Clan MacLaren Chieftain Honored At Reunion Tea

Dr. Janet McLaren, recognized Chieftain of the Inverness branch of the clan MacLaren, and her mother, Mrs. William McLaren, Dunning, Scotland, were guests of honor at a reunion tea held last week at the Montague Legion Home on Monday. Members of the Gordon MacLaren Brudenell Pioneer Society and old friends who included Mary Irving, Charlotte, Dr. McLaren's former teacher at Prince Street School, welcomed Janet and her mother to the island. Bruce McLaren, Charlottetown, was the master of ceremonies and Lawson Drake, Meadowbank, read the address. Judge J. S. DesRoches spoke briefly, Jan Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Athol Robertson, and Stuart McLaren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McLaren, presented gifts on behalf of all present to Dr. Janet and her mother. Mrs. Lillian MacDonald, Georgetown, Mrs. Florence Dewar and Mrs. Winnie Vickers poured. Serving were Mrs. Douglas McLaren, Mrs. Wallace Jenkins, Mrs. Keir Clark, Mrs. Milton Fraser, Jr., and Mrs. Lawson Drake. The tables were attractively arranged with floral centerpieces of mixed flowers and small bowls of yellow daffodils. Music was supplied by Piper Bruce McLaren.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Justifiably Proud Folks Attended Her Graduation

Now through the glass of a door, or when we have drawn the table to a window, the May-month presents nice pictures for our viewing as we breakfast, we two: fat buds on the chestnut tree, leaves on the birches unfolding, flowerings about—scarlet, primrose and blue, the emerald green of the fields on the slope. Nature's loveliness on every hand. And with it the cheer and hope of the season. Even the robin we see lifting, a length of cord to weave into the nest has a light heart, we think.

"This will be the best summer yet," we remarked to James, this morning.

"Here's hoping, Ellen!" he smiled lifting his cup of tea to his lips.

"This is the day!" Peter exclaimed come by, young face beaming, blue eyes brighter than the sky above the hills.

"After dinner, that is," he nodded. "We are going to town to see 'her' graduate from College."

She will get. What is it?" he appealed to us.

"An Honour Diploma," we said.

"Yes. And," he confided, "I just don't know how I'm going to manage it, but when I'm in town, I'm going to bring a look around to see if I can find a dump-truck."

"A dump-truck!" James repeated in mock alarm. "Now what would a farmer like yourself do with one of those? What a queer notion—and in the cropping!"

It may be recorded that as usual it was a pleasant ceremony, that with his mother and Alex and himself we attended, one of justifiably proud parents and kin, and happy graduates. In a new departure and setting, it was held in the Confederation Center on "The Square" instead of the familiar hall in the College.

"There's this to the move," we commented to the one girl of this
