The Vacant Chair AT VICTORIA PARK YESTERDAY

A Tribute to Leo Chaisson In the Education Office there is a vacant chair. A chair left vacant on a sunny April morn; A man who did his work with right good will; Has left a chair which is very hard to fill.

Dear friend, you have served your Country well; The good you've done Eternity shall tell; When the murderous Hun came roaring on; The Kkaki you did not hesitate to don. But now you've answered to a higher call; In the early morning, as the sunbeams fall; Little did we think as five o'clock drew nigh; That this was our last fond goodbye.

We, who knew and loved you, can never tell; You served your fellowmen, your church as well; Your pleasant smiles and blithe-some song; Lightened other's burdens as they trudged along. So now for one we held most dear; We breathe a sigh, we shed a tear; Although on earth we shall meet no more; We shall meet in Heaven on the Golden Shore.

Your life has been a glowing light; For all who wish to tread the paths of right; You are free from worry, free from harm; Around you is a protecting arm. We, your colleagues shall miss you; We, to whom you've always been true; Memories now is all we have left; May God bless all you've left bereft.
