

Widening Educational Horizons

By Alice B. Hennings
(Reprinted from the School Executive)

Did you hear that schools are closed today on account of the snow storm? Sure, wish I were a teacher and could roll over on a morning like this! I said one bus-ride to another.

"Yeah," said a third, "they have it soft, all right. Time off for every little thing. If there's a convention, they're off! A little snow, they're off! A holiday—just a little one—off again! What a job!"

At which his fellow passengers nodded agreement. They didn't know that sitting within earshot was a home-bound teacher who had reached school at 7:30 a.m. as usual, after an hour-and-a-half struggle with the elements, to find that her trek was in vain.

"Teachers are always saying how much work they have, and a former neighbour of mine, but I counted three at our church's last party!" The inference, of course, is that teachers do not really have much work, or that if they attend parties they are neglecting their work.

As a teacher, I'm tired of hearing random slights from uninformed laymen. It is clear that I am not tired of teaching; on the contrary, I am impressed with the importance of my job. Unless teachers arm the Sams and Sallies with truth and knowledge, this civilized world has little chance of survival.

LONG RIVER W. I.

The Long River W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Arthur Johnstone on January 4. The president, Mrs. Francis Paynter, presided, and opened the meeting with the singing of "It's a Good Time to Get Acquainted" followed by the Creed in unison. Roll Call was answered by 10 members with poetry on the New Year. Two visitors were present.

The different committees reported: sick, one call and fruit sent. The treasurer reported $13.80 from sale of candy at school concert and the entertainment committee for the month had raised $50. Expenditures were $43.14.

The secretary reported one tender for the transportation of a music teacher from and to Kensington.

School committee reported that the Science kits were now available. It was moved by Mrs. Allan A. Campbell and seconded by Mrs. William E. Johnstone that this be released from Institute and left to school board to purchase one.

New committees were appointed and are as follows: school re-appointed, sick, Mrs. Heath Campbell, Mrs. Bruce Bell and Miss Mae Pound; lunch, Miss Mae Pound, Mrs. Arthur Johnstone and Mrs. William E. Johnstone; program, Mrs. Murdoch MacLeod and Mrs. Allan A. Campbell; entertainment committee for month, Mrs. Oliver Paynter, Mrs. Francis Paynter and Mrs. W. J. Proffitt.

Correspondence was read which consisted of three thank you notes. After some discussion it was decided to have an auction sale at the February meeting; each member to donate articles for sale, and to have a fund-raising program. Mrs. Paynter invited the Institute to meet at her home for the next meeting and the roll call is to be an exchange of original Valentines.

Program consisted of a true or false contest by Mrs. William E. Johnstone and Mrs. Eusebe Paynter gave a joke to read which caused much laughter. Lunch was served by the committee assisted by the hostess. Mrs. Oliver is to make the next cake for sale. The meeting closed with the Queen.

—BEDEQUE RINK — Tonight, Monday, January 24th. First game in South Shore League. Albany St. Pats versus Lot 16 Rovers. Admission 25c and 35c. League meeting after game.

—PERFECT CRIBBAGE HAND — Mr. Hunter Weeks, Alberton, drew the perfect cribbage hand for the highest possible score of 29 to the Legion home at Alberton last Friday evening. Mr. Weeks, who was playing with Mr. Shirley Murphy, held three fives and the jack of hearts with the five of hearts turning up on the cut. Many persons who have played the game of crib for years have yet to see the perfect hand dealt and even 28 is considered unusual.

—HYMN-SING — The first of the Summerside Y's Men's Club sponsored hymn-sings took place last evening at Epworth Hall with a capacity crowd in attendance. The president of the club, W. J. James Murphy opened the program with a short speech of welcome to those present, saying that the Y's Men were investigating these community sing-songs in response to a demand for such a program from the young people of the town. He expressed the hope that all those attending the first one would continue to attend each week. Y's Jock Hopkirk led the singing with Y's Willard Hogg at the piano. The program consisted of hymns familiar to all as requested by the gathering, from song books purchased by the Y's Men especially for this purpose. At the close of the program, which was thoroughly enjoyed, it was announced that a hymn-sing would be held every Sunday evening at 8:30 p.m. at a different church, the next to be in the Baptist Church hall.

parents of Sam and Sally to become better informed about this "soft job" that teachers have. If the public could get even a partial picture of all that teaching entails, perhaps there would be more respect for a group of workers who give so much of themselves and get so few laurels in return. Incidentally, in this group of workers I do not include educational administrators; I speak only for the ordinary classroom teacher.

Some years ago—during what is really a ten weeks' lay-off, although it is jeeringly referred to as "the teachers' long summer vacation"—I worked in an office as statistical typist for two successive summers. Things which I experienced and observed in this world of business and industry convinced me that teaching is a soft job, there are plenty of jobs much softer.

Unaccustomed Luxury
First of all, I was amazed at the quality and abundance of working materials and office appointments in this world of different endeavour. I was unaccustomed to such convenience—nay, luxury—in my everyday working world. Mine was the experience of the poor cousin, wide-eyed and speechless at the affluence of a temporarily benevolent relative.

Supply cabinets, filing cabinets, mimeograph machines, typewriters—all provided a convenience which the regular office worker accepted casually. Office aids and appliances were granted unstintingly, and securing these supplies was not the major project that it is in school. Amid such a wealth of material, I thought wistfully of my fruitless effort to secure ink eradicator for my personal use and pens for my pupils' use; to maintain an ancient mimeograph machine in our English department; to obtain sufficient cabinet space for my teaching materials.

A Humble Petitioner
I remembered, too, how at the beginning of a certain semester I

ALBANY W. I.
—The January meeting of Pleasant Circle Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur MacKay. Ten members answered the roll call with articles for an auction sale to be held at the close of the meeting. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Sick committee reported treats sent to all sick and shut-in people of the district at Christmas. There was no report from the school committee excepting that treats were provided for the pupils at the Christmas closing exercises.

The black box committee reported four premium blankets received with their order, and the same were sold at this meeting. The Red Cross convener, Mrs. John Muttart, distributed a quantity of articles among the members to be finished before the next meeting. Bill for the school treat was paid.

Entertainers made for a crokinole party and tournament which is to be held at the home of Mrs. John MacKay, January 26th. Mrs. Alban Keough was appointed to procure the prizes, Mrs. Arthur MacKay and Mrs. Ellsworth Noonan to look after the financing.

The next meeting is to be held February 10th at the home of Mrs. Urvilla Large. Roll call to be answered with food for a Valentine box. Collection 95 cents. A lively auction followed when a number of articles were disposed of at fabulous prices. The hostess served a delicious lunch and meeting adjourned.

had spent my "free" period outside the office of the vice-principal, sitting in the lineup of "bad" students, waiting for a chance to convince him of my need for a new classbook. I succeeded on this occasion. The next year, however, when the same need arose, I bought myself a supply of classbooks rather than become a humble petitioner again.

Sitting now in this very different office on a July morning, I rocked back in a comfortable, cushioned swivel chair, breathing deeply, delighting in the privilege of an uninterrupted pause, thrilling to the sight of big, smooth, shiny desks, on which were double-decked trays of letters and invoices to be typed.

When I returned to school that fall, I bought myself a modest wooden tray that is still in service on the small, shabby, splintered desk which I share with another teacher. Pens for my pupils and ink eradicator for my clerical blunders, also purchased.

Teacher Or Clerk
A teacher's frequent use of ink eradicator is something about which the layman should know. Nowadays teachers do so much clerical work that teaching is sometimes an incidental thing. They do their clerical work under pressure at great inconvenience, and amid many distractions.

"This job must be done completely and accurately in two days," they are told at a faculty meeting. At the time they are already bogged down with all that is involved in the impending issuing of report cards. "We can't give you any more time because we need your part of the job in order to proceed with ours. Please don't come and ask for more time on this job; it's to be done in two days. And for Goodness' sake, be accurate! You have no idea how much work you cause us when you make errors."

Now the impossibility of the situation is that during these two days the teacher is expected to perform all her regular duties; that is, teach five classes (approximately 135 pupils), supervise a study hall (anywhere from 30 to 70 pupils), police halls and cafeteria, execute the duties involved in home room procedure, and coach any extra-curricular activity which she may sponsor. For all clerical jobs—and she goes from one to another—and for organizing her lessons and marking papers, she is given one period of free time from teaching and supervising pupils. Since even the administration recognizes that "free" period is a misnomer, it is called her "preparation" period.

Now where do this work is a problem: she has not many choices. Since all classrooms are in use, she must work in the smoke-filled teachers' room. This room is nothing more than a bare, ugly, noisy barn, off which leads the washroom. Or she may work in the student-filled library.

Tryon Baptist Church Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Tryon Baptist Church was held in the Church Hall on the evening of January 19th. This year the business meeting was preceded by a church supper. Dr. E. J. Barraes was appointed chairman. He opened the meeting with prayer, after which the minutes of the last annual meeting were read by the clerk.

The treasurer was able to bring in a good financial report for the year, which was very pleasing to the members. Reports from the various organizations of the church followed, showing progress made throughout the year. Prayer was offered by the pastor in memory of Mrs. William Muirhead and Deacon Bowley Leard who passed away during the year.

BEDEQUE NOTES

—Mr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell, Chelton, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waugh, Lower Bedeque, left on January 13, by motor, for Florida where they plan to spend five or six weeks. They expect to visit in others points of interest in the States before returning.

—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leard, Toronto, returned home on January 18, from Windsor, Ontario, where they were guests of their daughter, Mrs. Gerald Williams and Mr. Williams and family. During their month's visit they spent some time also in Cleveland, Ohio, with Mrs. Leard's sister, Mrs. Alvin Sudbury and other members of the family.

On Sunday evening, January 16, a special service was held in the Bedeque United Church, conducted by the Bedeque W. C. T. U. The male choir of the Church, augmented by several men from the Central Bedeque Baptist Church choir, and Mrs. Walter Craig, organist, sang several suitable hymns. The W. C. T. U. president, Mrs. Howard Schurman, presided. Mrs. Charles Henderson read the National Temperance examinations. Following this Miss Phyllis Britten delivered an interesting and informative address setting forth the objectives of the W. C. T. U. She hoped that the young folks would grow up to profit by the lessons they had learned about the evils of alcohol, and realize that total abstinence is the only safe stand to take. The meeting closed with the hymn "Rise up O Men of God" and the Benediction by the president.

Sport Echoes From Prince County

A Moncton announcer launched a verbal sortie at us for having dared to criticize the management of the Moncton Hawks. The main gist of his blast seemed to our remarks were unsigned, "like many such comments coming from the island." We have put quotes on that last, but the words may have been a little different. We can only say that our unsigned remarks have nothing to do with out courage (or the lack of it) to stand behind what we say, but merely a matter of editorial policy.

There is one advantage to anonymous opinions, however, and that is that the degree of wisdom is not colored by the personality of the one who gave them. Addition said in "Sir Roger De Coverley" that most of the common people (or his day, of course) were willing to believe anything said by a man whose income was in the higher brackets.

Attention — referee Power of the Atlantic Coast League: Might we respectfully ask you to thumb the pages of the rule book until you reach page 17. On that page you will find in rule 32 (A) words to this effect: "That when a goaler is penalized, minor, major or misconduct, he is not sent to the penalty bench, but a player who is, please note, on the ice when the offence was committed, be designated by the referee to serve the penalty for the goalkeeper. When Pidsodny drew a major Saturday night, Robinson who had not appeared in the game up to that time sat out the penalty.

Of course, with the score 7-1 against the Islanders at the time the mistake could not have changed the complexion of the game, but there is a certain advantage in letting the poorest or spare player sit out the goalee's penalty, especially in the case of misconduct, and that is why the rule has been changed.

Jack Frost has been showing a little more strength of character down here in Prince County of late, and there is hope that our Raceway Stadium can be got ready for some hockey in the near future. The Bedeque and Kensington rinks are starting off to night, and no doubt O'Leary and Alberton will not be far behind. It was encouraging to hear that the Borden Intermediates have decided to enter the Western League with O'Leary, Alberton and Summerside. Kensington is also planning on icing an intermediate "B" club, if the caliber of their players warrant it, so there should be some red-hot competition in that bracket before spring.

Word has been received in Summerside from president MacDoughall of the M.A.H.A. that the minor hockey groups have not been granted an extension for registration as yet. He said he thought the extension had gone through for intermediate "B" but not sure of even that. It would seem, under the present circumstances, where mild weather has kept the boys off natural ice rinks, that the only sensible and logical thing to do would be to grant extensions in all those divisions.

ROBERT TAYLOR, KNIGHTS OF THE ROUND TABLE, CAPITOL

In "Knights of the Round Table," starring Robert Taylor, Ava Gardner and Mel Ferrer, M-G-M has chosen a narrative of romance, heroism, magnificent spectacle and panoramic splendor for its first offering in the screen's new CinemaScope medium.

Enhanced by the realism and striking effects of stereophonic sound, the story of King Arthur and the gallant knights who aid him in freeing England from the feudal lordship of the 6th century emerges on the Capitol screen as a drama of fiery action and impassioned love. It fulfills in every detail the promise of CinemaScope's miracles in the scope and color of its eye-filling battle scenes with the clash of armored men in the pageantry and panoply of the court of Camelot. In the expansive settings of the middle ages peopled by thousands of extras.

Judge Darby Named Judge Of Juvenile Court

The appointment of Judge W.E. Darby as Judge of the Juvenile Court for Prince County was announced over the weekend.

A number of juvenile cases which awaited the appointment of a judge of this court will be heard within a few weeks by Judge Darby who, in early December, was appointed Judge of the County Court of Prince.

Previous to his appointment Judge Darby had served as attorney-general and provincial treasurer in the Provincial Government since the autumn of 1949.

In his two recent judgeship appointments Judge Darby fills the vacancies resulting from the passing of the late Judge L. G. Lewis.

Finds Starling In Unused Stove

While ironing in her kitchen last Tuesday morning Mrs. Ivan Dickieson of Darnley heard a peculiar noise in the kitchen stove-pipe.

Approaching the stove she began tapping very gently on the pipe only to receive a scratching, clanging sound in reply.

A few hours later when her husband came in to dinner Mrs. Dickieson told him she had heard a bird in the stove pipe during the morning. When he replied "keep that one strictly for the birds," the subject was quickly dropped.

Three days later Mrs. Dickieson's attention was again attracted to a scratching, clanging sound in a stove which was unused but which stood in a room adjoining the kitchen, and which had a stove pipe leading into the same chimney as the kitchen stove.

Upon opening the door of the stove, Mrs. Dickieson was met by a very frightened starling which took hasty flight across the room.

Mrs. Dickieson didn't try to catch the bird but called to her husband to come in and take it out. Apparently the bird had entered the chimney three days previously, and finding the kitchen stove too hot to linger around, went back up and across into the other pipe and down into the stove.

When last seen the bird was flying happily away.
