ROMAN CROWNS.
Seven Kings Are Distributed as Rewards
The Romans had various kinds of crowns, which they distributed as rewards for martial exploits and extraordinary services on behalf of the republic, says a writer in Chambers' Journal.

1 The Oval crown, made of myrtle, and bestowed on generals who were entitled to the honors of the "lesser triumph," called ovula.
2 The oval or rostral crown, composed of a circle of gold with ornaments representing "beaks" of ships, and given to the captain who first grappled or the soldier who first boarded an enemy's ship.
3 The crown known in Latin as "Valeris Castrensis," a circle of gold raised with jewels or pearls, the reward of the general who first forced the enemy's intrenchments.

4 The crown known in Latin as "Valeris Castrensis," a circle of gold raised with jewels or pearls, the reward of the general who first forced the enemy's intrenchments.
5 The civic crown, a circle of gold interlaced and embattled, given to the warrior who first mounted the wall of a besieged place and successfully lodged a standard or flag thereon.
6 The triumphal crown, consisting of first wreaths of laurel, but afterward made of gold—the reward of such generals as had the good fortune to be successful in battle.

7 The crown called "Obdionalis," or "Graminea," made of the "common grass" found growing on the scene of action, and bestowed only for the deliverance of an army when reduced to the last extremity. This was esteemed the highest military reward among the Romans.
8 The crown of oak leaves, bestowed upon the Roman soldier who had saved the life of a citizen.

THE LUNCHEON BASKET.
Suggestions for Appetizing Things to Take Along on a Picnic.

In addition to sandwiches—always "de luxe" in the picnic basket—"in-chow" lobster or crab can be made most appetizing. Fried crabs, for instance, are easily compounded and very delicious.

Remove the meat from four dozen boiled crabs and chop it fine. Put in a saucepan the crab meat, one onion, one ounce of butter, one dozen chopped mushrooms, chopped parsley, four ounces of bread crumbs, which have been soaked in consommé and then pressed nearly dry, pepper, salt, cayenne and half a gill of tomato sauce. Mix well and cook five minutes. Wash the shells and fill them with the mixture; cover with bread crumbs and add a bit of butter—then bake until brown.

For deviled crabs, put a tablespoonful of mustard with the meat and a thin layer of mustard on top of each crab before covering with the bread crumbs. As to sandwiches, their name and variety are legion. Only let the bread be thin and evenly buttered with the sweetest and freshest product of the dairy, and the meat, whether beef, ham, tongue or chicken, chopped fine and well seasoned and your sandwiches are toothsome and, of course, a success. Cool, crisp lettuce leaves are always an addition to sandwiches.

Among savories suitable for an al fresco luncheon are anchovy omelets. Heat out sautéed anchovies, grate, wash and bone one dozen anchovies, inclose each in the paste, season and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and bake in a quick oven.

Cheese biscuits, another savory, require one-quarter of a pound of flour, the same of butter and Parmesan cheese, grate, add cayenne and salt. Work this together with the hand and then roll it out until quite thin. Cut into biscuits and bake in the oven. Still another savory—roulets of omelette. Cut some slices of bread one-half inch thick and place from the center so a hollow is formed, fry the piece of bread a golden brown and then fill with omelette, seasoned with lemon juice, butter and pepper. These must be browned in the oven, when they are ready to serve.

A very nice omelette of salmon may be made by frying some nice pieces of salmon in boiling oil and then setting them aside to get cold. Then some aspic jelly into pieces to match the salmon, garnish with chopped aspic and serve on lettuce leaves. To be eaten with cheese straws and olives or an aspic of fole grass.

The ascot tartlet is a delicacy which is seldom absent from the English luncheon basket, whether the party is bound for the race, the hunt or the river. It is made with half a pound each of graded corn and white sugar, a quarter of a pound of ground sweet almonds, one ounce of powdered sugar and a little cinnamon mixed to a paste with white of egg. Line some little pans with puff paste and fill each one with the mixture; then bake in a quick oven.

Coffee soufflé, in small cases, is another luncheon. Boil one quart of milk, put in half a pound of coffee, which has been freshly roasted and ground, and let it steep for an hour. Then strain it and make the soufflé paste, by putting the milk in a saucepan with five ounces of flour, three ounces of sugar and a small pinch of salt. Mix this well and put it on the fire till it boils, stirring constantly with a wooden spoon, till smooth. Break five eggs, beating whites and yolks separately and very stiff and then add to the batter (which must be quite stiff), stirring very lightly. Fill some paper cases with this soufflé and bake in the oven; afterward sprinkling fine sugar over each.

Babas and savarins, iced tea or coffee and claret cup may very well find a place in the luncheon basket, taking it for granted that the basket or hamper itself is a modern one fitted up with "all the conveniences of home," including a small ice box. Fruit beverages are most delightful drinks for hot weather and are easily made, for they are but mixtures of different fruit juices, having the desired one predominant.

Strawberry or raspberry sherbet is easily made as follows: Mix with a pint of fresh strawberry juice one-half cup of orange juice, one-quarter cup of lemon juice, one-quarter cup of sherry and some pineapple juice. Sweeten to taste and let it stand for two hours, if possible, then mix with one quart of ice water.—Kansas City Star.

Comforting Thoughts.
Christian brother, is the way dark and rugged? Have you lost heart and hope because of the disappointments and sorrows that like poisoned arrows wound and distress you? Remember that He who gave His life for you to free you from the bondage of sin and to make you free from the bondage of sin, will give you the strength to overcome sin and to live in His love.

Followers of Buddha.
The greatest doctrine was Buddha, "The light of Asia," "The Indian Christ." So powerful was the influence of this remarkable character over the human race that to-day it is nearly Buddha's followers number 400,000,000.

Advise to Young Men.
Never indulge in the notion that you have any absolute right to choose the sphere or the circumstances in which you are to put forth your powers of social action, but let your daily wisdom of life be in making a good use of the opportunities given you.

The nobility of life is work. We live in a working world. The idle and lazy man does not count in the plan of campaign. My father worked his hither and I work. Let that text be enough.

Avoid miscellaneous reading. Read nothing that you do not care to remember, and remember nothing you do not mean to use.

Never desire to appear clever and make a parade of your talents before men. Be honest, loving, kindly and sympathetic in all you say and do. Give more of your flow from you naturally if you have it; and applause will come to you unsought from those who know what to applaud, but the applause of fools is to be shunned.—Prof. J. Stuart Blackie.

Of the gold coins now in circulation in England, a small proportion only bear an earlier date than 1870.

Kind Words from the Fred Victor Mission
On behalf of the Fred Victor Mission Bible Class I wish to express our gratitude to you for the box of Chase's Ointment which you supplied in aid of our charitable work to the infant child of Mrs. Brownrigg, 123 River Street. Ten days ago the child was awfully afflicted with "red head," the face being literally one seal from forehead to chin, and in that brief time a complete cure has been effected. Surely your gift was worth more than its weight in gold.

Boils
It is often difficult to convince people their blood is impure, until dreadful carbuncles, abscesses, boils, scrofula or salt rheum, are painful proof of the fact. It is wisdom now, or when ever there is any indication of blood, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and prevent such eruptions and suffering.

"I had a dreadful carbuncle abscess, red, fiery, fierce and sore. The doctor attended me over seven weeks. When the abscess broke, the pains were terrible, and I thought I should not live through it. I heard and read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I decided to take it, and we regard it a wonderful medicine." Mrs. ANNA PETERSON, Latimer, Kansas.
