THE CAUSE OF WAR PREPARATIONS

May Have to do With Delagoa Bay.

ALL WILL BE KNOWN WHEN WILLIAM II RETURNS.

England Will Probably Institute a new Order of Things.

[SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER.]

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The fact that Lord Salisbury in his speech at the Mansion House avoided reference to the cause of the purpose of the continued British naval preparations has excited a great deal of comment in political circles and all sorts of explanations are freely offered.

The following one I hold in a usually well informed and diplomatic source.

It is to the effect that as soon as the German Emperor returns home, some important official publication may be expected concerning the future of Delagoa Bay and that England is making every preparation to have an overwhelming force at her command at the very moment the new order of things is proclaimed.

However, this may be, it is absolutely certain that the decision of France to abandon Fashoda has not relieved the situation of tension as it might have been expected to do a fortnight ago.

Turkeys for England.

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—The agent of the department of agriculture in England says there is a good market there for Canadian turkeys this month and in February. He does not advise December shipments, as the market will be glutted.

Immigrants.

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—The Telegram's special cable from London says: "The number of emigrants from British ports to Canada during the ten months of the year ending October 31st were 18,474. The number of emigrants to Canada trebles that of similar bookings for Australia during the year and exceeds Cape Colony's total by nearly four thousand."

Advices from England indicate that there may be a scarcity of ocean tonnage available for general merchandise, owing to the demand by the government for transports for carrying 200,000 tons of coal as part of its war preparations. Such a contract, it is thought in some quarters, would mean nothing less than a corner in the grain shipping trade, as there is a good deal of grain sold abroad, for the transportation of which no provision has yet been made. The New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin suggests that should the British coal contract not be a reality, that steamers will be drawn from the Russian trade to this side, and that current rates will not be materially advanced.

Saeb to Russia.

[SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 8.—A despatch from Tien-Tsin says that forty Russian sailors, an admiral and M. Paveloff, the Russian Charge d'Affaires in China, have been detained there, permission to proceed to Peking not being forthcoming.

The Admiral and M. Paveloff, according to these advices, declared that if the train attempted to leave without the sailors on board, they would stand in front of the engine.

This is the forerunner of a probable affront to Russia.

After the Khalifa.

[SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER.]

CAIRO, Nov. 8.—Khalifa Abdul, the defeated Dervish leader, is hard pressed on the frontier of Kordofan, southwest of Khartoum, by natives friendly to the Anglo-Egyptian expedition, and it is believed his capture is imminent.

Ali Sherif, his son-in-law, is already a prisoner and is being brought to Khartoum.

SPANISH INSOLENCIE.

Determination of a British Vice-Consul.

HAVANA, via Key West, Fla., Nov. 6. (Delayed in transmission)—Alfred Betancourt, a British subject, born in Jamaica, was assaulted on Tuesday last by Spanish officer, who struck him on the side of the head or wearing a gold scarf pin in the shape of a five pointed star. The officer ordered Betancourt under arrest, and sent him before General Aroas, military Governor of Havana, who ordered him imprisoned. Mr. Jerome, British Vice-Consul, on being notified of the assault presented himself at the captain-general's palace to protest against an act of brutality, and to demand the instant release of Betancourt.

Gen Blanco at first attempted to put Mr Jerome off. Then he said it would be an extremely difficult matter to release the prisoner, as he had not been arrested by the order publico, but by an army officer and had been sent to jail by the military governor. But Mr. Jerome maintained a firm attitude, insisting that he would remain at the palace until Betancourt was released. Finally his persistence was successful. After an interchange of messages between Gen Blanco and Gen Aroas, Mr Jerome all the while refusing to budge from the palace, Betancourt was released at a late hour.

Cured of Stone in the Bladder, by Dodd's Kidney Pills, After Operations had Failed.

TORONTO, Nov. 7. If a census were taken to ascertain how many persons in Canada are afflicted with Gravel and Stone in the Bladder, it would be found that ninety in every hundred are sufferers.

Mrs. Ellen Fox, No 3 Matthias St., Toronto, suffered for years with Stone in the Bladder. She says, "I underwent several operations but derived no benefit. I used Dodd's Kidney Pills, and am now completely cured."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only known positive cure for his horribly painful disease. They never fail. Their effect is rapid and certain.

DUPUY'S POLICY.

Will be Inspired by the Interests of the Country.

Paris, November 5.—The Chamber of Deputies reopened yesterday with a crowded assembly, after its adjournment on October 27, the day of the fall of the cabinet presided over by M. Brisson. Amid great animation the new premier, M. Dupuy, read the ministerial declaration. He began by declaring that a cabinet fully recognized the difficulties and responsibilities of the task undertaken and affirmed the supremacy of civil powers as the fundamental principle of a republican state, and expressed confidence in the army, which, he added, would faithfully respect the laws of the republic. He continued: "We do not leave the national army a butt to the campaign of insult waged against it if we place it above the blind polemics which futilely seek to throw unjust responsibilities upon it. The army is still more entitled to the solicitude and protection of the public powers since it can only work usefully for the security of the country in quietude and silence. It is equally necessary that calmness attend the work of justice, and respect of our duty is to ensure the execution of its decisions, whatever they may be."

Continuing, the Premier said: "In the opinion of individuals this is the only safe means of calming the public mind, disturbed by an affair which cannot much longer cause anxiety to the republic."

"Other questions call for the attention and vigilance of a great people. The permanent interests of the nation at home and abroad, its greatness and prosperity, will be the predominant objects of our cares and efforts."

M. Dupuy then emphasized the imperative necessity of fulfilling the obligations of the Exposition of 1890, and continued:

"France must neglect nothing to maintain the position she has won by her loyalty, strength and love of peace. She must devote herself to strengthening this position, which was consecrated before the whole world by a precious alliance."

"The Government's foreign policy will be inspired by the interests of the country and care will be taken that our efforts are only proportionate to the value of the object at stake."

In conclusion, the Premier remarked that the ministry would rely upon the support of a purely Republican majority, and he expressed the hope that it would give effect to the continuous policy of progress and reform.

Crocus

Should be planted now. Our Bulb Catalogue tells all about the best kinds, and how to plant them.

We have imported direct from Holland 2900 Hyacinths, 2650 Tulips, besides Crocus, Narcissus, &c. We have already sold quite a number of large lots to private planters, the largest yet being about 500 bulbs, but we have a good selection yet on hand. We hope soon to see as much interest taken in planting Bulbs for early spring flowers as is taken in other flowers. Being of easy culture, and hardy, no garden should be without them.

MARCHAND'S RETIREMENT.

Opinions of the British Press.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The editorials in the papers express a natural jubilation over the settlement of the acute stage in the Fashoda dispute. They insist that it is hopeless for France to expect that her evacuation of Fashoda will give her any better preference to discuss or to attempt to negotiate regarding any portion of the Nile valley.

The Times, after pointing out the interesting fact that the United States charge d'affaires, Mr. Henry White, was the only foreign diplomat present at the banquet to Lord Kitchener, says: "In thus associating our American kinsfolk with our national rejoicings, we desire to show our warm appreciation of the sympathy with which General Kitchener's victory has been commented upon beyond the Atlantic."

The Daily News, in the course of an interesting parallel between Gen. Kitchener and Cecil Rhodes, and dwelling upon the "community of their ideas and methods," says: "As one followed Lord Kitchener unfolding his balance sheet of the Sudan campaign at the Mansion House last evening, one might for all the world have been listening to Mr. Cecil Rhodes addressing a body of his shareholders at the Cannon Street Hotel."

BULLETS DIDN'T MATTER

It was in South Carolina, and during the day I had attended court, where a lawsuit of considerable importance was on trial and which was not decided until 6 o'clock in the evening. Then I went home to stop for the night with the judge who had the case in hand. On the way home we were stopped by a man, who said:

"Judge, it is quite likely that the loser of that suit will shoot at you through a window tonight to secure revenge."

"Yes, quite likely. Thanks," pleasantly replied the judge as we passed on.

At the supper table his wife appeared nervous and uneasy, and before the meal was concluded she said:

"Alfred, a man has been seen in front of the house acting rather suspiciously, and I'm afraid he means you harm."

"Yes, I'm afraid so, my dear," replied the judge and then took up the conversation she had interrupted.

After supper we adjourned to the library, and by and by, as we sat at the table, with a kerosene lamp between us, there arose an argument connected with the local question.

"Sir," said the judge as he grew heated by opposition, "they may bring all their sophistry to bear on the question, but nothing will convince me that—"

At that instant I felt a hot streak along my left cheek, and the lamp chimney was shattered into a hundred pieces, and the light went out. The judge rang a hand bell which was within reach, and I thought I heard the notes of the bell before the report of a rifle in front of the house. A negro man came running in, and the judge said:

"Julius, bring us another lamp."

When the lamp was brought, I looked at the judge. He had not changed in the slightest.

"Wasn't that a bullet which broke the lamp chimney?" I asked.

"Very likely it was," he replied as he looked around.

"And wasn't it meant for you?"

"I presume so. There it is in the back of a law book. As I was saying, however, sophistry is not an argument, and those champions—"

"Excuse me, judge," I interrupted, "but the next bullet may kill one of us."

"Oh, they never shoot but once, and I want to convince you that your position is untenable. You see, to begin with—"

But his wife came in and insisted that he give an alarm, and the argument was never finished.—Newark News.

Olives at Sorrento.

The olive yields an abundant crop once in two years. The season when olives are plentiful is called by the contadini "l'anno grasso," or the fat year; the other, when they are scarce, being "l'anno magro," or lean year. In the month of September the fruit begins to turn a bluish black, but it is not fully colored till October. It is often attacked by small maggots, such as are found in cherries, and then it falls from the trees; but, though the olives are partially spoiled, they are picked off the ground and an inferior kind of oil is made from them. The longer they remain on the trees the better is the quality of oil they produce.

In other parts of Italy they are seldom gathered before the month of December, but on the coast of Sorrento it is generally necessary to harvest them earlier. In 1897 the crop was abundant and promised well; but, owing to the want of rain in August, the fruit became dry and shriveled, and when the heavy rains came in September much of it rotted and fell, and most of it had to be gathered before it was entirely spoiled. In such a season the end of October will see the trees entirely despoiled, and the fine crop will bring in a poor harvest and produce an inferior quality of oil.—Chambers' Journal.
