

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

AUGUST 14, 1886.

A New Opening for Fish.

Mr. Alex. Woods, the Canadian agent-general to the Australian colonies, has returned to Montreal after a visit to the lower provinces, where he interviewed the manufacturers and business men with a view to their establishing an export trade with that part of the Empire.

A Good Minister.

The Prince Albert Times, referring to the recent visit of the Minister of the Interior to the Northwest, said: "Mr. White deserves kindly consideration from the press of this country. He has taken more trouble to inform himself as to their requirements than any other Canadian minister has done, and many practical benefits have already been derived from the information thus gleaned."

Late Consideration.

The New York Sun says:—"The present scarcity of fish along our coast is creating alarm among those who fish for a living, and great disappointment and some indignation among the fishermen for sport."

Commercial Union.

Sir A. T. Galt has propounded a scheme of Commercial Union of the British Colonies. He proposes to form a Colonial Commercial League between the self governing Colonies, to which the United Kingdom and the Crown Colonies and India might become parties.

Bradlaugh and the Peers.

A London despatch says that Bradlaugh will ask a division of the house of commons on the 19th inst., on a sessional order declaring that the interference of peers in elections constitutes a high infringement of the liberties and privileges of the commons.

Robbery and Arson.

A man named Farmanze, from Rouen, France, who arrived in Montreal recently, brought with him 48,850 francs. While passing along Notre Dame street he was accosted by a youth, who informed him that his house was on fire.

The Firemen's Reception.

The adjourned meeting of firemen and citizens was held, as announced, in the Council Chamber last evening, and final arrangements made for welcoming the Halifax contingent. It was decided that the firemen should assemble at the Hook-and-Ladder Rooms, Grafton Street, at half-past four this afternoon, and at five o'clock form in procession and, headed by a band of music, march to Steam Navigation Co's. Wharf to await arrival of the Princess of Wales from Pictou.

In the evening there will be a torchlight parade. The firemen assemble at the Hook and Ladder Rooms at 7.30, and at 8 o'clock the procession starts. The Salvage truck, Hook and Ladder cart, and hose reels will be suitably decorated and occupy prominent positions. The line of march will be as follows: From Hook and Ladder Rooms down Grafton to Pownall street, along Pownall to Water, down Water to Queen, up Queen to Kent, down Kent to Prince, along Prince to Water, up Water to Great George, up Great George to Richmond, along Richmond to Queen, and up Queen to the Hook and Ladder Rooms.

The demonstration meets with the approval of all citizens, and the contributions to the reception fund are much larger than anticipated.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

ADVANTAGEOUS IN DYSPEPSIA. Dr. G. V. Dorsey, Piqua, Ohio, says: "I have used it in dyspepsia with very marked benefit. If there is a deficiency of acid in the stomach, nothing affords more relief, while the action on the nervous system is decidedly beneficial."

British Politics and Politicians.

The Daily Times, commenting on Lord Salisbury's speech at the mayor's banquet, says: "Lord Salisbury's speech fails to give promise of a new course in Parliament. It showed plainly that in his opinion the present course of the Irish disorder is a gross case of drastic coercion." The News speaks of a portion of Matthew's election address in 1874, in which he supports the Home Rule for an Irish parliament. It states that he has formed a Home Rule league. There is hope that Matthews may yet become a Home Ruler.

In the course of a Monday interview, the Archbishop of Dublin lately said: "The outlook I think is in one way as gloomy as gloomy can be. As for Home Rule it must come. Mr. Gladstone's bill, with the conflict that has arisen out of it, has made it impossible for the English Liberal party to go back, and I take it that it is the Liberal and not the Tory party that has the future of English politics in its hands. It would of course by no means surprise me if Home Rule came to us from the Tories, but come it will and that very soon. When I speak of a gloomy outlook, I am thinking rather of another question—the land question, and the trouble that I fear it has in store for us. What fools our Irish landlords have proved themselves to be. The land question is a plain, commercial question, nothing more and nothing less. It is a struggle between the landlords as a class, who insist on obtaining extravagantly exorbitant rents for the land, and the tenants as a class, who are unwilling, and indeed unable, to pay more than the land is really worth. Are you not aware that the difficulty as it now exists in England is far more serious than any that exists in Ireland? Or perhaps I may put it more accurately thus, that the difficulty in England would be greater and would be a fact insuperable and appalling if English landlords were as unwilling, as so many of the Irish landlords have shown themselves to be, to deal equitably with their tenants, and to make those reductions in their demands of rent which the present conditions of the agricultural interest render imperative. When I say imperative, I mean, of course, imperative in the sense that they are absolutely necessary if agriculture is not to end in bankruptcy. In England, as you know, there are hundreds and hundreds of farms for which no tenant can be found; farms which landlords would willingly hand over to any solvent tenant for even a nominal rent, and in many instances for no rent at all, merely to get rid of the obligation of paying local rates. Two or three days ago I happened to fall in with a return of reductions made by the Irish Land Courts since the passing of the Land Act of 1881; and they were something to this effect:—In the year 1881 the percentage of reduction was 19.6 per cent.; in 1883 it was 18.4; in 1884 it was 16.7. You are, of course, aware that without Land Acts or Land Courts the rents in England have been reduced during the same period on a much more extensive scale. It is the blind obstinacy of our Irish landlords to class that is keeping our unhappy country in a state of chronic confusion."

MARRIED.

In the 12th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. Wm. Harrison, Mr. Walter McEwart, of Westborough, Mass., to Miss Margaret Adams, third daughter of Mr. William Adams, Charlottetown.

SCOLAR TRADERS

Mr. T. D. Sullivan, Parnellite member of Parliament, at the last fortnightly meeting of the National League, made a speech in which he maintained that until tenantry in Ireland had sufficient food and clothing for themselves and families their landlords could not have just claims to rent. Mr. Sullivan counselled the Irish people to act according to the law of self preservation, which, he reminded them, was the first law of nature. The Belfast rioting, he argued, was based upon prejudice and feelings that had grown up under the encouraging influence of "foreign misrule," and was utterly at variance with the wishes of the real Irish people.

LADY EVELYN CAMPBELL'S MARRIAGE—BRILLIANT SCENE IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

Mr. James Ballie Hamilton, of New York, was married on the 10th inst., in Westminster Abbey to Lady Evelyn Campbell, the fourth daughter of the Duke of Argyll. The ceremony was witnessed by a large assembly of distinguished persons. Among them were the Duke of Argyll and his family, the Marquis of Lorne, the Marquis of Salisbury and his wife, the Earl and Countess Percy, the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone, United States Minister Phelps and Mrs. Phelps, James Russell Lowell, the Duke and Duchess of Northumberland, the Earl of Selborne, Canon Liddon, Lord and Lady George Hamilton and the bishops of St. Albans and Southwell, and more than two hundred others.

The ritual was accompanied by a full choral service. The bride's dress was of white satin. There were ten bridesmaids. They were attired of gowns made alike of white China silk, and during the marriage ceremony knelt together behind the bride before a most beautifully decorated altar; forming the central group in one of the prettiest pictures ever beheld in the Abbey. George Smith Baden-Powell, member of parliament for Liverpool, acted as the groom's best man.

One feature of the service was the substitution for the organ of the vociferation, invented by Mr. Hamilton, and which was played with fine effect.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little sufferer awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.

Fatal Accident.

A LITTLE BOY CRUSHED TO DEATH AT INDIANTOWN, N. B.

An accident occurred at Indiantown early last evening which cost a young son of Jas. Collins his life. Another little fellow who was playing with Collins at the time narrowly escaped death. The boys were playing on Bridge street. Two old davits were standing up against the foundry, and the boys were climbing about them, when one of the davits fell. It weighs about 175 lbs., and in falling a portion of it struck Collins behind the right ear. The little fellow was knocked down, and the heavy davit fell on top of him, crushing his body considerably. Higgins saw the davit move and jumping aside was only touched by it. The accident was seen by Mrs. Brakley, Collins' grandmother, who instantly called out to several men who hurried to the spot. There they found Collins lying across the sidewalk with the heavy davit across his chest. Blood was streaming from his ears, nose and mouth, and his head lay in a pool of it. The davit was removed and the unfortunate little fellow taken to his home near by. It was evident that the boy was fatally injured, and it was with difficulty that he breathed. Mr. McLean, druggist, was called in, and Dr. Gilchrist sent for. Mr. McLean washed the blood from the injured youth's face, but he expired before the physician arrived. It is believed that the base of the skull was crushed. Collins was his mother's pet and was beloved by all.—St. John Sun.
