

PRACTICAL FAMILY GIFT

NEWLYWED FIND Christmas enchanting and practical when family Santas give them one large, needed gift—for example, a dining room group. This one includes expandable table, chairs and hostess server.

Season to replace the old with new

Replace something old with something new.

Always a good guide for gift-giving, this suggestion is an especially timely one now. New developments in appliances, large and small, and new advances in the home entertainment field make the replacement gift a most welcomed one—be it transistor radio or color TV set, no-frost refrigerator, toaster, automatic range, or perhaps a family-size toaster, decorator-styled coffee maker, portable mixer or any one of the wide range of versatile small appliances.

Transistorizing, plus the growth of color TV, tends to open up the opportunity for giving something new in home entertainment, for even last year's radio or TV set might seem outdated this year. Major kitchen and laundry appliances, too, have seen tremendous changes in recent years, so that the home with an "old" range, refrigerator or washer almost certainly needs a new one.

When a replacement gift is the choice, consider at the same time a useful way of disposing of the old. In the spirit of Christmas is an inquiry to the Salvation Army, the Goodwill shops, or church groups, to see whether the used item might be wanted. Bonus is that the "used" value may become a tax deduction.

Selling the item, through the want ad department of the newspaper, or using it elsewhere in the home (the playroom, perhaps) are other solutions for Santa.

Men light up with jewelry

To put a gleam of gladness in a man's eyes that will outshine the lights on his Christmas tree, give him the very things he will treasure—gifts of jewelry.

To give him the feeling of owning something which is uniquely his, a monogrammed present is sure to do the trick, suggests the jewelry industry.

No man can resist the prestige of attractive belt buckles, tie bars, cufflinks, rings and such leather accessories as wallets and cigarette cases, especially when they're distinctively monogrammed or initialed.

CHOOSING RINGS
Handsome rings are fast becoming popular as symbols of success and goals achieved. Flatter his masculine ego with an emblem ring bearing the insignia of school, fraternity or lodge.

A huge selection of modern signet rings allows the choice of one specially suited to him. He may disclaim sentimentality, but a birthstone ring, with all the connotations of his birth month gem, is a gift a man will wear with pride.

SECOND WATCH
Although he may have a watch, he may not have one each for dress, sport and business. He'd never ask for another, nor buy one himself, but his joy would be obvious over such a Christmas present.

An attractive variety of watch bands for all occasions can also be found at the jewelry store. Other ways to please a man this Christmas are with gifts such as desk sets, money clips, key chains, silver-backed brushes and bar accessories. Cigarette boxes, cases, holders and lighters are also sure to satisfy.

Do it yourself decorations

Christmas and snowmen go together—but what if it doesn't snow? Mom and— or the kids can make a decorative snowman that doesn't melt, and doesn't need snow—just give wrapping materials.

Here's all that's needed:
3 rolls white "Lustre Tie" 1 1/4" ribbon

Watches keep time with tastes

When the time for giving draws near, Santa knows that the timely gift for young and old is a timepiece, says the Jewelry Industry Council.

To flatter a feminine wrist, bewitching new watches await selection. Delicate bracelet watches, which add a high fashion accent to afternoon and evening wardrobes, feature jeweled cover lids concealing or revealing the time as she wishes.

Rugged and sporty "Continental" models, with large, easy-to-read faces and broad, eye-catching straps in kid, brocade, satin, leather or textured metals are the latest watchword in wrist witchery.

Gold watches are even more elegant this year, with moss, frosty and nuggety, as well as Florentine and polished finishes.

The man on the list can tell time for sport, business or dress occasions by a watch from the wide and handsome selection at the jeweler's. Precision-styled timepieces, thin and streamlined for a masculine wrist, will also tell him the day, year and even the tide.

Whatever his occupation or hobby, scientific timekeeping ingeniously assures a watch to meet his needs—for example, self-winding watches that resist wind, water, dust, shock and magnetic fields.

For teen-agers, balancing on the brink of adulthood, the gift of a watch is a sign of recognition of their imminent maturity. There are many fine watches to gratify a young man. In addition to wrist-watches, a teen-age girl will thrill to a watch set in a pendant, ring or pin.

1 roll scarlet 3/4" ribbon
2 foam balls—3" for head, 5" for body

Pipe cleaners, pins, beads, cardboard, 3/4" dowel, paper cup and gift wrap Strip white ribbon into three parts and wind around each foam ball. Cut white ribbon into four-inch lengths; using pin, finely slash centers, leaving one-half inch margins at each end, which will be moistened and stuck together to form fringe. Starting at bottom of foam balls, moisten fringes and stick to ribbon base, working in overlapping rows. Attach head to body with a toothpick and add scarlet ribbon bow. Pin on head eyes.

Make arms by winding fringe around pipe cleaners; insert into body. Cover a paper cup and a cardboard circle with gift wrap and glue together for hat. Pin to head.

Shred eight three-inch strips of scarlet ribbon and wind around one end of dowel for broom; cover remainder of dowel with red ribbon.

Leather gives lift

As a house gift for the holiday leather furniture is ready to give a lift to the home decor, and the family, too.

From traditional armchairs, to leather - and - teak slings, there are leather chairs of every kind and color. Dad may vote for the well-upholstered comfort of an armchair for den or family room, while Mom decides on dining room chairs with seats covered in leather.

Leather furniture can have the unusual touch, in such gifts as a pair of straight-back chairs with black cowhide covers, and antiqued hobnail trim suggests Leather Industries of America.

Consider as well revolving leather chairs on wood and aluminum spokes, chairs with back-rests of woven leather stripping curved can chairs padded with leather or triangular corner chairs.

Benches, couches, ottomans are other "seating arrangements" available in leather.

Tables, desks, buffets, chests—all welcome additions to the home gifts list—gain added beauty and distinction with tops or panels of leather.
