LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Legislative Council Election.

SIR,—At a Grit convention, held at Charlottetown on the 2nd inst., the inevitable Richard Smith, of Pownal, and a man named Vessey, were chosen as candidates to lead the forlorn hope in the coming contest against the Conservative nominees, Messrs. Nicholson and Ross. That the Opposition might have made a more fortunate selection, no one will deny. Even though conscious of a defeat on the 30th, it was certainly very unwise on the part of the Grit wirepullers to allow the voters to know at the outset that they mean to play a losing game. If they were sincere in their professions of interest in the people's welfare, they would allow the Liberal-Conservative candidates for this District to be returned without the vexing turmoil of a hopeless contest. A factious opposition merely incurs worry, loss of time and consequent expense upon the country. Mr. Richard Smith, of Pownal, has been many a time and oft before the people of this District as a candidate for legislative honors He is well known to both parties as a voter and as a candidate. The intelligent electors will, no doubt, show their appreciation of his stability, genius and intrinsic worth on the day of election. We have not had the good fortune of knowing Mr. Vessey or his political antecedents, and consequently cannot tell whether his experience on both sides of politics as a voter and as a candidate is as extensive as that of his illustrious colleague, if so, his political worth will be acknowledged at the proper time and in the proper way. Mr. Smith after being time and again rejected by the people has had the temerity to press himself once more to the front or has allowed himself to be pressed there by others. Perhaps as has been shrewdly guessed by many his candidature became a necessity in order to get rid of some grossly ignorant individuals whose vanity and pomposity are causing this district a great deal of annoyance.

Happily political rancor and blind party feeling have not carried the electors of Belfast and Fort Augustus to such wild extremes as ignorant and unworthy political aspirants imagine. Political knaves and weather cocks who vote all sides and appear as candidates in the Grit interest at one time and in the Conservative interest at another are not just the kind of men in whom a constituency feel like reposing their trust. The day is far distant when the shaky and unreliable nominee of a miserable clique and his nondescript colleague will be honored by a seat in the Legislative Council. Messrs. Nicholson and Ross are men of stability, consistency and integrity. They are well known to the electors and worthy of their confidence. Even their opponents can bring no railing accusation against them further than to call them Tories. The Opposition candidates will have a rough road to travel and will come in behind. The people want men who will come up to the required political standard. They want men of consistency and honesty of purpose. Men of heart and brains and not empty wind-bags. Alas, poor Richard! Shifting and variable as the sands of the sea shore has been thy checkered political career! On the 30th of July the unfortunate dupes of a miserable Grit faction will receive their merited reward. The summer winds of that evening will waft in dirge-like moans along the line the sad and solemn wail of the friends of the slain. No garland will deck their memory and no star of pity shine over their political tombs.

A Balkan Storm Brewing.

DIPLOMATS KEPT AT CONSTANTINOPLE WAITING FOR IT TO BREAK.

A recent despatch from Berlin says there are growing signs of an impending storm in the Balkans. The situation is so grave that the holiday vacations of the leading officials of the foreign office have been stopped. Herr Von Radowitz, the German ambassador at Constantinople who was about to start for Kissengen, has been requested to remain at his post. Sir W. A. White, the British ambassador to the Porte, who was just beginning a furlough to last several months, hurried back to Constantinople, after having a long interview with the Emperor of Austria. The Czar has also countermanded the conge of M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador.

A momentous change appears to have occurred in Germany's policy in the Balkans. Instead of pursuing the semi-neutral diplomacy of Prince Bismarck, the Emperor has directed Herr Radowitz to take the initiative in advising the Porte how to meet the contending claims of Bulgaria. The Emperor's scheme of settlement, according to the accepted report in diplomatic circles, involves the displacing of Prince Ferdinand and the substitution of Prince Karl of Sweden as ruler of Bulgaria in his stead, and, also, an arrangement of the Russian indemnity by capitalizing the amount through the international council of administration which now controls the Turkish loans.

A general explosion in the Balkans may occur before the powers have time to consider Emperor William's proposals. Greece and Servia have added to the general embroglio by each presenting notes to the Porte stating that any concessions of Bulgaria would require similar concessions to the Greek and Servian nationalities.

It is estimated that the regular insurance companies of the United States will disburse during 1890 the sum of $83,000,000 in death, endowment and dividend claims. It is an average of $1000 for every minute in the year.

London has a boy cartoonist. He is only 10 years old, but is said to do remarkable work. He lately made a sketch of Mr. Gladstone and, sending it to him, by return mail received a letter in the "Grand Old Man's" own handwriting thanking the little artist and wishing him every success in his future operations.

Prof Totten, of Yale, has actually discovered the date of Joshua's long day. By a series of calculations he proves to his satisfaction that the juncture of the sun and moon, which marked Joshua's long day, took place at 11.13 a. m., exactly 3435 full lunar years ago, or, in other words, in the 365th Sabbatic year.

Last year France herself produced only 23,000,000 hectolitres of wine and she alone consumed 45,000,000 hectolitres. As to how the necessary amount for exportation is made, the foreigner can console himself with the fact that he is more apt to get good wine than the Frenchman, the genuine article standing transportation much better than adulteration.

The lottery business in Louisiana is settled for the present, the victory being with the lottery men. The lottery bill has been passed, the state accepting $1,250,000 a year for the privilege. In the meantime the question of accepting the bill as passed is to be submitted to a vote of the white population of the state. If a majority is against it the lottery men agree to withdraw from the state and make no further effort.

In a stone quarry near Kertsch, in South Russia, a catacomb has been discovered in the form of a vast ball, divided into several compartments by thirteen columns, adorned artistically with ornamented figures. On one of them is written in Greek round-hand: "The Judge Sorak built this sanctuary on a new site, without removing any of the human remains found there. Let no one touch or desecrate my body after my death, for he who does so will never enter the Spirit Kingdom." This inscription is surrounded with drawings of the human heart, and surmounted by two winged genii holding floral emblems.

Literary Notes.

"Canada's Summer" is the title of a very attractive holiday number of Saturday Night, for a copy of which THE EXAMINER has to thank the Sheppard Publishing Company, Toronto. "Canada's Summer" is a finely-printed and beautifully illustrated volume of 32 pages, exclusive of advertising pages and cover. The reading matter, both prose and verse, is of a wholesome kind, and is entertaining as well as instructive. Single copies may be obtained for 25 cents, on application to the publishers, or at the Diamond Bookstore.

The July number of "Wallace's Monthly" is at hand. As usual it is replete with matter highly interesting to horsemen.

Swimming Niagara.

A despatch of July 4 says that Samuel Smith, of Lewiston, N. Y., and John L. Soules, of North Muskegon, Mich., were to have endeavored to navigate the rapids of Niagara River in a boat, and if that was wrecked, by swimming the rest of the distance, but Smith weakened. Soules undertook the feat alone, but as someone had sent his boat adrift during the night, he had to enter the water in swimming suit and cork jacket. By supreme efforts he managed to avoid the rocks until the railway suspension bridge had been passed. Below the bridge are two dangerous rocks, and against one of these he was thrown, but he managed to avoid the other. After getting clear he disappeared from view for a few seconds, but struggled to the surface and was quickly carried to a point opposite the incline railway where an immense billow threw him into shallow water, and he was assisted ashore. It was found that in the collision with the rock one of his legs had been disabled, and he could not re-enter the water and continue the journey through the whirlpool rapids, the most dangerous part of the trip. Had he gone fifty yards further he would have reached the spot where Captain Webb met his death.
