British and Foreign Bible Society.

ANNUAL MEETING.

THE annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society was held in Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening. The President, Hon. Judge Young, occupied the chair. The audience was large. Rev. Dr. Fitzgerald, Rev. Messrs. Carruthers, Sutherland, McNeill, Read, Brewer, Moore, and Gordon; W. E. Dawson, and T. C. James, Esqs., Vice-Presidents; J. W. Morrison, Esq., Treasurer; Mr. Justice Hensley, Dr. Leeming and many other leading members of all the Protestant denominations. The choir of Zion Church was present to sing the hymns of praise. Dr. Fitzgerald offered up prayer.

The President delivered a short opening address as follows:—

DEAR CHRISTIAN FRIENDS.—In the good Providence of our Father in Heaven, we are privileged to meet in the fifty-second year of the organization of our Island Auxiliary Bible Society. We began with some sixty members in the year 1838, and by our Report to night we show a record for 1889, of 268 on the roll. We may well be thankful, not only that this branch exists; but that God has been pleased to bless its operations for so many years.

One of the great advantages of a meeting like this, is that all denominations of the Protestant Churches can gather together on one broad platform, and realize that we are of one heart and mind; and that the strong tie that binds us, is a firm and abiding faith in the Holy Bible, being the revealed word of God. It is indeed a wonderful book. The more it is studied the more precious it becomes, and to the religious mind it is ever fresh and new. One who enjoys spiritual life can never get tired of the Word; why, because its testimonies are wonderful, its promises are most encouraging, its principles are God-like, its precepts are practicable, its invitations are boundless, and its admonitions must ever be regarded as the voice of heaven.

It has been the privilege of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and through the agencies employed by its auxiliaries, by Colportage and by other instrumentalities to circulate this blessed Book far and wide throughout the world, and thus exalt the nations that have received it, not only in civilization, but also in the things that are divine, spiritual, and eternal.

I feel assured that there will be a hearty response in the minds of all assembled here to-night, when I say may God bless the operations of the Parent Society, its auxiliaries, and all who are engaged in this glorious work, which has hitherto proved so remarkably successful and encouraging.

The Rev. Mr. McNeill then read the annual report, showing that about seven hundred bibles had been distributed in the course of the past year, and that much valuable work had been done by the colporteurs. J. W. Morrison, Esq., read the report of the Treasurer, including the following financial statement:

March 31, 1890. Dr.
We greatly regret that THE EXAMINER'S space to-day does not admit of even an epitome of the excellent addresses of the movers of the resolutions, which were as follows:

Moved by Rev. W. W. Brewer, seconded by Judge Hensley,—

That the report, an abstract of which has been read, be adopted, and that the following gentlemen be the Committee for the current year: A. I. the Protestant clergymen on the spot, as officio, and John Ball, William Is. Esq., William Heard, R. R. Hodgson, A. Brown, Joseph Knight, Thomas Leeming, Kennedy, J. D. McLeod, David Small, Charles Paul, J. Callbeck, George E. Pull, W. Weeks, H. Robert F. Delbois, John Charles I. Morris, W. A. Weeks, A. Lawson, Isaac C. W. Moore, A. W. Jasper Pickett, Rev. L. Miller, W. T. Stern, Charles Leigh, Jr., Seaman, W. J. Huggan, L. E. Prowse, J. D. and Wm. Minter, L. L. Beer, H. J. Cunda, and McPhail.

Moved by Rev. D. Sutherland, seconded by Rev. John Read,—

That this meeting desires to thank God that while recent discoveries in many lands are verifying the authenticity and inspiration of God's written word, His Providence is opening up a way into Africa and among other heathen nations for the reception of that which alone can emancipate the bodies and souls of men.

Moved by Rev. J. A. Gordon, seconded by T. C. James, Esq.,—

Resolved, That this meeting, humbly thanking God for the extended circulation of His word in this Island and throughout the world, and for the blessings accompanying it, appeals to all Christians to aid the objects of this Society in endeavoring to furnish the holy scriptures in larger numbers to meet the world's great need.

Moved by Charles Palmer, Esq., seconded by W. E. Dawson, Esq.,—

Resolved, That the thanks of this meeting be given to the collectors for their gratuitous and successful services; and to the ladies and gentlemen of Zion Church choir for their excellent rendition of appropriate melodies.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

How it Strikes "An Onlooker."

SIR,—The debate on the Draft Address in the House of Assembly on Saturday forenoon, gave some of the new members an opportunity of addressing that body. The mover and seconder of the address, as became gentlemen speaking for the first time in Parliament, were noticeable for the modest and unassuming manner in which they spoke. While clearly putting forward their views on the various subjects referred to in the Governor's Speech, they did not allow themselves to be carried away with their sense of their own importance. The leader of the Opposition, knowing that debates on the Draft Address are now generally confined almost entirely to matters referred to in the Governor's Speech, was also extremely mild and gentlemanly in his criticism of the Government; and was answered by the Leader of the Government in the same way. In any other Parliament, the speeches of these gentlemen would have ended the debate and the House would have then gone into Committee. But a member, who for long years has been burning to air his eloquence in the House of Assembly—was too impatient to allow an opportunity to slip. Taking the floor, he imagined that he was at his accustomed work of addressing a jury, and for an hour and a quarter devoted almost his entire attention to abusing the Commissioner of Crown Lands. Of course the hon. gentleman was within his rights when he did so; but was it good taste for a young member to evince so belittling a disposition? The tradition of Parliament sets forth that new members, like young maidens, should be noted for their unassuming manners and retiring modesty; and when we see one of our cherished ordinances thus rudely violated, a thrill of indignant protestation creeps quickly over the minds of all old habits of legislative halls.

And what was all this burst of eloquence about? The defalcations in the Land Office, a subject that has been thrashed out by the Opposition press and party in every conceivable manner and on every possible occasion for the past four months. There must be some reason why this subject has been resurrected by the Opposition. We know that it was that party that raised a howl in the Patriot about the defalcations in the Land Office, and dragged the misdoings of the late Robert A. Strong into publicity. We know, to some extent, why it was done, but the late resurrection of the subject leads thinking men to believe that there is more than interest in public matters, inducing certain members of the Opposition to attract attention to this scandal.

They know that the human conscience is liable to become calloused by contact with evil. They know that what will shock even ordinary Christians, if daily presented to the view of the most frigid will so accustom them to its shortcomings, that palliative reasons will rise in its behalf. It is in order to accustom the public conscience to matters of scandal—to subjects that show the frailty of human nature—that certain members of the Opposition raised and tried to keep before the people the embezzlement of Robert A. Strong? Do they think that the scandal which arose on account of that unfortunate man's stealings will palliate the much greater scandal and infamy that lately has shocked the moral sense of the whole province? And do they think that in this way they can so deaden the moral conscience of the people, that the guilty in this latter case will receive less condemnation? No! thousands of voices answer all over the province, a thousand times, No! True, both are offences against human and divine law, but the sin of Robert A. Strong was one committed under great temptation—was forced on him by unfortunate circumstances. But what extenuation can be offered for the other scandal—one that is almost without a parallel in the history of this Island? None, whatever. There were no inducements worthy of misleading any man. All the attractions of a happy home and a loving family should have been banished of steel to bind this married man to the paths of virtue.

Mr. Peters talked about the expense of the Commission investigating the defalcations in the Land Office, and insinuated that the Commissioners were prolonging their work in order to draw a larger amount of public money; but expensive as will be that Commission, we doubt very much if it will cost the country any more than the scandal he is engaged in defending.

Mr. Peters and his clients get through with their little trouble, it would be better for him to be less bumptious in his bearing to the Assembly, or possibly they the House of Assembly, or possibly they will get more than they bargained for.

ONLOOKER.

Lower Montague Notes.

THE winter farm work is now mostly finished up, until planting commences. The principal subjects of the day are receiving due consideration, the chief amongst which are about horses and politics.

We are pleased to state that Lower Montague can boast of some fine farms that will compare very favorably with any in the county. A glance at the barns owned by Messrs. C. B. Poole, J. A. Annear, and Messrs. would convince a person of the parent prosperity of the farmers of the vicinity, while the cosy dwelling houses of this section are a model of neatness and perfection.

It is reported that the imported carriage stallion Young General Cleveland, owned by Mr. Alex. Blue, Collingwood, Ontario, now in charge of A. B. McDonald, Nine Mile Creek, will visit Montague once a fortnight this season. There is lots of business in King's County for first-class horses, and the farmers are awakening to the fact that the best is cheapest. There are some beautiful specimens to be seen

County, sired by the above-named horse, that are worthy of note, especially one owned in this locality.

The Keeler Lodge, No. 46, I. O. G. T., formed here last fall, is still in a flourishing condition. Its membership is steadily increasing. Meetings are held weekly, and the interest manifested at each shows the temperance sentiment to be at heart, which insures its future stability. The following are the officers for the ensuing quarter:—

Entertainment at Pownal.

THE entertainment and pie social, given in Pownal Hall by the Blooming Hope Lodge, on Tuesday evening last, was a decided success. The night was fine, and the roads in good condition. The Hall was crowded to overflowing, many being unable to procure seats. The choir began the evening's amusement by singing the "Temperance Greeting Song," and the entertainment throughout was well rendered. The singing was much appreciated, especially the solo by Miss Edith M. Wood, entitled "The Home that used to Be," which she sang to a charming old Scotch melody. The readings were well selected and amusing, and the audience laughed long and heartily when the organist, Mr. J. B. Dokondorff, read "Phillip's First Baby," and Mr. Layton McCabe, in his reading, cried so perfectly, that the unfeeling audience weeps again. The programme came to an end at the conclusion of "God Save the Queen" by the choir, after which the pies were sold. Mr. Richard Smith was the auctioneer, as well as the chairman of the evening, and, thanks to his ready wit and well-timed humor, the people were kept in a happy frame of mind, and the pies sold high. After the sale of pies, began the most amusing part of all, namely, the eating of the pies with whatever partner chance selected. Then was to be seen some laughable combinations. The widow rejoiced in the attentions of a youthful partner, and could laugh at her younger friend, who had a hard time keeping quiet the children of the man that chafes had thrown in her way. Friend met foe, and settled their petty squabbles by the aid of a consoling pie, and became friends again. Over fifty pies were sold, and notwithstanding their large dimensions, failed to supply the demand. The best of order prevailed throughout, and, in selecting Mr. Smith as chairman, we had the "right man in the right place." Much thanks is due to the Excelsior Lodge, of Pownal, for the large number of pies which they furnished, and we only look forward to a like social on their part to enable us to return the compliment.
