bay.

LEAVING FROM PLYMOUTH

The Mayflower was scheduled to return to Brixham later Tuesday night and leave for Plymouth—her final departure point in Britain—today.

Villiers told reporters that he expects to be towed by tug to Plymouth and to sail from there by the end of the week.

Educator Report to the Catholic people of this Province," he said.

"A great deal has been said in the past few years about citizens being only one class of citizens in this country," said Mr. Cullen. "I hope that this House will take a stand and see to it that minority rights will not be disregarded."

Mr. Large said one of the most important features of the report was that it provides a committee to whom persons interested in education could present their views.

He said the briefs presented indicated that a great deal of hard work and sincere effort had been put into them. "Certainly the committee has found a great number of people interested in education. This report will serve as a permanent record of what a great many people think," said Mr. Large.

THANKS MEMBERS

The committee chairman paid tribute to the members of the Committee who sacrificed a great deal of their free time in order to attend the sittings. He regretted that the condition of the weather and the roads made it impossible for many where persons interested in education could present their views.

Mr. Large paid a special tribute to the secretary of the Committee, Mr. Malcolm MacKenzie who he noted gave up a week's annual leave in order to be present and to make arrangements for the various delegations to be heard.

Mr. A.A. MacIsaac said he had no knowledge of the clause being put into the report and added, "If I had known it was going to be included in the report, I would certainly have expressed my disapproval of it," he said.

SUGGESTS RESIGNATION

S.S. Hessian, Liberal, Fifth Kings, said the clause crept into the report. He termed the recommendation, "the biggest slap on the face" that any member of the Legislature ever received and suggested that he resign his seat and run again in the Cardigan district. "I am certain that the people of his district will return him to the House," said Mr. Hessian.

The Fifth Kings member said the Legislature was misled by the report, which suggested that the Minister's powers be taken away from him and given, "to a bunch of hoodlums."

Continuing, Mr. Hessian said, "not only has this House been insulted, I have been insulted and it is not what I came here for. I am not what I am insulted by a report delivered by a young cub. What would Disraeli or Laurier or MacKenzie King think if they saw the powers of an elected representative being taken away from him. If I was on that committee, I would know what was in the report before it was presented to the House."

REPORT ACCEPTED

When the motion to accept the report was put to the House six members voted nay. They were Hon. Mr. Cullen, Hon. M.L. Bonnell, Hon. Mr. Clark, A.A. MacIsaac, S.S. Hessian and L.J. Rosier. Five members were absent from the House at the time. They were Hon. Forrest Phillips, Hon. George MacKay, Russell Clark Prosper Arsenault, Joseph Campbell. The remaining 18 members voted aye.

Speaking to the motion Dr. L. G. Dewar observed, "I mentioned that education in this province is smouldering fire and I think most of you will agree that it is not all smoke."

"The many who appeared at the committee hearings is proof of the interest in education. I feel that the committee did not have sufficient time to go into the matter as they might have done and more time could have been spent with some of the briefs," said Dr. Dewar.

Three important points shown in the report were emphasized by Dr. Dewar. They were: 1. Teachers must and should get higher salaries. 2. A greater overall planning in regard to high schools and regional schools and more emphasis on vocational training. It felt that many of the people given academic training are among those who leave the province. 3. More money should be spent for transportation and the need for improved travelling conditions. Dr. Dewar felt a snowmobile would perhaps solve the problem of transportation where it is difficult to open roads.

TENSE DRAMA STARS LOVELY ANITA EKBERG CAPUTEL SUMMERSIDE

"Back From Eternity," RKO's dramatic thriller now at the capitol Theatre is another indication that Hollywood is going all-out to get people away from their TV sets.

Produced and deftly directed by John Farrow, the picture is a powerful probing of human reactions to the threat of sudden extermination. How eleven people from different walks of life with different morals and manners behave in the presence of impending doom is something Mr. Farrow has succeeded in illustrating on film. The effect is arresting.

The tense story and taut performances, of course, must share credit for this accomplishment. Jonathan Latimer's screen play deals with a handful of Americans trapped in the steaming South American jungle after an airplane crash-landing. This is the unexplored, Jivaro headhunter area where expeditions disappear without a trace.

In a breath-taking process of elimination, five of the castaways are selected for possible escape. How the others meet their fate might well be a believable clue to what has actually happened in many unsolved jungle mysteries.
