In the Bedeque United Church at 10.30 a.m. July 5, Frances Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Craig, Middleton, P.E.I. exchanged marriage vows with James Cook Howatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howatt, Carleton Siding. Rev. G.A. Cowper-Smith performed the double ring ceremony. The church was beautifully decorated by friends of the bride. The wedding music was led by the choir with Dr. Peter MacDonald as organist.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Colin Craig, Mrs. Richard Sheridan, Vancouver, B.C. Mrs. John Craig, Jackie and Florence Craig, Miss Sandra Martin, New York, U.S.A., Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bell, Amherst, N. S. Mr. and Mrs. J. Bonnell, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Corbett, Halifax, N.S.

The new couple have taken up residence in Carleton Siding. The bride will be teaching in Borden, while the groom is employed on the C.N.R. Car Ferry, Borden.

Prior to her marriage the staff of Air Marshall Johnson School where the bride was formerly employed, entertained for her at a miscellaneous shower held at Miss Mary Gamble's, Summerside. At the bride's home, the community and other friends gathered for a large miscellaneous shower. A host of lovely and useful gifts were received on both occasions.

After Mr. and Mrs. Howatt returned from their honeymoon a shower was held in the auditorium of Carleton Siding School where again they received many lovely gifts.

Mr. Windsor Campbell of St. Eleanors, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man. Messrs. Bill Craig, brother of the bride, and Dean Bell of Amherst, N.S. brother-in-law of the groom, were ushers.

During the ceremony the choir sang the hymn, "O God of Bethel" and during the signing of the register, Mr. Gordon MacCallum, uncle of the bride, sang a wedding hymn "Happy are they, they that love God".

Mrs. Craig chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of rose lace over taffeta with pink accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart rosebuds. The groom's mother wore a printed blue taffeta dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart rosebuds. Mrs. Colin Craig grand mother of the bride, wore a mauve suit with pink accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The Young Women's Auxiliary of the church provided a decorative and delicious meal for the reception which was held in the church hall for approximately ninety guests. Piano music was furnished by Dr. MacDonald.

Rev. G.A. Cowper-Smith proposed the toast to the bride, to which the bridegroom responded. Mr. Campbell, best man, read the telegrams received. Mrs. J. Bonnell, Halifax, N.S. cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

After the reception the guests were invited to the bride's home to see the many beautiful gifts and to bid the happy couple adieu, as they left midst a shower of confetti for a honeymoon trip to the Cabot Trail and points in Nova Scotia. Before leaving the bride donned a blue and pink printed dress with matching blue duster, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

MARY HAWORTH

Matron Defends Europe Loreleis Everywhere

Dear Mary Haworth—I would like to pay tribute to P. Y., your correspondent of July 21, who almost lost her husband to a German girl—and now wonders if American concepts of "love" are realistic. I admire the direct sensible way in which she saved her marriage.

A woman with such a clean-cut attitude towards the problems of life will, I am sure, be able to translate her unfortunate experience into a gain that will make her marriage stronger, because of the obstacles conquered.

Yet I cannot help but find her generalizations about European women somewhat immature—"they set out to dazzle a man with their desire to possess him," etc. I am a European woman who has lived in various European countries and, as a student of human nature, I feel that her judgment is based largely on ignorance of European sentiments.

Every country has its Loreleis and Don Juans. I could give her quite an impressive gallery of such characters I have met in America. But you can't judge the entire population of a continent by the standards of such people. NOT PERFECT HERE

When I came to America, 10 years ago, I, too, found some of the man-woman behavior strange and at times shocking, according to the standards I was used to. Yet I didn't rashly conclude that the whole nation was morally depraved.

European gentleness in their social life are guided by very definite ethical standards and deeply rooted traditions, establishing boundaries that aren't trespassed by honorable persons. This makes it easy for them to know their own kind.

As P. Y.'s well founded bitterness subsides, it may help her to look more mercifully upon the loser in her marital tangle, if she bears in mind that during the Nazi regime in Germany, young Nazis were taught to disregard commonly respected sex standards; and no doubt some unfortunate girls are still marked by this influence today. But please don't judge the entire European continent by Nazistic standards; it just isn't fair! S. S. CHARGES UNJUSTIFIED

Dear Mary Haworth—I can understand that P. Y. would react in a highly emotional fashion to the danger of having her marriage broken up, and losing the husband she loves—due, as she puts it, to the "irresponsible attitude of another woman." This could make any wife bitter.

However, to lash out against all European women because of it, and to make such sweeping and unflattering generalizations, as she does, about them—I think this is highly irresponsible, too. It definitely doesn't help international relations.

I am a European woman myself, now married to an American man and settled here. And I resent P. Y.'s insinuation that I "fell all over him" in my desperate desire to "possess him physically."

I happen to believe that the man-woman or boy-girl relationship in my native land is as good, as healthy and as mature as any in the world. True, we don't have the fast cars, the sexy advertisements, and the Hollywood version of "love" to purify our romancing—but if you think the United States has a monopoly on clean comradeship association between boy and girl, I have news for you.

Young people in my former country have plenty of good fun skiing, hiking, biking or belonging to clubs together. And they don't share these activities just to show off their bodies to the other sex.

Black sheep appear in any country and at any time. Let's not make one such sheep look like a whole herd. F. F.

Dear Ladies—I am sure that P. Y. will think kindly of your largeness of heart, in making sympathetic allowance for her "disillusioned" estimate of European women. I feel sure, too, that she and other readers will appreciate this supplementary report on female ethics, in European society.

Your testimony poses the question: Can it be that the "good" young American man, when on his own in a far country, takes a vacation from mental discipline, and by the uncensored quality of his day dreaming, attracts to himself a brand of companionship that wouldn't enter his life in accustomed surroundings?

It is through the unguarded door of the imagination that evil gains dominance of human personality. M. H.
