A New Flavor Booster Extends The Use Of Coffee

By Ida Bailey Allen

While homemakers in this country have been fretting over the high cost of coffee, homemakers in Europe had the solution long ago. They knew how to make good coffee with only a rounded tablespoon of medium grind per cup.

NOT CHICORY

Of course, chicory has been used in some countries, including our own, to stretch the use of coffee. But this "solution" is different. It comes from Holland, where it has been in use since 1867. It is now packaged in this country by an American firm, is fast going on sale in food stores throughout the country, and he already won wide use on airlines and institutions.

"But what is it?" you ask. Merely a perfectly balanced combination of caramelized starch (which gives color, and adds flavor without sweetness), with calcium phosphate which is an organic mineral combination, a natural ingredient in many foods. This combination has the happy faculty of boosting natural coffee flavor.

ADD TO COFFEE

Just thoroughly mix one rounded tablespoon (one one-fifth ounce) of this coffee flavor amplifier with one pound or medium grind coffee. Make as usual—but use only half the usual amount of coffee!

It works equally well with powdered instant coffee. In making this test, we added one-sixteenth teaspoonful of a grain of the flavor amplifier with one-half teaspoonful of instant coffee, to one coffee cup or 6 ounces of boiling water.

MONDAY DINNER

Cream of Corn Soup
Chicken-Stuffed Squash
Broccoli
Deviled Tomato Salads
Pineapple Gel
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea
Chicken-Stuffed Squash
Broccoli

Place in a b. king pan; pour water, or meat stock to the depth of 1/2 in. Bake 25 min. in a moderate oven, 350-375 degrees F., until fork-tender. Serve 1 to a person. Garnish with mushroom Danish sauce and parsley.

Pineapple Gel: Add 1 1/2 envelopes unflavored gelatin to 1/2 cup cold water. Let stand 3 min. Meantime, bring 1 c. need pineapple juice to a boil. Add the gelatin; stir until dissolved. Then add 1/2 lbs lemon juice and 1 c. additional unheated pineapple juice. Taste, and add sugar, if necessary.

Transfer to custard cups. Refrigerate until firm, about 4 hrs. Unmold and serve plain; with a topping of whipped cream; or with a sauce of stewed, sweetened red plum, stoned cherries, or blueberries.

The Chef's Tomato Salads

For each person, put 2 slices tomato together with a thin spreading of deviled ham blended with a little table mustard. Top each with mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

DeLory-MacInnis Wedding At St. Mary's Basilica in Halifax

A pretty summer wedding was solemnized Saturday morning, August 13 in St. Mary's Basilica, Halifax, N. S., when Rev. Gregory DeLory, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. Cullen DeLory and Thomas Murphy.

The mother of the bride wore a navy ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The mother of the groom wore an amethyst dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a traditional wedding gown of white satin with a fingertip veil of nylon tulle held in place by a pearl studded Juliet cap. She carried a cascade of white orchids and bouvardia.

The attendants were Mrs. Donald Hatchette, matron of honour, and Miss Sheila DeLory sister of the groom, as bridesmaids. The bridesmaids wore a corsage of white orchids.

The couple will reside in Souris, P. E. I., where Dr. DeLory has set up practice.

ELLEN'S DIARY

By An Island Farmer's Wife

At Alderlea today there was a settling-up of the affairs of the week. It of all the summer weeks home.

We saw him later draw a bit of change from his pocket, together with a crumpled bill or two and lay it soberly on the mantel. We saw Jamie take out his store after an absence of days in a new experience for him and much enjoying the novelty of it, he chose to remain with his charges, spending his nights close by them in the stable in a high but lowly bed of straw. He returned obviously somewhat jaded from the changed way of living but altogether pleased with the outing.

Indeed, none of the family had lagged in the matter of attendance. And for the children, the spun sugar and popcorn, the thrilling rides and what not that goes to make Fair days a fine memory of the golden childhood years.

"Well," James chuckled, "do you know what we'll have to do now? We'll have to get back to our farming!"

And presently Jamie was away home to the bridge-building now in progress in the lane of that place in the road, and James was off with Granddaughter and Mack into the fields. The farming had again come into its own. The family was home.

The Fair had been enjoyable, educational, good . . . but home! How satisfying are these places "where the hearts are," here and on farms Island—over to which we return.

Right here at home . . . 'jes' "Right here at home . . . 'jes' Birds don't sing any sweeter anywhere: Grass don't grow any greener's she grows Across the pasture where the old path goes— All things in ear-shot's purty, or in sight, Right here at home . . . of we SIZE 'em right." — Monday - Diary - Good-night.

Crockett and will take his final year at the University of North Carolina. (Photo by Garnum)

The Kirk of St. James was the scene of a pretty summer wedding on Saturday afternoon, August 20 when Marion Johanna Macdonald daughter of Mrs. John S. Macdonald and the late Mr. Macdonald was united in marriage to Garth Carson Crockett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Crockett, of Charlottetown. The minister, Rev. T. H. B. Somers officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. Gordon White was organist, and Miss Marjorie Hurd as guest soloist sang "The Lord's Prayer". Baskets of gladioli adorned the chancel and the guest pews were marked with tiny nosegays and white satin ribbons.

As the organist played the Lohengrin Wedding March, the bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. A. R. Gillis, who gave her in marriage. She chose as her wedding gown a waltz-length strapless gown of white lace and nylon tulle with matching jacket. Her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion fell gracefully from a Juliette cap of lace with sequins and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli with long white streamers.

The bride was attended by her sister Miss Jean-Isabel Macdonald as maid of honor and her younger sister Miss Katherine Macdonald as bridesmaid. Jean-Isabel wore a waltz-length gown of blue nylon and organza with matching jacket and head-band. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations. Katherine wore yellow nylon and organza with matching jacket and head-band and carried a nosegay of mauve asters.

Mr. H. Douglas Pierce was best man and the ushers were Mr. William H. Soper and Mr. E. L. Douglas. The bride's mother wore a two-piece dress of Caribbean blue tulle with large velvet hat to match her corsage was of pink roses. The groom's mother wore a gown of black and silver six taretta with black and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Kirk of St. James. The toast was proposed by Rev. T. H. B. Somers. The bride and groom motored to Cavendish before leaving Sunday for Chapel Hill, N. C. where the groom will complete his final year at the University of North Carolina. For travelling the bride chose a gray suit with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Out-of-town guests present at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Medforth, Halifax, N. S.; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. MacMillan and son Allison, Sydney, N. S.; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Banks, St. John, N. B.; Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Pilon, Montreal, P. Q.; Miss Marjorie Hill, Montreal; Miss Marjorie Hurd and Miss Joan Marie MacGuire, Halifax, N. S.; Mrs. E. L. Thorne, Halifax, N. S.; F. O. H. Douglas, Montreal, P. Q.; Mr. and Mrs. Russell M. Crockett, Summerside; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. MacKenzie, Pinetree; Miss Barbara Beck, Montague.

Predicts Will Have 17 Children; Has 14

Moline, Ill. (AP)—On their wedding day Leo Carey spread the word around that he and his bride would have 17 children.

"I thought it was a joke," Mrs. Carey, now 44, said Thursday. Her new baby, Frances Elaine, three weeks old, convinced her it wasn't. Frances Elaine is their 14th child.

Carey, 47, who works two jobs for a total of 96 hours a week to support his family, said he is ready to abandon his goal. "We've got enough now," he said.

The Careys live in a five-room house and plan to add another room. Carey is short of time to work on the project. He is a carpenter by day and a factory hand by night.

Four of the children are married and have a total of nine children. The others besides Frances Elaine range in age from 4 to 25.
