

Annie Snowball's Invention 'Ookpik', Still Rolling Along

By MARILYN ARGUE
OTTAWA (CP) — Ookpik the seal skin owl has done some travelling and made some money since he was invented by an Eskimo at the Fort Chimo co-operative three years ago.

The Eskimo co-operative has made $17,500 from Ookpik's commercial royalties and he's gone home with almost every dollar to hit Ottawa — from U Thant and Miss Japan-Canada Friendship to Tennessee Ernie Ford.

First introduced at a trade fair in Philadelphia, the Ookpik toy was the creation of Annie Snowball, an Eskimo woman in her 60s who still lives at Fort Chimo, near Ungava Bay in Northern Quebec. She'd made about $4,200 out of the big-eyed owl.

Spokesmen for the northern development department say it's impossible to tell how much money has been made from the sale of genuine Ookpiks made from seal skin by 25 Eskimos in the community of 310.

NO BREAKDOWN
This is because co-operative profits are made from hunting, fishing, sewing and other work, and so breakdown of figures is made.

Some commercial royalties come from two companies manufacturing the little owls in plush and opossum fur.

Other companies pay to put the Ookpik image on everything from children's jewelry to sweatshirts. There have also been Ookpik storybooks and records and a folk singing quartet has adopted the name.

Although royalties add up to $50,000 but out of that promotion, marketing and legal fees reduce the actual profit to $17,500.

The northern development department now handles only Ookpik's publicity. Promotion and marketing are looked after by Canadian Arctic Producers Ltd., subsidized by government and under the auspices of the Co-operative Union of Canada.

ESKIMOS PROFIT
Eskimos in 34 areas market their work through the organization and get back 90 per cent of the profits.

The future for the Ookpik doll probably includes renewal of contracts with both commercial firms. The Eskimos plan to stockpile about 25,000 seal skin birds for Expo where the five-inch model will sell for $2.

A three-foot Ookpik will be the official mascot of Frank Ogden on his centennial cruise. Canada helicopter flight next summer. The northern development department has bought a couple of hundred of the little owls for him to present to local dignitaries along his route.

Ordinary Articles Become Tots' Treasured Playthings

A common household article can become a priceless toy in the hands of a young child with a vivid imagination.

In fact, the act of creating his own toy can even stimulate his creativity.

This is the theory that the Family Life Education Council of Montreal works under in administering their weekly observational nursery and their daily graduate nursery.

Materials used in these classes are all simple, and readily available in any home.

Water is one of the favorite sources of amusement of the pre-schooler. A child can enjoy himself for hours paddling his hands in a basin full of water, or pouring for an imaginary tea party.

Dough or clay is another material which, with a little imagination can provide a limitless source of scope for the child's creative instincts.

Ordinary cardboard boxes can be used as giant blocks the child can crawl in or around, or can use to build structures or objects familiar to him. Boats, cars, chairs and play houses can be fashioned out of boxes of any shape or size.

Finger paints can be easily made out of corn starch pudding with added vegetable dyes so that even should the child be year-olds for half days five times a week.

The principal of development underlying both these nursery schools is the same. Similar toys and materials are used in both, and trained teachers supervise the children as they help them to develop their natural abilities.

Candlelight Service Held At C. Traverse

The Cape Traverse H.Q. held a candlelight ceremony on December 18, 1966. The guest speaker was Donald Ross, Tyne Valley, a teacher at Athena Regional High School. Mr. Ross spoke on Christmas and its meaning to adults.

Marjorie Stevenson (president) and Garth Paynter (vice-president) officiated at the service. The choir sang a medley of carols accompanied by the congregation. The church was decorated with candles, three spruce trees and spruce boughs.

Near the close of the service Marjorie Stevenson sang "O Holy Night" accompanied by Mrs. Fred Jeffrey. The H.Q. choir then marched through the Church in a candle light procession singing "O Come All Ye Faithful".

MR. AND MRS. HERBERT FRASER

Alberton Couple Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fraser, Alberton South, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage last week.

Mr. Fraser and the former Olive Currie of Glenwood were married December 20, 1916 by Rev. George Millar, then minister of Alberton Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fraser who were their attendants.

They have nine children living, Ralph of Alberton South, Mrs. Burton MacKenzie (Mildred) of Rothesay, N. B., Keir, Hubert, Reginald, Upton, all of Alberton South, Stuart who is with the RCAF in Goose Bay, Labrador, Roy and Mrs. Fred Hamill (June) both of Alberton South. Another son, Franklyn died some years ago at the age of 14. There are 31 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

All the family except Stuart were with their parents last Tuesday and he participated in the important occasion by telephone.

On behalf of the family the oldest son, Ralph, presented gifts to his parents. There were flowers from the grandchildren.

A number of friends called to extend congratulations and others sent messages and gifts.

For the reception gold colored streamers extended from the ceiling to the linen covered table. A four tier anniversary cake was surmounted with white wedding bells and flanked with 50th anniversary tapers in gold colored holders.

Mr. Fraser is a well known figure in the community, one who enjoys the companionship of family and friends, and who can recall many interesting events and stories of the past. He was a successful fisherman all his life and his interest in that occupation is still keen.

MARY HAWORTH

Sisters' Reunion Spoiled By Dispute Over Dog

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: One evening last week my sister, visiting here from out of town, telephoned me from her son's house. I invited her for lunch the following day. She said she would call back next morning.

Next morning I was in the grocery store at 9 a.m., buying different foods I thought she and her husband would like, before dashing home to wait for her call.

I baked a cake and brownies, did some extra cleaning and set the table, still waiting for her call. At 2 p.m., she phoned to say she was coming over with her husband and son. I said "Fine; come ahead."

About 40 minutes later she appeared, and in rushed her dog, making a circuit of the living room. Apparently my face fell for the said "I see you don't like him." To which I replied, "You know I don't like dogs; why did you bring him?"

Her reply was, "He is my baby." Then my husband entered the room. It was a lovely sunny day, temperature in the 60s. He said "Why not put the dog in the back yard, which is completely fenced?"

She turned to me and said "I always take my dog to my friend Jessica's house and she has a very lovely home." I said "It isn't a question of the house; I just don't happen to like dogs."

With that she marched out of the house, stopped her husband from putting the dog in the yard, and the three of them got in the car and departed. We were left speechless, with all the food. I would appreciate your comment on all this.

S. K.

DEAR S. K.: The dialogue accompanying the set-to described suggests that "bearing and forbearing" aren't family traits on your side of the house.

Your sister was guilty of bad manners in bringing her dog to your house, supposedly as a fellow guest, without first having secured your permission. And you were guilty of something less than heroic hospitality in letting your face proclaim what your words affirmed, namely, that you don't like dogs and can't feign a welcome for them.

Weighing her discourtesy against your inhospitable reaction, however, I would say that your sister was the primary trouble maker, in willfully putting you on the spot without warning, to choose between being as a doormat or being tactfully disagreeable about the incident.

Etiquette-wise, as the lady of the house, you are within your rights in barring the door to a caller's uninvited dog, if you like; and the caller has no title to be miffed, if he or she failed to clear the question in advance.

The d. concert caller has a cause only to be apologetic and rueful, at having blundered, thoughtlessly or presumptuously.

I would guess that this scene-of-sorts about your sister's dog is probably par for the course, when you see other. It is probably just another bruising encounter in a life history of per-

Trio Of Cookie Recipes From Utah Homemaker

On a trans-continental lecture - demonstration tour some years ago, I was received with unusual enthusiasm on a Friday afternoon from a big audience of homemakers in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Reception Line
Afterwards, I received the ladies at a reception. One kindly elderly lady ended the line. "I planned to be last," she said, "because I wanted to get a chance to offer you an invitation. I have read the news of your heavy schedule in the newspapers. You must be tired. You surely don't have to lecture tomorrow, Saturday — so come home with me to stay for 24 hours. Go to bed to rest and let me cook some of our good Utah dishes for you. You'll feel like new." I shall always remember her generous invitation.

The following very fine recipes are other examples of the friendly neighborliness that prevails in Utah.

TRIO OF COOKIE RECIPES WITH LOVE FROM UTAH, HOMEMAKERS

MEASUREMENTS LEVEL
COCONUT MACAROONS
2 egg whites
1-1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 c. sugar
2 tsp. flour
3 c. (7 oz. pkg.) coconut
1 tsp. vanilla
Beat egg whites with salt until slightly stiff. Add sugar about 1 tsp. at a time, beating at high speed until stiff peaks form. Fold in the flour; then blend in coconut and vanilla.

Drop in desired sizes on a oiled baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees F. until just lightly browned, about 10 min. The number of cookies depends on a size of each.

FESTIVAL DATE BARS
3 well-beaten eggs
1 c. sugar
1/2 c. flour
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
1 1/2 c. pitted dates (sliced)
1 tsp. vanilla
1 c. broken pecans
nutmeats
Confectioners' sugar, about 1 lb.

Beat eggs with sugar until very thick. Add sifted dry ingredients; beat smooth. Fold in dates, vanilla and nutmeats. Bake in an oiled 9" x 13" pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 30 min. While warm, cut

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Tossed Lettuce and Grapefruit Salad
Pork Chops Baked in Milk
Parried Potatoes
Carrot Rounds
Applesauce Cakes (from a mix)
Coffee Tea Milk

THE CHEF SUGGESTS
If applesauce cake gets dry, try it as a steamed dessert. Slice and cut in halves. Place in 1 layer on a large sheet of aluminum foil. Sprinkle with 1/2 tsp. water and wrap up like a package. Slow-bake 15 min. Serve with Hard Sauce.

Clinton School Held Concert

A large number of parents and interested friends attended the Clinton School concert on Wednesday evening, December 21, held in the hall. Pianist was Mrs. Weirum MacKay, and the concert was under the direction of the teacher, Mrs. James Paynter and the music teacher, Mrs. Keith Sobey. Robert Heaney was chairman for the program of choruses, recitations duets and drills.

Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts to the children. Treats were given to the children of the district by the W.I. Gifts were presented to the teacher and music teacher by the pupils.

Summerside UCW Holds Annual Meeting

Trinity United Church Women Summerside, held their annual meeting of December 20, in the ladies' parlour.

The president opened the meeting and Mrs. Heber Hardy conducted the devotions. A candlelight service was held with the leaders of the seven units taking part, and many carols were sung.

Mrs. William Roach read from the scriptures, Luke, 2nd chapter, Mrs. Harry Cannon read a poem, "Joys of Christmas"; Mrs. Hardy presented a meditation on "What Does Christmas Mean To You?" Mrs. Lea Callbeck sang a solo, "Infant Holy, Infant Lowly".

The offering was taken by Mrs. Hillard Arthur and Mrs. Leith Clark, and was dedicated by Mrs. Hardy.

The president, Mrs. L. Cousins chaired the business meeting, which had a good attendance. Minutes of silence paid tribute to the many members, who had passed on in 1966. Mrs. Harold Harkness led in prayer.

Minutes of the last annual meeting were read and the treasurer reported that the group's allocation had been reached with a substantial sum over and above to be used as the financial committee advises.

Mrs. Allison MacLean, chairman of the nomination committee, brought in the slate of officers and committee chairmen for 1967, as follows: past president, Mrs. Grant Walls; president, Mrs. Lorne Cousins; first vice-president, Mrs. C. R. Web-

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

The next time you're waxing furniture, wax the inside of each metal ash tray and it will clean more easily.

Knitted clothes should never be placed in a closet on hangers. Fold them and lay flat in a drawer or on a closet shelf.

To air a window properly, let down one window sash from the top, raise another, preferably across the room, from the bottom. The resulting draft will freshen the room quickly.

Enamel paint brushes on more easily if you let the can stand in a pan of hot water for a short time before using it.

Use a bulb-type roast baster to fill your steam iron. It fits into the opening and filling is quick and easy.

If you have a narrow foyer to decorate, try an old-fashioned piano bench topped by a colorful foam cushion.
