

The Daily Examiner

NOVEMBER 20, 1885.

A Week After.

A WEEK has elapsed since it was announced that the smallpox was in Charlottetown. A great deal has been done in that time, and public confidence has been to a large extent restored.

In the week that is past, thousands of persons have been vaccinated, and they have thus barred the door against the disease.

False Information.

THE Moncton Times publishes the following paragraph: "A letter received from a Moncton gentleman yesterday, from P. E. Island, states that business is almost entirely suspended in the infected districts."

A Moncton despatch to the St. John Sun says: "Information received here is to the effect that the people of P. E. Island are panic-stricken."

To those who know from personal observation how calm and quiet the people of Charlottetown are, these reports seem very ridiculous. There is no panic here.

War in the East.

THE Turkish Principalities in history are somewhat like the crater of a great volcano in nature. They are always the seat of perturbation and fire; and occasionally they burst out in a grand eruption, and shake the greatest nations of the world.

After all his shamming and nonsense, Riel went to his death like a man. His fate ought to convey the lesson to all born agitators that there is a point beyond which it is very dangerous to go.

The Seat of War.

The population of Bulgaria is extremely mixed. Of the whole about a million and a half consist of Bulgarians proper. Half a million are Osmani Turks. The Tartars number from 80,000 to 100,000, the Circassians from 70,000 to 90,000, the Albanians from 60,000 to 70,000, the Roumelians from 35,000 to 40,000, the Gypsies from 20,000 to 25,000, the Jews are about 10,000, the Armenians about the same, the Greeks about 8,000, the Russians from 10,000 to 15,000, the Servians from 4,000 to 5,000, and there are also a few Germans, Italians, Arabs, etc.

THE SMALLPOX.

NEW CASES.

From the cases reported yesterday, the following have developed, and orders were issued to have them taken out to the hospital:

Mr. Corney, Long Street. Mrs. Hugh Smith, (McNally Lane), Pownall St. A son of Mr. Fred Ailing, Great George Street.

NOT CASES.

Arthur Strong's case is pronounced not smallpox, and the family have been released from quarantine.

The Croak family also are pronounced free from infection.

SUSPECTED CASES.

Two or three suspected cases were reported to-day; but until they are verified by the Health Officer, such cases will not in future be registered in THE EXAMINER.

ANOTHER DEATH.

Miss Gunn, whose case was the most complicated of any in the hospital, died this forenoon. She belonged to this city. Her remains will be buried to-day.

CONDITION OF PATIENTS TO-DAY.

A boy and girl of the Thompson family are very ill. The case of Mr. Duncan's child is reported progressing favorably.

VACCINE POINTS.

Mr. George E. Hughes has been appointed Agent for a reliable Vaccines Company in New York. He receives a fresh supply by mail daily. All orders addressed to him at the Apothecaries Hall will receive prompt attention.

EASILY MISTAKEN IN THE EARLY STAGES.

A medical man writes:—"In the early stages, smallpox may be confounded with other eruptive diseases, especially with measles, which disease its eruption in the first stages somewhat resembles. This mistake, however, can scarcely occur if the distinct characters of the constitutional symptoms of the diseases are kept in view; when the eruption has advanced a little there can be no confusion."

CHURCHES AND CHAPELS.

At a meeting of the Board of Health, held this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, the following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That the Board of Health deem it still necessary for the preservation of the public health of this city, that its citizens should not at this time meet together for public worship.

Do hereby Order, That all Churches, Chapels and Sunday Schools in the City and Common be closed on Sunday next, the 22nd November, instant.

And hereby Forbid, The congregations of the people in such Churches, Chapels and Sunday Schools, and order all constables, if necessary, to prevent the same.

HOW THEY DID IT IN SOURIS.

A leading merchant writing from Souris shows the effectual means they are taking at that place to prevent the spread of smallpox. He says: "We have to-day closed all the hotels and liquor places in Souris for the present, and have notified the railway, so that during the next eight or ten days, or until cases that may be coming on may be found out, we intend to be very strict. We fined two men yesterday and imprisoned them for 12 days for a violation of our rules, and we to-day, found a man the worse of liquor, (after warning all the liquor dealers). We have found where he got the liquor, and to-morrow morning we will haul the dealer up and lay him out to dry for the next ten or twelve days. We have no new cases of smallpox, and the Welsh girl is progressing favorably. We are doing our living best to stamp out smallpox here and hope to succeed."

NOTES.

Dr. Conroy vaccinated the inmates of the poor Asylum to-day.

All trains arriving in Summerside are inspected by the Health Officer—Dr. Jarvis.

Drs. Bagnall and Robins have returned from the country where they have been vaccinating.

We learn that the doctors pronounce the disease of which Miss Larkin is suffering at Kensington to be chicken pox.

A family named McMillan, who resided on Long Street, moved after the smallpox scare to Brackley Point. Two of the children took ill yesterday and Dr. Jenkins was sent for. He pronounced the youngest of the two sick of smallpox, and the other suffering from symptoms of the disease.

The yellow flag has been removed from the City Hotel, Great George Street. No disease existed there, but as a clerk in the Store of W. E. Dawson, Esq., boarded with Capt. Nicholson, the proprietor, the Board of Health thought it advisable to quarantine the hotel for a few days.

It was currently reported that smallpox existed in the family of Mr. Phillip Foy, Queen Square. It is needless to say the report was incorrect, as the following certificate will show:

CHARLOTTETOWN, Nov. 17, 1885. I certify that I have inspected the boarding house of Mr. Phillip Foy, called Farmers Boarding House. The inmates are all healthy and there is no suspicion of infectious disease.

J. T. JENKINS, Health Officer.

What a Frederickton Man Thinks of California.

A young gentleman, a native of Frederickton, N. B., who left here about nine months ago, and has since been travelling through different parts of the Western States of late, has been at Los Angeles, in California, and in a private letter to the writer, gives the following opinion of that Western country. He says:—"Things are more than dull all over the lower part of California, and every man who has a dollar needs to reckon it as a hundred cents. The Southern Pacific Railway Company, by false representations, have induced so many to come here that everything is overcrowded. Plenty of people who come here with a little money, say up to $1000, were victimized by land agents, who gullied them out of their last dollar. One thing, I must say, for neat, strong and blasphemous language, these old Californians take the whole bakery. I thought I had heard and become even accustomed to the worst profanity, but the expressions I hear in this place every day make me tremble. The habit, however, is so general that no one seems to pay any attention to this vulgar language."

The Execution of Riel.

PRESS COMMENTS.

The Toronto World maintains editorially that Riel was justly condemned and executed; that the French-Canadians who sympathize with him advertise themselves as unnecessary and unintelligent slaves of prejudice, and as men not fit to be entrusted with any position requiring breadth of view and firmness of touch, and that the Globe and those for whom it speaks have acted with shocking indecency in trying to get into power over Riel's grave.

The Toronto Globe says: The whole of the Northwest trouble might have been prevented if Sir John Macdonald had not misgoverned the Northwest, and holds him directly responsible for the rebellion, for the burnings, murders and loss of life in battle, for the waste of public resources and for the execution of Riel and the condemned Indians. It adds that blood enough has been shed and that the sentence of the Indians should now be commuted.

The Toronto Mail says Riel met his fate like a man of courage, not insane, and adds that had he taken Pere Andre's advice a year ago it would have been well for him. Now that justice has been done, the excitement in Quebec appears to have suddenly ceased. The Rouge demagogues are still at work, but the good sense and patriotism of the people are not likely to be disturbed by their base appeals. In this province but one feeling prevails—a feeling of pity for the miserable man who had so grossly outraged the law that the exercise of executive clemency in his case would have been a menace to public safety.

The Montreal Witness says: Whatever may remain to be said for or against Riel, no one can ever again reproach him as a coward. He met his fate with unquestionable courage. He seems to have been an ill-balanced enthusiast—one of a very dangerous sort, who in more than one or two particulars, resembled in a weak way the false prophet of the African Arabs. Like the Mahdi, he roused the religious enthusiasm of his followers without submitting to their Church. Like him, he claimed and imagined himself to possess direct inspiration, which was, at times, of a kind better adapted to oriental gravity than to the western sense of the ludicrous. We can imagine an eastern prophet telling that vision of the bucket, and awaking none but the most profound religious feelings in his hearers. Like the Mahdi, his aspiration was to commence in an unheard of wilderness and gradually gather strength, till the Queen of England and the Pope of Rome would be shaken in their seats. The world was scarce large enough for his designs. The point of difference was that he had neither the ability nor the materials on which to base the first beginnings of success.

Le Courier du Canada of Quebec takes a different view of Riel and his fate from that of most of its French contemporaries. It says that it would do injustice to its convictions if it did not regret the execution under the actual circumstances, but it did not feel inclined to elevate his tragic end into the dignity of a national question, and it feels convinced that those who take this view of it commit a serious error. It requires courage to tell the truth, when the general sentiment is against us. Riel on the scaffold does not personify for us the French Canadian race, nor even the Metis. Let thinking people reflect on the situation. Riel played a terrible game and lost. Was this unfortunate man without reproach? Was the man just executed an innocent one? Events are too recent to render it necessary for us to weigh this point or discuss the acts of one who is now before his God. This is certain, that his acts have been condemned and his motives reproved by the highest tribunals.

NOTES.

Not the promissory, but facts about WELCOME SOAP, an article that does not contain one particle of the adulterations used to reduce the cost of "Pure Goods," but does possess the value of legitimate Washing Qualities, the demand for which proves the advantage gained by the use of the genuine over Soap of doubtful character. None should be deceived even by Red and Yellow Wrappers, or any of the imitations of the WELCOME, as a pair of clasped hands is stamped on every bar. Made by CURTIS, DAVIS & CO.
