EDWARD JARVIS HODGSON, surviving Executor of the last will and testament of DANIEL HODGSON, Plaintiff, and
LAWRENCE WHELAN, Defendant.

BY virtue of a Writ of Statute Execution to me directed, issued out of Her Majesty's Supreme Court of Judicature, at the suit of the said Edward Jarvis Hodgson, surviving Executor of the last will and testament of Daniel Hodgson, against the said Lawrence Whelan, I have taken and seized as the property of the above-named Defendant, Lawrence Whelan, the following property, namely: All that tract, piece and parcel of land, situate, lying and being on Lot 34, in Queen's County, in Prince Edward Island, bounded and described as follows, that is to say: Commencing at the north-west angle of Plot No. 37, on the east side of a road leading to Stags Head, thence west seven and one-half chains, or until it meets the east boundary of a tract of land now or lately in possession of John Auld; thence north three chains, or until it meets the east boundary of the said road; thence following the course thereof south twenty chains to the place of commencement, containing one hundred and forty six acres of land, a little more or less, being thus described in a certain Indenture of Lease made the 10th day of November, 1882, between Sir Graham G. Montgomery of the one part, and Neil McGinnis, of the other part.

Also—All that other tract, piece and parcel of land, situate, lying and being on Lot 34 aforesaid, bounded and described as follows, that is to say: Having a front of ten chains on the west side of the Frisdon Road, and running back west by the said Frisdon Road, to the place of commencement, containing two hundred and twenty acres, a little more or less.

Also—All that other tract, piece and parcel of land, situate, lying and being on Lot 34 aforesaid, bounded and described as follows, that is to say: By a line commencing on the west side of the Covehead Road, at a point ten chains south of the north boundary of a tract of one hundred and twenty-one and three-quarter acres of land, conveyed by the Commissioner of Public Lands to William Brown; it runs thence west fifty-eight chains and six links, or to a tract of seven and three-quarter acres assigned by said Lawrence Whelan to William Brown aforesaid; thence south three chains and one link, or until it reaches the road; thence north along the road to the place of commencement, containing eighteen acres and one rod of land, a little more or less.

Also—All that other tract, piece and parcel of land, situate, lying and being on Lot 34 aforesaid, bounded and described as follows, that is to say: By a line commencing on the east side of the Covehead Road, in the southern boundary of land conveyed by the Commissioner of Public Lands to William Woodruff; it runs thence east fifty-four chains; thence south three chains and one link, or until it reaches the north boundary of the said land; thence west to the road; thence north along the same to the place of commencement, containing fifty-four acres of land, a little more or less.

Also—All that other tract, piece and parcel of land, situate, lying and being on Lot 34 aforesaid, bounded and described as follows, that is to say: A block of eighty-five acres of land devised by John Auld, deceased, to his son, Edward Auld, bounded on the south by land now or lately in the occupation of Michael Landrigan's north division line, and running north by parallel lines to the lands now or lately in possession of Benjamin Hughes; bounded on the west by lands now or lately in the possession of Richard Tombs, and also by lands in the possession of the said Lawrence Whelan, and running east by parallel lines to the lands now or lately in possession of Edward Auld; sufficient distance to include an area of ten acres, as the same has been for some time used by the said Lawrence Whelan, in Queen's County.

Notes from Georgetown.

I saw this morning a summer graybird on a tall poplar singing very sweetly. Pretty early.

A few English sparrows put in an appearance here this winter for the first time, and continued during February and March. The chirping of these hardy little specimens of the feathered tribe makes one think our climate is not so cold after all.

Spruce trees, which point out winter routes on the ice, are dropping—another gentle reminder of spring.

The broad sheet of glib ice over the harbor was very excellent for skating several weeks during the winter, and that delightful exercise was much indulged in. Skaters frequently visited Montague, Panmure Island, Brudenell, etc., returning much pleased with the trip,—indeed extremely so in those beautiful moonlight nights! Simply (not softly) delicious!

The skating rink also was a pleasant resort for the young people for an hour or two in the winter evenings. It will be closed for this season in a few days, and the lovers of exercise mingled with pleasure anxiously ask what is to take the place of

About Money.

READ IT TO YOUR SCHOOL.

Some boys and girls have an idea that money can do almost anything, but this is a mistake. Money, it is true, can do a great deal, but it cannot do everything. I could name you a thousand things it cannot buy. It was meant for good, and it is a good thing to have, but all this depends on how it is used. If used wrongly, it is an injury rather than a benefit. Beyond all doubt, however, there are many things better than it, and which we cannot purchase, no matter how much we may have of it. If a man has not a good education, all his money cannot buy it for him. He can scarcely even make up for his early waste of opportunities. He may say, as I have heard of men saying, "I would give all I have if I had only had a good education and a well-trained mind;" but he will say it in vain. His money alone can't obtain it. Neither will wealth itself give a man or a woman good manners. Nothing, next to good health, is of more importance than easy, graceful, self-possessed manners. But they can't be had for mere money. A man who is what is called "shoddy," who has not taste and correct manners, will never buy them, though he would, no doubt, like to. They are not to be had in the market. They are nowhere for sale. You might as well try to buy sky, or cloud or sunbeams. Money can't purchase a good conscience. If a poor man, or a boy, or a girl—any one—has a clear conscience, that gives off a tone like a sound bell when touched by the hammer, then be sure he is vastly richer than the millionaire who does not possess such a conscience. Good principles are better than gold. All the gold of Golconda couldn't buy them for a man who hasn't them already.—Pennsylvania School Journal.

Take Care of Your Ears.

Never put anything into the ear for the relief of toothache.

Never attempt to apply a poultice to the inside of the canal of the ear.

Never drop anything into the ear unless it has been previously warmed.

Never use anything but a syringe and warm water for clearing the ears from pus.

Never strike or box a child's ear; this has been known to rupture the drum and cause incurable deafness.

Never wet the hair if you have any tendency to deafness; wear an oiled silk cap when bathing and refrain from diving.

Never scratch the ears with anything but the finger if they itch. Do not use the head of a pin, hair pins, pencil tips or anything of that nature.

Never put milk, fat or any oily substance into the ear for the relief of pain, for they soon become rancid and tend to incite inflammation. Simple warm water will answer the purpose better than anything else.

Never be alarmed if a living insect enters the ear. Pouring warm water into the canal will drown it, when it will generally come to the surface and can be easily removed by the fingers. A few puffs of smoke blown into the ear will stupefy the insect.

Never meddle with the ear if a foreign body, such as a bead, button or seed enters it; leave it absolutely alone, but have a physician attend to it. More damage has been done by injudicious attempts at the extraction of a foreign body than could ever come from its presence in the ear.—Health and Home.

Immigrants.

The Allan seamers Sardinian and Siberian are now on the way to Canada with 2,000 souls, a large proportion having capital, while others are joining friends. Equally large numbers follow in the next few weeks. The noticeable feature of the season's emigration promises to be that from the continent. Though the season has only just begun, the numbers who have already proceeded to Manitoba from the continent have increased 157 per cent. over 1887, 570 per cent. over 1886, 1,454 per cent. 1885, and the further prospects for this season are most gratifying. This is irrespective of the annually increasing emigration from Iceland.

TEA AT MONTAGUE.—Please bear in mind that on the 27th of June next the Tea of the season will be held at Montague, in aid of the Methodist Church, which it is expected will then be well towards completion. Notices of special attractions to the Tea will appear in the papers in due time. Im—mch15

Laws of Good Society.

It is a breach of etiquette, when in company to try to attract the attention of one person by any noise or signal.

It is a breach of etiquette to appear to have some privacy or mystery in company. To scratch your head, pare your nails or pick your teeth.

To sit or stand with your hat on while in the house.

It is rude to show uneasiness or to be fidgety and restless. Quietness, self-repose, is a mark of good breeding.

Never enter a private door without knocking.

No gentleman may refuse an apology, no matter how great the offence.

No gentleman may break an engagement, whether of pleasure or of business. Strict punctuality marks the gentleman.

It is ill-bred to speak of persons with whom you are but slightly acquainted by their given names.

It is a breach of etiquette for a lady to speak of a gentleman by his surname without a prefix. The doing so gives an impression of being low bred.

It is ill-bred to exaggerate. Exaggeration is first cousin to falsehood.

It is rude to be guilty of personalities in conversation. Personal remarks, no matter how keen, or witty, or humorous, cannot be anything but ill-bred.

It is proper for a gentleman to hand a lady a chair, to open a door for her, to pick up anything she has dropped, or to remove anything that is in her way, even though she be an entire stranger to him.

It is etiquette for a gentleman in passing a lady, where he must stand aside to give her space, to remove his hat and slightly incline his head. In such a case the lady should acknowledge the courtesy by a slight bow.

It is ill-bred, after having dressed yourself, to pay any further attention to your attire.

It is an offense to rise to take leave of a company in the midst of an interesting conversation though you have no personal lot in it.

When calling it is disrespectful to the hostess for one to offer to another the seat assigned to himself.

It is at least inconsiderate for a gentleman to discuss his business affairs with a lady, or for her to weary him with a recital of her domestic trifles.

Ladies and gentlemen not nearly related or engaged, may exchange books, flowers, music and confectionery. Costly presents are decidedly out of place.

It is etiquette on entering a room filled with people to bow slightly to the company in general before addressing individuals.

It is polite, on taking your seat at a meal, to make a respectful recognition of the one who is presiding.

It is in bad taste to depreciate the value of a gift, or to represent it as useless to one's self.

It is ill bred to speak of gifts you have made or of favors you have granted.

Civility to women is always and everywhere imperative.

To notice in any way a deformity or misfortune to the person is gross and unfeeling.

To wrangle with one's inferiors is undignified; to insult them is coarse.

An assumed air of importance will involve you in derision.

Display of knowledge is more pedantry. The truly learned are the most humble.

It is a gross violation of etiquette to contradict anyone.

To speak disparagingly of a woman is not commendable.

It is better to be deprived of company than form low associations.

Egotism is one of the most insidious and common of faults.

To enter a room noisily, slam the door or walk heavily indicates a lack of the silken sense.

Violent or abrupt movements in company are breaches of etiquette.

Neglect to call upon your friends is at once a breach of etiquette and an injury.

It is inexcusable to make a careless or frivolous reply to a serious remark or question addressed to you.

To blow the nose in public is unpardonable vulgarity—in company.

Sucking the teeth is a disgusting habit to indulge in public.

To urge a friend to drink after he has once declined is the act of a boor.

Both ladies and gentlemen should sedulously avoid strong perfumes.

It is the last limit of impropriety for a lady to call upon a gentleman at his place of business except upon a business mission.

"In private watch your thoughts; in society watch your tongue."

Two Great Finds.

The gas company which has been boring at St. Thomas, Ontario, for natural gas, struck a heavy flow at a depth of
