Baptist Church Scene Of Lovely Autumn Wedding

Beautifully arranged baskets of red and white gladioli formed the setting in the Charlottetown Baptist Church on Saturday afternoon September 21st, when Glenda Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown was united in marriage to John Elmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley MacLean, Richmond.

portrait gown of white Chinchilla lace and nylon net over taffeta, styled with fitted bodice and long sleeves tapered to points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of nylon net was held in place by a crescent-shaped headdress. She carried a cascade of red sweetheart roses with white streamers.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Gloria Brown. She wore a ballerina length gown of ice blue net over taffeta with matching bolero, headdress, and mits. She carried a nosegay of pink and blue asters with pink and blue streamers.

Mr. Willis MacLean, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. Eric Miller, brother-in-law of the groom, and Mr. Fred Brown, brother of the bride, were the ushers.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a turquoise viscose acetate dress with pink accessories. Her corsage was pink asters. The groom's mother wore a blue crepe dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink asters.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Queen Hotel for seventy guests. Bouquets of red and white gladioli decorated the tables. The head table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. The Grace was said by Rev. H. L. Mitton, Rev. A. J. MacDonald proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom fittingly responded.

A telegram from the groom's sister in Gander, Newfoundland, was read by the best man, Miss Bertha MacLean, Miss Marie Nunn, and Mrs. Melvin Stetson, girl friends of the bride assisted in serving. Miss Corina Steele was in charge of the guest book.

Later the happy couple left on their honeymoon to points of interest in the Maritimes. For travelling the bride donned a suit of aqua wool with white fleck and black accessories. Her corsage was white carnations.

DR. AND MRS. J. M. CAIRNS

Island Couple Wed In Halifax, N. S.

A lovely wedding of interest to many friends throughout the Maritimes, took place in St. Thomas Aquinas Church at 9 o'clock when Elizabeth Muriel MacDonald, R.N., daughter of Mrs. R. J. MacDonald, Charlottetown, became the bride of Dr. Joseph M. Cairns, son of Mrs. W. Cairns, Greenfield, Prince Edward Island.

Reverend J. Delouchy officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Miss Constance Inglis was organist and Miss Norma Marriott, soloist. The altar was decorated with white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Andrew MacLean, New Glasgow, the bride was charming in a model gown of ivory satin, the fitted bodice fashioned with a Sabrina neckline outlined with seed pearls. The full skirt, fashioned with unpressed pleats at the hipline, was floor-length. Her fingertip veil fell from a tiara studded with pearls and she carried a cascade of red roses and stephanotis.

The maid of honor, Miss Hazel MacDonald, sister of the bride, wore a waist-length gown of sea-green crystalite, princess-style with short sleeves and matching mits. Her headdress was a band of pale yellow feathers and she carried a bouquet of yellow 'mums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Eileen Burgoyne, R.N., and Miss Loraine MacDonald, R.N., wore identically styled waist-length gowns of chiffon over satin in pink and turquoise respectively.

The gowns featured fitted, shirred bodices and short sleeves, with floating panels to the hemlines in the back. They wore feather bandeaus and shoes to match their gowns and carried bouquets of tinted carnations.

Dr. William Condy was best man and the ushers were Dr. Rae Webster and Sidney Koppel, brother-in-law of the groom from New Haven, Connecticut.

A reception was held in the Lord Nelson Hotel, where the bride's mother received, wearing a street-length dress of wood-wood blue lace over satin, a velvet hat of the same shade and a silver muskrat stole. Her corsage was of red roses.

The groom's mother wore a two-piece dress of navy blue taffeta, matching hat and shoes and a brown squirrel neckpiece. She also wore a corsage of red roses.

Father Delouchy proposed the toast to the bride in which he paid her a fitting tribute and Dr. Cairns responded in eloquent words.

For travelling the bride wore an early autumn costume of rust wool with three quarter length sleeves, fitted bodice and a full skirt. Her hat and accessories were avocado green, she also wore a brown muskrat neck-piece and corsage of orange-de-light roses.

After a pleasant trip over the Cabot Trail and other places of historic interest, they spent some time at their respective homes on P.E.I.

Top Costume

Mr. John, one of our most fashionable milliners, has decided to give the younger set a break with some fascinating hats that will give full costumes that much added fling.

This is one that is certainly the perfect complement to a new outfit. It is a breton with a interesting silhouette made of tulle an tall brushed beaver and the hat is trimmed around the outer brim in royal blue satin. A matching royal blue satin bow adds a pecky look.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Familiar Farm Sounds Are Quickly Disappearing

We said stopping a moment on the back verandah this morning to watch the miracle of a new sunlight washing into the valley, brightening the season's shades of tree in hedgerow and woodland. "This is the right day!" And James, boots damp from brushes with the dewfall, coming in then to breakfast from first choring smiled. "It is good isn't it, Ellen?" Calm, hushed and so peaceful it promised the farmers a choice one of October's gift of days.

"I believe we're going to have an open Fall," a farmer-visitor to the yard offered later. "See how the trees hold their leaves — and it so late in the year! That's a sign, or so the old folks used to say. And to bear it out, we've had no frost yet."

"But we have!" we said ruefully, indicating a row of dahlias against a wall, blossoms hanging listless, foliage darkened. "It came at weekend."

"No!" he replied with some surprise. "Well, I saw the wife pick a bouquet off ours this morning — she never had them so good as this year. They were lovely. That's what you get!" he chuckled "for settling here by the millstream!"

His wife was a mirror today, showing as in a looking-glass, reflected scenes about, edged on one side by the last green of alders. And on it, crimson leaves and golden sailed, as we are borne, it came to mind, along and away on the quiet ripples of Time.

With so many once-familiar sounds of the farming, disappearing in recent years, having been replaced by others so bewildering to us we sometimes have to appeal to the children to place them ("Is that a passing car, or truck we're hearing? Or a plane? Or tractor? Or is it the grain-crusher grinding? Or the pump pumping or with a grin "is it one of the stabled herd-sires drinking?") It was strangely satisfying for us to hear today the creak of the farmland, versatile vehicle of once on farms, as it came to the yard and left its burden of mangels in this cellar. This comfortable feeling stems perhaps from those years when we grew a nice acreage of potatoes as a major one of our (modest) cash-crops, and each load drawn in, every beat of the horses' hoofs meant a commen-

Couple Honored Before Leaving

Fifty friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Humphrey on Friday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Parmenas Phillips, who, having retired from farming, leave their home near Kensington during this week, to live in Summerside, they will make their home with their niece Evelyn, Mrs. Ernest Morrison Jr. and her small son, James.

Main feature of the evening was the presentation of a gift on behalf of those present. Austin Pendergast was the capable chairman; a sheaf of gladioli was presented to Mrs. Phillips by Mrs. Thomas Turner; an address expressing personal appreciation for the Phillips', and regret for the departure was read by George Clark, a gift of money was presented by Mrs. Orville Clark; and appropriate remarks

"Not always? Naturally not, with the fluctuations of market which attend that husbandry. At the same time, as we recall it, there was no prettier sight of crop gathered, than to see a cellar "bustle" out with tubers, clean and sound and stored from round to the far corners as we often said "as level as the floor."

"You don't keep much in your cellar now!" Granddaughter commented when we came there this afternoon to see the work then in progress — farm-cart being unloaded horse's ears al-
