Yanks Say Reds Missile Hit Russian Plane Too

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times news service says a new version of the Francis Gary Powers U-2 plane incident places the Russians as having accidentally hit one of their own planes with a missile at the same time. The report, which the Times said was obtained from private Soviet interceptors, said the Soviet interceptors were one of two that had been following Powers' jet at a lower altitude. The report under a Moscow dateline gave this account of the incident: "An Al-7m was sounded among anti-aircraft missile units stationed in the Ural's north of Sverdlovsk by because of various mishaps the installations were unable to go promptly into operation."
