

Guelph Bride Has Relatives On The Island

Brock Road Christian Church was the scene of a pretty wedding in August when Donna Ruby Shaw, became the bride of Kenneth Charles MacKenzie, Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard MacKenzie, Reallstoke, B.C.

The bride's father performed the double-ring ceremony. Baskets of white gladioli formed the floral background. Mrs. Alfred Crone played the wedding music.

Daphne Shaw, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. David Stock, Woodstock, was best man. Given in marriage by her brother Robert, the bride was attired in a street-length gown of white crepe, fashioned with an A-line skirt, empire waistline and wrist length sleeves. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

The maid of honor wore a berry-red dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of peppermint stick carnations. The bride's mother wore a grape sheath dress with a white cut velvet hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The groom was in a pink dress and coat ensemble with a pink net tulle and accessories to match, and a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

For a wedding trip through the western United States, the bride chose a pink silk dress with black accessories and a gardenia corsage. The couple will reside in Vancouver where they are both members of the faculty of the Law School of the University of British Columbia. The groom a professor and the bride a librarian.

The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. Priscilla Shaw of Brudenell, and a niece of Mrs. Verna Nicholson of Whim Road, P.E.I.

The groom was attended by Douglas MacArthur.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Downe chose a yellow brocade dress with yellow and black accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother chose a two-piece dress of pink linen with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception for 80 guests was held in Parkdale Hall. Gary Dunning, cousin of the bride, acted as master of ceremonies and also proposed the toast to the bride. The blessing was asked by Myron MacDonald and Roma Lea Downe, sister of the bride, circulated the guest book.

Mrs. Murray Stevenson served the bridal party.

For going away the bride chose a white wool dress with black patent accessories, her corsage was of yellow roses.

Following their honeymoon the couple are taking up residence in Montreal, where the groom is attending his last year in MacDonald College.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Colin Durden, Armdale, N.S.; Mrs. William Linden, Long Island, N.Y.; and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hencher, and daughter, Cathy, Truro, N.S. and daughter, Cathy, Truro, N.S. (Photo by Craswell)

MR. AND MRS. BARRIE WILLIS Married At Bride's Home Couple Will Live In Montreal

A summer wedding was held at 5 Esler Street in August when Paula Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Downe, Charlottetown, was united in marriage with Horace Barrie Willis, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.B. Willis, Kingston.

The double-ring ceremony was conducted by Rev. John A.G.E. Ball. The pianist, Royston F. Musford accompanied Mrs. Murray Stevenson who sang "The Wedding Prayer" during the service and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, descended the flower decked staircase to the strains of the traditional "Wedding March" wearing a floor-length gown of blue brocade fashioned with a rounded neckline, empire waist and lily-point sleeves.

Her veil of matching blue tulle was held in place by a fabric rosette which matched her gown. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white roses and feathered blue carnations.

Attending the bride as maid of honor, Veda Waller, wore a street-length gown of yellow brocade styled on the same lines as the bride's, with matching shoes and headress. She carried a nosegay of yellow-tinted carnations.

The bride's only other attendant was little Leigha MacDonald as flower girl wearing a yellow organdy dress and duster ensemble. Yellow sweetheart roses in her hair completed her costume. She carried a basket of yellow sweetheart roses and baby mums.

The groom was attended by Douglas MacArthur.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Downe chose a yellow brocade dress with yellow and black accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother chose a two-piece dress of pink linen with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception for 80 guests was held in Parkdale Hall. Gary Dunning, cousin of the bride, acted as master of ceremonies and also proposed the toast to the bride. The blessing was asked by Myron MacDonald and Roma Lea Downe, sister of the bride, circulated the guest book.

MR. AND MRS. FREDERICK WENDALL CURRIE Currie-Archer Ceremony Held At Central Christian

Central Christian Church, Charlottetown, was the scene of an August wedding when Brenda Gail, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Holland Archer, was united in marriage with Frederick Wendall, youngest son of Robert Currie and the late Mrs. Currie, Nine Mile Creek.

The church altar was decorated with baskets of white and yellow gladioli. Guest pens were marked with white doilies centered with green and pink roses with white and silver streamers.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. W.O. Weale. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Clair Archer, aunt of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly" and during the singing of the register "Because". She was accompanied by Mrs. Allison MacRae, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was wearing a floor length gown of white English satin with lily-point sleeves. The fitted bodice was enhanced by a scooped neckline embossed with lace appliques. The gently pleated skirt led to an attached

ELLEN'S DIARY In Busy Harvest Days Time Is All Too Short

Now came dusk over the harvest fields, and with it the day's and week's end. In the twilight, a precious crescent of moon moved above the darkening hills, toward the fading afterglow in the west. But whether or not one could hang a powder horn on the lower point was a question we left with James, master of this old house, who thus can foretell at a glance if it promises to be a wet moon or dry. "In any event, it was, in its own rights, September's moon of the harvest, and for us an elect one to wish upon. What would we wish for? Peace, the thought came, so that the tools of war might become peaceful instruments that in varied manners and in countless directions would contribute to improving the lot of mankind world-over. To build hospitals and equip needed research centers, to provide care for older folk and those unable to provide for themselves, and to give younger folk the skills of head and hand, which would enable them to build satisfying lives for themselves. We would wish... but what could we want for ourselves, we that on Island farms, have fields to tend and a work to do in the interesting days that one by one come to us out of the dawns.

"No, we're not done yet of the harvest!" James replied to a visitor's query this evening. "We have a nice lot saved, but there are bits and pieces here and there still to do."

"Oh, I see some are done but it will be a spell yet before it's all cleaned up I'm thinking. It's a great harvest."

"It is" James agreed. "We couldn't wish for better. There's a nice return from every field."

Busy the harvest days are. And so short for the work that no sunny hour should be wasted. The morning's damp takes a while to lift. There is little reaping done after the sunset. Combines, we hear them. And the sound of the trucks which ply between field and granary. What fullness there is! Sparrows fly down to glean seeds to the barnyard. Pretty speckled bantams exclaim over the treasure they too find. And over all is the rare charm of the season.

Weekend now suspends the fieldwork. It brings folks gladly, it would seem to their day of rest, to gain from the "uplook" of our devotions that inspiration which is a shield, a bulwark against any cares which thrust their shadows into our days. And even though disappointments occur, and frustrations are one, and partings and losses sadden, and we realize that in this world nothing abides, that inevitably changes must come, we remember that:

"He will not change. The restlessness years may bring. Sunlight and shades; the glories of the spring, And silent gloom of sunless winter hours. Joy mixed with grief - sharp thorns with fragrant flowers; Earth - lights may shine a while; and then grow dim, But God is true; there is no change in him."

Until Monday -- Diary -- Good-night.....

Vinegar Is A Useful Product With Lots Of Versatility

By JEAN SHARP

Canadian Press Women's Editor TORONTO (CP) — Most of the vinegar sold in Canada is white, but in the East people like cider vinegar, possibly because their grandfathers did. In areas such as Victoria where the taste for things British is strong, malt vinegar is a favorite for cider. The Eastern preference for cider may be hand-me-down from pioneer days, when it was the easiest type of vinegar to come by.

When apples were pressed in the fall, at least one barrel of hard cider was left to ferment to become cider vinegar. That's what wine and cider vinegars are, a product of natural fermentation. They can be made from any kind of fruit that ferments.

All three varieties of vinegar begin with alcohol. The name vinegar is derived from the Latin words vin and acre — wine and sour.

The sour is acetic acid, which is what makes vinegar useful as a food preservative and as a cleaning agent and which once gave it its reputation as a home remedy and preventive.

Jack Pirie, manager of public relations for H. J. Heinz, says the standard in Canada for acid content for household vinegar is five per cent.

There is a lingering belief that one type of vinegar is a better preserving agent than another, but for such purposes, the only real differences are in taste and in appearance when the vinegar is produced in controlled circumstances.

Malt vinegar is a dark, reddish brown in color. It begins with barley and malt and retains the flavor of malt through fermenting and aging processes.

White spirit vinegar is distilled from the fermenting mash of corn, rye and barley.

You can add to the number of vinegar flavors on your shelf by making herb vinegar at home.

Fill a quart mason jar two-thirds full of whatever herb you want to use. Press the herbs down. Boil a quart of either cider or malt vinegar and pour the hot-vinegar over the herbs in the jar, leaving an inch at the top. Seal it tight. Let it stand in the sun for two weeks, shaking the jar once every day. Then put it in a cool place for a month.

After the month, taste the vinegar. If it isn't strong enough, leave the herbs in the solution longer. If it tastes the way you want it, strain the herbs out and you have herb vinegar.

You can use vinegar and water for washing windows and for similar household chores. Wherever a mild acid solution would be an effective cleaner, you can probably use vinegar.

Sewing Honors In Moncton Captured By Island Girls

It has happened only once before in the 14 years that the Young Seamstresses Sewing Contest has been held in Canada that more than one of three winning entries has been from the same area. In Moncton this week, when garments made by 18 young Atlantic Provinces seamstresses were judged, two of the winners were from this province, Joan Cullen of Charlottetown and Carolyn Mill of Keppoch.

Joan and Carolyn, winners in the sub-teen and junior miss categories in the "sew-off" judged two weeks ago in Charlottetown, were notified of their success by Anette Chevette, education supervisor for the Singer Sewing Co. of Canada Ltd., who was in Moncton earlier this week during the area judging and who interviewed the girls here on Thursday.

This double win is of particular interest in that this is the first participation by Island girls. Winning in Moncton has earned for each of them a sewing machine and the thrill of a four day all expense paid visit, with their mothers, to Montreal beginning Oct. 19.

Three final winners will be chosen in Montreal from 84 Cross-Canada entries and these girls will share $2,250 in prize money.

In Montreal they will tour the atelier of couturier Michele Robichaud, have their hair styled by one of the finest hairdressers and attend a performance of HMS Pinafore at the Place des Arts.

There will be sightseeing, shopping, "dining-out" at several posh restaurants and of course the fashion show and reception will be a highlight of the tour.

Special Service Of Dedication At Stanley Brdg.

At the regular morning service of Stanley Bridge United Church several gifts were dedicated. Rev. Frank Stiles conducted the service and Mrs. Lorne MacEwen was organist. Two special selections were rendered by the choir.

The following gifts were presented and dedicated. A pulpit light, dedicated to the glory of God, and in loving memory of John M. Fyfe, presented by Alice and George Edwards; two bibles in loving memory of Gordon Fyfe, presented by Mr. and Mrs. George P. MacLeod; in loving memory of Watson Fyfe two Bibles from Mary E. Chalk; one Bible from Arlene and Allan Douglas, three hymnaries from Mr. and Mrs. George P. MacLeod and Ann; in loving memory of John Fyfe, two Bibles from Mr. and Mrs. George P. MacLeod, two Bibles from Mary E. Chalk, two Bibles from Garret Kuipers, one Bible from Mr. and Mrs. Ray Douglas.

Fredericton WI Will Hold Turkey Supper

Mrs. Knud Jorgensen entertained the members of Fredericton WI for their Sept. 16 meeting. The members answered a roll call with interesting facts about the past history of the community which were very enlightening. After the reading of the minutes, the school and visiting committees gave their reports. The program convener, Mrs. N.A. Cutcliffe, read a paper on the past history and achievements of the Women's Institute.

As we celebrate our 45th anniversary of the institute on September 20th it was decided to ask Pleasant Valley WI to cater to a hot turkey supper on that date for the institute members and their husbands. Mrs. Harry Weeks and Mrs. Hyatt Haslam were appointed to make arrangements for same. The meeting closed by singing O Canada after which refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

the waistline. Her waist-length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a wedding ring headpiece of white feathers. She carried a cascade of yellow roses. Her only jewellery was a double strand of cultured pearls and matching ear-rings, a gift from the groom.

Evelyn Hughes was maid of honour, wearing a street-length gown of coral peau-de-sepie with a pure silk overskirt of the same colour. Her matching headpiece was a silk rosette and veil. She wore white shoes and carried a nosegay of white and coral carnations. In identical outfits were the bridesmaids, Wanda and Beverly Archer, sisters of the bride.

The flower girl was Lois Adams, in a full skirted dress of coral peau-de-sole with matching pleated cummerbund. She wore a small white pill-box hat, trimmed with coral and carried a nosegay of white and coral carnations. David Archer, brother of the bride, was ring-bearer.

Best man was Keith Campbell, nephew of the groom and ushers were Gerald McIsaac and Blair MacDonald.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a jade green sheath of fine crepe with a multi-colored hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 80 guests was held at the Maritime Christian College. Mixed flowers decorated the tables and the bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom. Mr. Weale asked the blessing and Charlie Ryan, master of ceremonies, asked Frank MacDonald to propose a toast to the bride. Following the reception the guests were entertained at the home of the bride's parents, Nancy Oakes, niece of the groom was in charge of the guest book.

For a honeymoon trip to Nova Scotia the bride chose for traveling a two piece aqua knit suit with a matching marabout hat. She wore black accessories and her corsage was of white roses. The young couple have taken up residence at 63 Elm Ave. (Photo by Bill Taylor)
