DISASTROUS FIRE.—A despatch of the 25th from Quebec says: The details of the fire in Somerset state the total loss at $300,000. One hundred and forty-four buildings were destroyed in three hours, most of them uninsured. The destruction among the people whose homes are destroyed is said to be appalling.

MR. MICHAEL TRAINOR, who has been book-keeper with F. L. Newbery, Esq., left this morning to make a new home on the Pacific Slope. He brings with him first-class testimonials from his employers. HEAVY SEIZURE.—The Customs Officials at Montreal have made a seizure of $50,000 worth of patent medicine, imported and entered there, it is alleged, under value at the place of shipment, by J. C. Ayer & Co. of Lowell, Mass. Part is for forwarding to St. John, and Halifax, as well as a large portion to remain here. More extensive seizures are stated to be on the tapis.

INQUISITIVE DOGS.—Two dogs belonging to James Smith, Sandy Point Road, attacked a porcupine yesterday morning, and judging by the appearance of the physiognomies a few minutes later, they must have come off second best. One of the animals, a collie, submitted to having the quills drawn by his master, but the other, a huge Newfoundland, had to be chloroformed by Dr. D. Frink before he would submit to treatment. They will scarcely indulge in any more "forkentime" hunting.—St John Globe, May 27th.

Sudden Death of Mr. F. Swabey, of Axminster.

From the Devon and Exeter (Eng.) Gazette, May 18.

Mr. Frederick Swabey, of Coryton Park, Kilminster, near Axminster, died suddenly under very sad circumstances on Monday afternoon. On Monday morning the deceased gentleman was at Axminster, and later on went to Cricket St. Thomas, the seat of Lord Bridport. He was apparently in his usual health. Having lunched with Lord Bridport and the Hon. A. Wood, he got into a pony and trap with his groom to drive home to his residence. Before they reached the lodge gates Mr. Swabey took out his watch, and suddenly fell back in the trap, and in a few minutes he died. Dr. Spicer, of Chard, was sent for, but on his arrival life was extinct; and, judging from the symptoms, it appeared that Mr. Swabey had died from heart disease. The body was subsequently conveyed back to Coryton Park, in Lord Bridport's carriage.

The above announcement will be received with great regret by a large circle of the deceased gentleman's friends, and rich and poor alike in Kilminster and Axminster and neighborhood will mourn his loss. Mr. Swabey had resided at Coryton Park for about sixteen years, a great part of his life previous to that date having been spent in Canada. He was 56 years of age. He leaves a widow and daughter. The latter, it will be remembered, was the subject of a painting by Sante, which was exhibited in the Royal Academy a few years since. The Rev. M. Swabey, Vicar of St. Thomas, Exeter, is a brother of the deceased. Mr. F. Swabey was a staunch Conservative and Churchman, a keen sportsman, and a liberal supporter of every good and philanthropic object in the district. He took a prominent part in the institution of the Conservative Club for Axminster, and rendered valuable service as the first Vice-Chairman of the Axminster Polling District Conservative Association. Mr. Swabey was a member of the Board of Conservators for the River Axe. One of his favorite pastimes was fishing, and he owned a great deal of the rod and line and net fishing in the Axe, Yarty, and the Cory. Notwithstanding his acute suffering from rheumatism, Mr. Swabey was always foremost in pheasant shooting, and was recognized as a splendid shot. Axminster Cricket Club has lost a warm friend and supporter, as Mr. Swabey was ever ready with purse and influence to help this club. To a large extent the athletic sports at Axminster were promoted by the deceased gentleman, and only recently he expressed his regret that these sports had not been held this year. Coryton Park was frequently made the meeting-place of the followers of the Cotleigh Otter hounds, and on these occasions the host's hospitality knew no bounds. Mr. Swabey was ever anxious to promote the welfare of the agricultural community, and was the esteemed President of the Axminster, Kilminster, and Mombury Ploughing Associations. It was only on Tuesday morning that a letter appeared in these columns, written on Monday from Mr. Swabey on Russian Duplicity.

POUNDMAKER'S SURRENDER

A Memorable Scene.

Poundmaker, Two Chiefs, and Two Murderers sent to Confinement.

The Tribe sent back to their Reserve.

The Uprising at an End!

BATTLEFORD, May 28. Poundmaker surrendered on Tuesday last. The scene was a memorable one.

At eight o'clock in the morning, a train of wagons, numbering sixty-seven vehicles arrived with one hundred and fifty half-breeds who joined them just west of the barracks and laid down their arms. At 11 o'clock an Indian rider in full war paint dashed in saying that Poundmaker would arrive within an hour to surrender with all his councillors. Promptly on time Poundmaker arrived with the captured wagon train, some stock and wagons loaded with repeaters, shot guns and a few flint lock guns, numbering in all 210. General Middleton then held a big pow-wow which lasted three hours.

Poundmaker blamed Riel for inciting the Indians to rise, and said he came in to let the General kill him, so as to save his people. Several chiefs followed, all blaming Riel for misleading them. A brilliant scene occurred during the pow-wow, when General Middleton asked who killed Tremont and Payne. One young brave rose from the circle, knelt at Gen. Middleton's feet, saying the great chief could cut him in pieces, as he killed Payne. He said he did not want all punished for his offence. Then another acknowledged that he had shot Tremont. At the conclusion of the pow-wow, General Middleton ordered the chiefs Poundmaker, Break Through the Ice, and Yellow Mud Blanket, and the two murderers to confinement. The remainder were sent back to the reserve. Several braves were arrested for participating in a fight at Cut Knife Creek. The remainder of Poundmaker's party are expected to-morrow. They evidently brought least valuable of their arms in to-day, and young braves are believed to have all the best rifles. It is thought they will break into small parties and escape to the United States.

Big Bear is said to be only thirty miles from here. He is coming to surrender. It is thought the uprising is virtually at an end.

The summer will be spent in disarming the Indians and trying the half-breeds. The settlers say they will not venture back to their farms until the Indians are put where they can do no harm.

If Big Bear does not surrender immediately, General Middleton will attack him. After that he will return home with most of the troops.

The Scott Act Amendment Carried in the Senate

OTTAWA, May 28. The Senate passed the third reading of the Bill amending the Scott Act, including beer and light wines. It was passed by a majority of eleven. There is a strong feeling in the House of Commons that the Scott Act as it stood, should have a fair and full trial.

Probably the Senate amendment will not be agreed to.
