where I can do some useful work," they heard him say faintly. New York, the Associated Press declared the trial was "a sham and a mockery of elemental justice." Legitimate newsgathering, the AP said, had been "twisted and distorted" into espionage, and "the Associated Press will continue, by all means available, to seek Oatis' release from this cruel and unjust detention." The State Department in Washington called the trial a "judicious travesty of justice." Oatis' three Czech co-defendants, who had been employed mostly as translators in the AP office, drew harder lots. Their sentences: Thomas Svoboda, 20 years; Pavel Woldinek, 18 years; and Peter Muntz, 16 years. All were stripped of their property and civil rights for 10 years. Oatis, 37-year-old Marion, Ind., newspaper man, was arrested April 23. No representative of the Associated Press or the U. S. Government has been able to talk with him since and the embassy was not able to get a copy of the indictment.

Children To Remain Home Their two children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, will remain in the United Kingdom. Parliament will be meeting—the fall session opens Oct. 9—while they are in the country, but it is expected they will have completed their visit to the Capital before the official opening.

Word of their coming promptly stirred speculation as to whether they might go to the United States. There was no official comment on this possibility.

Nor was there any indication whether the itinerary of the royal couple will parallel that of the 1939 royal visit, which took the King and the Queen from Quebec back across the country again to the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, then a crown colony, before leaving for home.

However, it is expected the itinerary will be considerably less extensive than that of 1939.

COAST-TO-COAST

The British title of Duke of Edinburgh, to come to this country. It also is known that the Princess herself often has expressed a wish to make such a trip.

Pleasant Surprise Nonetheless, Mr. St. Laurent's announcement came as a pleasant surprise to the capital which, along with other Canadian cities, to give her parents a warm-hearted welcome in 1939.

The Prime Minister said that their Royal Highnesses in the short time they will be in this country, will not be able to "see all of the places in Canada that they would like."

They will, however, travel from coast to coast and it is hoped, will visit most of the principal centres.

"The details of their Royal Highnesses' itinerary will be made public later."

Their Royal Highnesses have expressed the hope that their first visit to Canada, to which they are looking forward with keen anticipation, will be kept as simple as possible, having regard to the circumstances of the times, and I know that their wishes will be respected.

"All Canadians will be delighted that the heiress to the throne is coming to our country, and will give Her Royal Highness and His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh the warmest of welcomes."

Possibly in keeping with the royal wish that the visit be kept simple, Mr. St. Laurent will not accompany the Princess and her husband across the country.

In 1939, when the King came to Canada as the first reigning sovereign to visit the Dominion, former Prime Minister Mackenzie King met them when they landed at Quebec and remained with them during most of the four-week tour.

However, high Canadian Government officials will accompany Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip. They also will be escorted by members of the Cabinet as they enter the various parts of the country.

The "Champion" Shorthorn Calf Club of Hampton held a meeting June 26 at the home of club members, Eddie, Beulah and Marjorie Ferguson. In spite of inclement weather, most of the members were present and did a good job of judging the class of cows lined up on the barn floor.

Morris Deason, Fieldon, led the club in a discussion of the class and also told the club of the proposed tour being sponsored by Canada Packers.

Remarks heard on club visits: Proud parent to fieldman as they viewed a very well tended and cared for club member's calf, "Is he supposed to sleep with the calf every night?"

Another parent to fieldman as they viewed another fine calf, "My son has certainly shown me it pays to look after the calves."

Another parent to fieldman while they were inspecting last year's calf, "That heifer did great while my daughter was feeding it last summer, but when I look over after the Achievement Day, it became very unthrifty."

Classes on judging of cattle were held at the home of John MacEachern, New Argyle, for the New Argyle and St. Catharines clubs on Tuesday, June 26. The members were privileged in having a very fine class of dual-purpose shorthorns to judge.

Wednesday afternoon the South Freetown club held a judging class at the home of club members, Stuart and Wesley Reeves. Most members were present. It is regrettable that one of the club members, Ruby Reeves, had to enter the Provincial Sanatorium for treatment. The club members, directors and provincial fieldmen all wish her a speedy recovery.

The "Maple Leaf" calf club of Norboro and Kelvin met Wednesday evening at the home of Club members, Roberta and Claire Hogg, for instruction in judging. Following the judging, the members and parents were kindly treated with fudge by the hostess and host.

Fourteen members of the Freetown Calf Club met at the home of Colbourne Clog, Tuesday, June 26. Mr. S. C. Wright, Provincial Dept. of Agriculture, conducted a class in judging. Several members were absent as they were writing Entrance examinations.

Attention Club Members So you think your calf is wonderful and will probably win first prize. Remember that the prizes are given to you for your work as a club member. Your calf will help you win that prize; however, you must do your part. Make sure you send your feed reports to the Dept. of Agriculture every month. These are important, and if you neglect them, you will be disappointed at the prize you win on Achievement Day.

Nine members of the C. C. Calf Club gathered at the home of Club member Elmer MacDonald, Augustine Cove, and participated in a judging class, on Thursday, June 28. Following the judging the members were heard for the placing of the animals from each member.

LONDON, July 4—(Reuters)—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower today entrusted British care a roll of honor of the 26,000 United States servicemen who went out from this country in the Second World War and never came back. The roll will eventually be placed in an American memorial chapel to be built in St. Paul's. Two million Britons subscribed nearly £280,000 for the chapel, but its construction has been delayed by material shortages.

Full House Grets "Hansel & Gretel"

A capacity audience witnessed the Charlottetown Little Theatre Guild's production of "Hansel & Gretel" last evening at the Empire Theatre.

Presented as a feature of "Festive Week", the performance by the local group was even smoother and more realistic than at their other two presentations of this play. Children comprised the greater part of the audience, but even those older in years found themselves on the edge of their seats at times.

The younger members of the audience again entered into the spirit of the play as they shouted directions to members of the cast at critical moments.

During an intermission Mrs. R. Sutherland introduced contestants in the Miss P.E.I. contest to the audience.

The performance by the Guild last evening was the final production for the season, and this active and ambitious group are already at work selecting plays for their new season which will start early in the fall.

Beauty Contest Judging Continues

Talent tests and appearances before judges of the Miss P. E. I. contest were concluded yesterday morning when eight attractive young ladies appeared on the stage of the Prince Edward Theatre.

Bringing to a total of seventeen the number of the fairer sex who are competing for the Crown of Beauty, yesterday's contestants displayed a wide variety of talent. Pianists, vocalists, elocutionists and an acrobat performed briefly before the large audience, and met with hearty rounds of applause.

Mrs. R. Sutherland, chairman of the contest committee, welcomed the audience and introduced each of the girls as they appeared. Names of contestants will not be divulged until the crowning at 7:30 p. m. on Saturday evening. Until that time all entries will be known by number only.

Mrs. Joseph Dougan has been accompanist for the vocalists, and judges are Mrs. A. H. Roper, Mrs. J. P. Kelly, Dr. Harold Shaw and Mr. E. C. Johnstone.

The girls appeared at the Prince Edward Theatre for a few moments during the nine o'clock intermission last evening, and also at the Empire Theatre during the Little Theatre performance of "Hansel and Gretel."

Freetown Congregation Honors Minister At Farewell Reception

Prior to the departure of Rev. J. A. MacGowan, Mrs. MacGowan and family for a new pastoral charge, they were honored at a farewell reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Trueman Paynter.

There was a large representation of the members and adherents of the Freetown congregation, as well as many former members who are now active in another Presbyterian congregation.

The first part of the evening was of a more serious nature when Mrs. Loretta Pickering, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Paynter was baptized. Following this service, Mrs. George Jardine read an appropriate address in which she paid tribute to Mr. MacGowan for their fine Christian leadership and pleasant associations. Mrs. Elton Cairns graciously made the presentation of a purse of money.

Mr. MacGowan, speaking on behalf of Mrs. MacGowan said he enjoyed the nine years in this charge and wished other things spoke of the cordial welcome he always received from the people in their homes. He stated he would be happy to come back to renew acquaintances and friendships, when an opportunity presented itself. He thanked all for their tangible expressions of goodwill and hoped the church would continue to grow in strength and continue to play its part in propagating the Gospel.

At the conclusion of Mr. MacGowan's words of appreciation, all joined in heartily singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Humorous readings and a hearty sing-song with Mr. J. B. Lewis as leader, added to the evening's entertainment. The hostess assisted by several ladies served a dainty lunch.

After a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Trueman Paynter for the use of their home, the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" brought pleasant evening to an end. After regretful farewells and good wishes to the honored guests, all wended their way homeward.

Attlee And Churchill Clash Over Arms Speech

LONDON, July 4—(Reuters)—Winston Churchill and Prime Minister Attlee today clashed over an arms speech and started an uproar in the House of Commons.

The cause was a public speech by Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell. He had suggested that "at the slightest sign" the government would be only too willing to curtail rearmament activities.

Asked if this was government policy, the Prime Minister said the government had consistently sought the co-operation of other countries in arms reduction. When these countries showed genuine response, Britain would be willing to reconsider the size of her defence forces, he said.

"In the meantime, we have no intention of relaxing our efforts to strengthen our defences," Attlee told the House.

Churchill, leader of the Conservative Opposition, demanded to know whether Attlee associated himself with the statement.

Cheers and counter-cheers from Labor and Conservative benches began when Attlee said he thought Shinwell's remark reasonable and sensible.

It was perfectly relevant to suggest that Britain's whole end is peace, and that the country does not want to spend all its efforts on armaments.

"We want strength but we also want peace," Attlee said.

Amid renewed Conservative cheers, Churchill said Shinwell's statement is likely to weaken efforts to sustain and develop the national defences.

"Does the Prime Minister not think he would better employ his power and authority by seeking to teach some discipline to his principal colleagues instead of slinging out insulting insinuations that the Conservatives are not as devoted to peace as he is?" Churchill barked. Labor members stood up and shouted in protest.

Attlee hotly denied that he had flung out any insinuations.

Crop Report

OTTAWA, July 4—(CP)—Frequent June rains have delayed seeding in many parts of the Maritime. The Bureau of Statistics reported today in one of a series of reports on cross-country crop conditions.

A heavy hay crop is expected and in some parts of Nova Scotia large quantities are being made into silage. In Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, early sown grains are growing vigorously. Potatoes are developing rapidly and are in bloom in some sections of New Brunswick.

Crop conditions remain good in Quebec following general rains. Prospects for the hay crop are "very good," except in the Richelieu valley. Cereal crops look good. Pastures generally are in good condition.

Crop prospects remain "generally good to excellent" in the Prairies, despite a late season. The report said. Continued dry weather has reduced British Columbia crop prospects.
