New Role Is Proposed For RCAF Auxiliary

OTTAWA (CP)—A new role for the RCAF auxiliary in peace and war has been proposed to the government by a commission appointed by Associate Defence Minister Cardin.

The commission, headed by retired Group Capt. J. W. P. Draper of Toronto, suggested the most effective role for the auxiliary is that of army air support.

"This would provide mobility and tactical and logistic support to the Canadian army units or militia brigades in a training function in Canada during peacetime, or in full military service anywhere in the world as required by the (defence) minister," it said.

The report of the RCAF auxiliary commission was made public Tuesday by Mr. Cardin along with one by a Royal Canadian Naval reserve commission which opposed any further reduction in naval reserve strength. The commissions were appointed after Defence Minister Hellyer announced plans last year to reduce the strength of reserve forces.

The RCAF auxiliary commission proposed five roles for the auxiliary as an army air support unit:

Movement of small fighting or specialist parties into, within and out of localized operational areas using light aircraft such as the otter.

Close support of ground forces with training-type aircraft capable of making air-to-ground attacks.

Photo reconnaissance in support of ground forces using present equipment and with infra-red and electronic equipment a possibility in future.

Air-to-air and air-to-ground communications.

Moving of men, material and equipment to support ground operations within a forward area.

NO CHANGES NEEDED

The commission said the auxiliary is capable of continuing to perform four duties without any changes in existing equipment:

Short-range transport in support of the air transport command.

Search operations.

Aid to civil authorities in event of a regional emergency or a disaster.

Rescue and mercy flights.

"The ability to perform these peacetime tasks, in the future as in the past, enables the RCAF auxiliary to provide useful return for a portion of the money expended on training it for its wartime role," the commission said.

The report also urged that the National Defence Act be amended to permit the callup of auxiliary units at the discretion of the government for periods exceeding three months for commitments less than a national emergency.

PLANNING REQUIRED

Both roles could be performed with present equipment. However, long - range planning should be started with a view to equipping the auxiliary with more suitable aircraft.

Judy LaMarsh Side-Steps Veto Query

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister LaMarsh side - stepped a Commons question Tuesday on whether Ontario has a veto over any future changes in the proposed Canada Pension Plan.

Eric Winkler (PC — Grey-Bruce) said his reading of the White Paper on the plan, tabled Monday, raises the question of an Ontario veto.

Miss LaMarsh suggested Mr. Winkler consider the White Paper further before asking questions requiring long answers.

In answer to another questioner, Mr. Pearson said the plan was on the government's legislative priority list. He hoped the Commons would be able to discuss it after completion of the flag debate, slated to get under way shortly.

Still missing is Richard's son, Jean. The search for the boy will be resumed this morning.

HUSBAND BOWS TO RULE BOOK

CHICAGO (AP)—Curt Moberg, 32-year-old carpenter, said Tuesday he loves his wife, Cecilia, 28, and rather than submit to a divorce, signed his wife's 31-point program for reconciliation.

Under the rules for the reconciliation, Moberg agreed to:

Hold a 40-hour job 52 weeks of the year; guarantee Cecilia $125 weekly; run up no personal debts; join no hunting or fishing clubs; let Cecilia handle all financial matters; joint shopping for family necessities; hold to a family budget; recognize Curt's immediate family comes first and that he will spend more time with his wife and two children; "co-operate in anything and everything"; "maintain an open door policy for all relatives and friends"; be dressed properly for any occasion and maintain "a 50-50 marriage contract at all times."

The Mobergs have been married four years.

divisions presents a most serious problem to the operational commands on the east and west coasts.

Mr. Hellyer announced Dec. 5 reserve squadrons at Toronto and Victoria would be disbanded as well as seven other reserve units at Prince Rupert, B.C., Victoria, Edmonton, Regina, London, Ont., Charlottetown and Halifax.

After Moberg signed the agreement, his lawyer, Norman Becker, told Judge Fred G. Suria in Circuit Court: "Judge, if I was subject to those rules I would jump off the building."

Becker is a bachelor.

Ottawa Aid May Be Asked To Preserve Wildlife Area

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government may be asked for help in efforts to prevent destruction of valuable wildlife breeding grounds in Alaska.

R. C. Passmore of Ottawa, executive director of the Canadian Wildlife Federation, said in a statement that his organization is seeking, along with similarly interested groups in the United States, to prevent construction of a proposed huge hydro-electric dam on the Yukon River at Rampart, about 100 miles northwest of Fairbanks.

He said the state-sponsored project endangers the lives of millions of waterfowl, fish and wild animals who eventually find their way to all parts of the continent.

The wildlife federation thinks the Canadian government may be in a position to prevent construction of the dam under the Treaty of Washington, signed in 1871. The treaty contains a clause guaranteeing that navigation of the Yukon River "shall forever remain free and open to Her Majesty's subjects."

A federal government spokesman has indicated Canada has been keeping a close eye on the dame project since it was first proposed several years ago. However he stressed that plans for it were still in the very early stages and that it had not yet been approved by U.S. authorities.

The Canadian Wildlife Federation's concern about the power project springs from a report on its possible effects just released by the U.S. fish and wildlife service.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Opening lead—nine of clubs.

Lew Mathe, Los Angeles star, gave a fine demonstration of his skill when he became declarer at four hearts in the accompanying hand. The deal was played in the men's national board-a-match team of four championship.

In board-a-match play, each deal constitutes a separate match, and the aim is to outscore the opposing team on that board in order to win the one match point involved. The margin by which the board is won —whether by 10 points or 1,000 points—makes no difference.

Mathe took the club lead with the king and played the jack of hearts, covered by the king. After cashing the A-Q-10, he led a diamond to the ten, the finesse succeeding, and returned to his hand with the ace of diamonds.

Now assured of twelve tricks, he decided to try for thirteen by attempting an unusual squeeze. Accordingly, he cashed two more trumps, discarding two clubs from dummy, and that brought about this position:

North
♠ Q 5
♦ K J

West
♠ J 9 4

East
♠ K 10
♣ Q J 5

South
♠ A 6
♣ 10 4

When Mathe now led a diamond to the king, East had to discard a club, and when dummy then cashed the jack of diamonds, East had no convenient discard to make. Whatever he discarded, South was bound to make the rest of the tricks. As a result of the squeeze, Mathe made seven for a score of 710 points.

But, despite this, Maathe lost the board! At the other table, North became declarer at three notrump. East led a spade which lost to the queen, and declarer then took successful finesses in hearts and diamonds and made thirteen tricks without a squeeze for a score of 720 points!
